APS DROP DEMAND FOR RACE EQUALITY

K TO ABOLISH L FORTIFICATION N PACIFIC OCEAN

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HAMA, Oct. 16.—The Japanese delegates to the Disarmament Conference sailed for America on the [illegible] this afternoon after having received their instruc- [illegible] last moment, following a Cabinet meeting lasting [illegible] night. Although the instructions to the dele- [illegible] been made public, they are, in brief:

The nation desires to maintain the minimum naval strength necessary to assure the defense of the country and it is willing to reduce its strength to that agreed upon by all the powers.

The present army strength is based on the minimum necessary for the protection of Japan's nationals at home and abroad, but if the neighboring countries are placed on a better basis Japan is willing to reduce its troops proportionately or to withdraw them from Asia.

Japan desires an agreement for the abolition of offensive armament in the Pacific and prohibiting also future armament such as the defenses contemplated for several of the islands.

The continuation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance to a three-power treaty with America, or a five-power treaty, including France and Italy, guaranteeing the peace of the Pacific. In this event, the British alliance will be abrogated.

An open door for all mandated territories.

A harmonious agreement with the other powers for the territorial integrity of China, including the withdrawal of foreign troops and the abolition of extraterritoriality.

SHANTUNG BARRED.

The Shantung and other issues covered by the twenty-one demands are to be considered as facts accomplished and hence beyond the scope of the conference.

Financial relief for China through a consortium.

The Siberian question is pending. Japan conducting negotiations with the Chita government direct, hence it is undiscussable.

Harmonious action with reference to the Chinese Eastern Railway.

An understanding with the powers regarding Manchuria, etc., since by the closing of the doors of America and Australia to Japanese immigrants some place must be provided for Japan's rapidly increasing home population. Mongolia, Manchuria and Siberia, with their sparsely-populated territories, afford a place for the Japanese, but if an agreement is reached, the open door in these countries is pledged.

DROP RACE EQUALITY.

Japan is prepared to drop the race equality issue at the Washington Conference on Limitation of Armaments and Far Eastern Questions. Instead, its delegates will concentrate upon obtaining an understanding with the powers permitting the settlement of Japan's vast excess population in Manchuria, Mongolia and Siberia.

If this understanding is obtained, Japan will not oppose the closing of the doors of the United States and Australia to its immigrants. Japan is OPEN GRAVES OF VIKINGS.

Disturb Sleep of a Thousand Years.

Hairy-Faced Sea Rovers Found With Winged Helmets in Far-Off Greenland.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—Shades of the ancient Vikings, of faces mostly hair and the fiery stare of the salt-tanned sea rovers, visions of the striped sails of the historic galleys and illusions of the conquering fleets that swept across the seas to the Far Northland centuries ago, lurked in the cabin of the steamer Vesla, which docked here today from Greenland, as Capt. Apold told a tale rivalling the most thrilling pages of "The Frozen Pirate."

The story was of the unearthing of wonderfully preserved bodies of Vikings from frozen graves in Greenland, where for probably more than 1000 years they had lain secure from possible decay and from the meddling curiosity of countless generations in the wake of civilization. The discovery was made by exploring physicians who had been sent to Ivigtut, Greenland, by the Danish government to attend the families of Kryolite miners in the vicinity.

Protected from possible ravaging by bears, the bodies were covered by pieces of heavy stone. There in a solid frozen mass they retained the appearance of being a short time dead. Unlike the mummies of ancient Egypt, the forms and flesh of these Vikings were not shrivelled nor wasted. Rather, they seem as in a peaceful sleep. Lying at full length, wearing their coats of mail and winged helmets and grasping their warring javelins, they had all the appearance of weary warriors snatching a short rest following a battle.

According to Capt. Apold, who sailed for this port shortly after this discovery, he believes further excavation would be immediately started and undoubtedly much may be learned before long of the ancient colonies of the land of ice and snow whose descendants have been wiped out or absorbed by the Esquimaux.

MANY AMERICANS GOING TO MEXICO.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 16.—Americans are returning to Mexico in larger numbers than at any previous time since the outbreak of the revolution in the fall of 1910. But there is an absence of old and familiar faces on the streets of the capital.

For the most part the newcomers are new to the country, to its business problems and interests and to the political and social questions which play such an important role in the life of the Mexican people.

NEW FLEET IN PACIFIC.

British Will Base at Singapore.

Admiralty Plans 'Armada 'to Equal Japan's, Larger Than Our Flotilla.

Astonishment in Washington at Decision; Strategists Not Surprised.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. — Decision by the British Admiralty to place in the Pacific Ocean a fleet, based on Singapore, virtually equal to the Japanese fleet and far in excess in strength of the naval force of the United States in that part of the world, has occasioned astonishment in Washington.

While official comment is discreetly withheld, the view, except among alarmists, is that the British decision is a most natural one, easily foreseen and reached on the same grounds that led the Navy Department to transfer half of the Atlantic Fleet to the Pacific two years ago.

In the official view here, the defeat of Germany removed from the Atlantic substantially the only serious menace to the peace of any nation bordering upon it. Only the United States and Great Britain now maintain powerful fleets in the Atlantic and the idea of possible war between these two nations is so remote in the minds even of military men as to lack justification for the maintenance of costly naval units for such a purpose.

INSPIRING MOTIVE.

Now, the underlying, inspiring motive for the convening of the conference of the powers in Washington November 11 to consider the Pacific problem and the limitation of armaments, is merely a recognition of the world-known fact that if there is to be any theater of international conflict of note in the immediate future, it must be in the Pacific, where international policies have not been established by agreement. The situation which calls for a strengthening of Japan's navy and for movement of the American and British fleets into the Pacific, is the same condition which impels a conference and an agreement which will remove the possibility of their use at some future date.

The naval strategists of this government recognized the inevitable trend of events two years ago by sending half the Atlantic Fleet to the Pacific.

CONGRESS INACTIVE.

Ever since that time the Navy has urged on Congress the necessity of creating sufficient naval bases in the Pacific to house the whole United States fleet if necessary; the present facilities are not sufficient to port half of it adequately.

Congress has refused to appropriate the money to meet this demand and public sentiment throughout the country has opposed it.

Great Britain now has adopted the very plan of action proposed for the American Navy two years ago, but which has been denied by Congress up to this time.

It remains to be seen how far the Washington conference can go in removing the justification for aggressive armaments in the Pacific, how far it can go in mitigating the abvious reasons for armament developments there, but it is already clear that the conference cannot entirely remove the necessity of the maintenance of naval units there, where economic development is progressing from infancy to maturity.

Painter Jailed for Attack on Mother-in-Law

A. G. Keene, a painter, was placed in the City Jail early this morning on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, and Mrs. Jennie Rowe, Keene's mother-in-law, aged 53 years, was treated at the Receiving Hospital for a severe laceration and bruise on the face and back of the head said to have been inflicted by Keene in a quarrel which took place between Keene, his wife and his wife's mother at 258 North Fremont avenue.

Mrs. Rowe told Officers Barnes and Box of the police flying squad, who investigated, that Keene had been drinking and mistreating his wife. When she attempted to calm her son-in-law, the aged woman said, he struck her with a large glass vase and beat her with his fists. The officers kept the vase for evidence. Both Keene and his wife, the officers said, admitted having quarreled. Mrs. Keene said her husband was drunk and did not know what he was doing, the officers stated.

SEEKS TO ESCAPE; KILLED

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 16.—A negro, said to be Charles Adams, wanted in Louisiana for the alleged murder of his wife, was shot and killed at Blythe, Riverside county, today, while attempting to escape after his arrest by City Marshal Le Barron of Blythe, according to advices reaching the Sheriff's office here tonight. It was reported that while being taken to jail by Marshal Le Barron the prisoner jumped from the officer's automobile when informed of the charge against him. Le Barron and other officers opened fire and the negro fell dead.

TRAIN HITS AUTO; TWO DIE

CANTRIL (Iowa) Oct. 16.—Two men are dead and three are seriously injured as the result of a grade-crossing crash near here today in which a train struck an automobile containing five former service men returning from a military funeral. Ward Cretchen, cashier of the State Savings Bank of Cantril, and Charles Hyde, a laborer, were killed.

TAXI DRIVER ROBBED

After he was ordered to drive to 415 Court street late last night, W. J. Leonard, driver of a Black and White taxicab, reported to the police that he was held up and robbed by his passenger and another man who had been waiting in the shadows of the street. The bandits covered Leonard with guns while they took $15 from his pockets.

PISTOL FIGHT; TWO DEAD

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—A policeman and a former policeman were killed and three persons wounded in a pistol fight in a West Side business men's club today, following a quarrel said to have started when some men charged the policeman with being a bootlegger.

She will take her husband's body to California for burial.

GERMAN HYSTERIA ENDS.

After Three Days of Gloom and Protesting, Begins to Analyze What Nation Loses in Silesia.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—There will be no crisis, Cabinet or otherwise, at present. After three days of hysteria, frantic protesting and gloom, Germany's Upper Silesian question today took a turn to sober consideration and statistical analysis of just what Germany loses with the slice of Silesia awarded to Poland, and equally sober speculation of what economic, financial and other difference it may make to Germany.

Germany has virtually abandoned hope of a revision or a stay of execution of the League council's decision. Discounting her loss, Germany, on the authority of her own experts, believes she is losing 86 per cent of the Upper Silesian anthracite coal deposits, or 42 per cent of all Germany's anthracite deposits.

LOSES COAL AND ZINC.

The situation may be stated thus: Germany loses 64 per cent of the Upper Silesian production, to wit, sixty-seven anthracite coal mines, which last year produced about 32,000,000 tons. She also loses all her Upper Silesian zinc production, or 60 per cent of Germany's total zinc production. There is less statistical certainty regarding the industrial loss, but it is believed to be about 63 per cent of the Upper Silesian iron industries production, or approximately 1,500,000 tons of iron and steel products.

PART OF COUNT'S ESTATE.

In the Pless district Germany loses, it is estimated, 44,000,000,000 tons of anthracite, this estimate being based on coal veins having a minimum depth of 1500 meters.

Although Germany is the loser by the decision, there is interest in the persons and corporations most affected. The list is a long one, but the most popular interest is felt in the fact that the bulk of the vast coal and industrial estates belonging to Count Guido Henckel, Prince von Donnersmarck and all members of his family, all fall to Poland's share. There is intense speculation as to the fate of properties close to the supposed new line.

LONDON CHEERS PERSHING.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Gen. Pershing, who comes to take part in the ceremonies attending tomorrow the laying of the Congressional Medal on the tomb of Britain's unknown soldier, arrived from Paris tonight. He was met by a reception committee from the government departments.

The general was greeted by Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, Secretary for War, who introduced him to the others, while hundreds of onlookers applauded.

The general entered a limousine accompanied by his aides and as the car passed through the gates and encountered the crowds hearty cheers were given. Gen. Pershing went to the American Embassy, where he will stay and later was a guest of the Ambassador and Mrs. Harvey at a dinner party.

The "Star Spangled Banner," rendered by the Welsh Guards Band and the cheering of thousands of men and women, boys and girls, greeted the composite battalion from Coblenz, when the special train rolled into Victoria Station two hours after Gen. Pershing arrived. The battalion consists of 450 men.

Approaches to the station were jammed with people and the streets were packed. The Americans were cheered everywhere.

At the Duke of York's barracks in Chelsea, where the Americans will be guests of the Territorial Army Association of London, the battalion sat down to an English-American dinner of roast mutton, potatoes and hot mince pie in a great hall, topped with six large American flags. Forty girls in blue acted as waitresses.

RAILWAY STRIKE AIMED AT GOVERNMENT; IGNORE ORDER OF LABOR BOARD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Final arrangements for a general railroad strike intended to tie up the nation's transportation systems through a walkout of 2,000,000 employees rapidly were nearing completion tonight with the day's developments bringing two important changes in original plans. Foremost was a decision not to include the Pennsylvania lines and the Erie Railroad in the carriers on which the first walkout is scheduled to begin at 6 o'clock a.m. October 30.

The San Diego and Arizona Railroad was added to the first of the four groups into which the unions have devided roads for strike purposes and it was decided to order the three succeeding groups out at forty-eight-hour intervals instead of twenty-four. Under this plan with the men on the roads in group No. 1 walking out October 30, the strike would be in full effect November 5.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad also was dropped from the first group, according to the list given out by union leaders.

REASSIGNMENT COMPLETE.

These changes were said by union leaders to complete reassignment of roads to the first group on which walkouts would take place and the following was made known as the official list of carriers in that group:

Kansas City Southern, Missouri Pacific, St. Louis Southwestern (Cotton Belt), International and Great Northern, Texas and Pacific, Southern Pacific (Atlantic system) including Houston, East and West, Texas and Houston (Texas Central), Southern Pacific (Pacific system), San Diego and Arizona, Chicago and Northwestern, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul (except Chicago, Terre Haute and Southeastern); Northern Pacific, Chicago Great Western; Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, Southern Railway Lines, east and west; Seaboard Air Line; Virginian Railroad.

While no official information was forthcoming as to what group the Pennsylvania lines would be assigned, it was understood that they would be placed in group 3, on which the walkouts are to start November 3. All walkouts are to begin at 6 a.m., standard time.

TRANSFER UNEXPLAINED.

Transfer of the Pennsylvania from group one was unexplained by union leaders but caused considerable surprise as that road has been considered by the unions as the most antagonistic to them and it was believed the first strike would be ordered on it.

By midnight tonight Chicago had been deserted by virtually all leaders of the Big Four Brotherhoods and the Switchmen's Union of North Rail System Ten Times as Large as England's.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—The American railway system now threatened with a strike is ten times larger than the British railway system, which recently was the scene of the world's last great railroad strike.

Two years ago operating revenues of the United States railroads stood at $5,184,000,000 and operating expenses ran to $4,419,000,000. Te average number of miles operated was 233,991.

Number of revenue passengers carried the first half of last year was 597,266,432 and freight tonnage handled amounted to 1,081,645,120 tons.

NEW YORK PREPARES TO GET FOOD SUPPLY.

PICKPOCKET SEASON ON.

"Frisking Janes" in East Active.

New York Police Department Get Busy on Trail of "Lady Dips."

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The pickpocket season has opened and, judging from complaints pouring into police headquarters, it may prove a profitable one.

Superintendent of Police Enright, however, has announced that he will meet their offensive with some new and, he hopes, successful attacks. The fine flower of the "lady dip's" activities begins to bud in October and bursts into luxuriant blossom during the feverish weeks that culminate on Christmas Eve.

New York merchants are authority for the statements that the methods of the "frisking Janes" at bargain sales are extremely efficient — and decidedly unprofitable. The "lady dip" always works alone, differing in this respect from the male pickpocket, who generally works sociably in a gang consisting of a "wire" and two or three "stalls." Doubtless the solitary and independent ways of the "frisking Jane" are merely the natural consequences of the fact that little ceremony is needed to frisk a shopper with her husband's salary in a flimsy bag dangling from her arm and with calculating eyes fastened on a ruffle marked down to 98 cents.

HARD TO CATCH 'EM.

A detective with twenty-one years' experience with "dips" of the gentler sex says they are great watchers and it's difficult to catch them.

"When the woman pickpocket is caught with the goods on," he said, "she has a great advantage over the male dip because she knows how to throw a fit of hysterics, or 'high strikes,' as they are commonly called. Just suppose that you've been following an old bird at the game through the Christmas crowds and that you've grabbed her at a bustling bargain counter just as she has lifted a roll out of a woman's handbag. You may feel inclined to say: 'Aha, High-Strike Hannah, I've got the goods on you at last!'

"But you don't get a chance to say

FOR IMMEDIATE RATE CUT.

Public Members of Labor Board Announce Plan for Settlement of Strike.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. — Immediate translation of the reduction authorized last July in wages of railroad employees into reduced freight rates was suggested by the public group of the Railroad Labor Board tonight as one feasible plan by which the present controversy can be settled and a strike averted.

"If the railroads will immediately, in good faith, adopt this suggestion," the public group said in the first statement issued since arrival here, "the situation can be cleared, freight rates reduced to shippers, the cost of living reduced and a stimulating effect exerted on all business."

WITHDRAW STRIKE ORDER.

Under the plan submitted by the public group the railroads would withdraw their request for further wage reductions until freight reductions have been completed, and, "pending action of the board on such petition for further reduction as the carriers may subsequently submit," the unions would withdraw the strike order.

The suggestion of the public group was based, the statement said, on one put forward by W. W. Atterbury, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, before a convention in Chicago Friday.

The statement made by Ben W. Hooper, a member of the group, who said it was drafted by the entire membership, follows:

MEMBERS' STATEMENT.

"Up until Friday there was but little, if any, danger of a railroad strike. The railway workers would have brought down on their heads universal condemnation for resisting by force a wage cut so manifestly just and reasonable as that made in July. It may likewise be said that it remains to be seen whether issuance of a strike order merely because a petition for a wage reduction is about to be filled will be sustained by the public.

"The Railroad Labor Board has functioned for more than eighteen months, settling hundreds of controversies, and its decisions, with

GOVERNMENT IS AROUSED.

Harding, While Trying to Avoid General Rail Strike, Takes Action to Protect Mails.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—While President Harding was giving further consideration today to the steps he will take to endeavor to avert a national railroad tie-up, Postmaster-General Hays and Atty.-Gen. Daugherty began shaping a program of action which will materialize if the strike called by the unions goes into effect.

That the mails will be transported despite strike interference if it takes every ounce of government resources to accomplish the purpose is the determination of the Postmaster-General.

Hays was closeted for several hours with Atty.-Gen. Daugherty and the legal advisers and other officials of the Postoffice Department.

When he emerged he declined to discuss the situation, saying that as soon as his plans are matured he would make them public. One of the participants in the conference was Edward H. Shaughnessy, the former railroad official who is second Assistant Postmaster-General in charge of the railway-mail service.

The Postmaster-General is reported to have asserted in the conference that the mails would be transported even if it should be necessary to provide armed guards for every mail train or other conveyance. He inferred from the text of the strike order that there would be no violent interference with the transit of the mails, but of such violence should materialize it would be necessary to furnish protection to the men who enabled the postal system to function.

It was the general opinion in the conference that the railroads would be able to man enough trains to carry the mails on all the major through routes and on more than fifty per cent of the others. It was suggested that volunteer engineers, firemen and trainmen be called for if necessary to keep the mail routes in operation.

Wherever it proves impossible to move mail by train, airplanes and government and private trucks and automobiles will be requisitioned. Hays telephoned Secretary of War Weeks a request for information as to the number of army cars and airplanes that could be placed at the disposal of the Postoffice Department for this purpose.

A call for volunteer aviators may be issued, for the Postmaster-General contemplates employing every available plane for mail carrying in the event of an emergency. [illegible] only airplane mail service stil [illegible] operation is that on the tr

IMMEDIATE RATE CUT ADVOCATED.

Public Members of Wage Board Favor It.

but few exceptions, have been respected by both sides. There would have been a strike long ago if the two parties had undertaken to settle without intervention or supervision the manifold disputes they inherited from the war period. There is absolutely nothing in existing conditions that justifies the carriers and their employees in inflicting the ruinous results of a strike on themselves and the public. There is no amount of propaganda that can convince the people that either side is entirely blameless.

JULY REDUCTION.

"On the first day of July, the Railroad Labor Board made effective a decision which reduced the wages of railway employees twelve per cent, aggregating about $400,000,000 per annum, basing the estimate on the normal number of employees.

"Since then by a revision of only a part of the working rules of only one class of employees, the carriers have received further benefits, amounting to many millions of dollars.

"Friday the carriers notified the employees they would ask the labor board for a further wage cut of ten per cent, assuring the public that the shippers and the people should have the benefit of this wage reduction in the form of reduced freight rates.

"To this proposition the employees reply that no general reuction of freight rates followed the $400,000,000 wage reduction of July 1, that the cost of living has not been sufficiently lowered since July 1 to justify another wage reduction and that they will strike without even awaiting a decision of the Labor Board as to whether another wage reduction is just and reasonable.

"This is the state which the controversy has now reached.

ONE FEASIBLE PLAN.

"There is at least one feasible plan by which it can be settled and a strike averted. That plan is predicated on an excellent suggestion made by Gen. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania Railroad in his speech at Chicago last Friday. His suggestion is quoted as follows:

" 'Nevertheless, it is a fact that the carriers, though they are not earning what they should earn to entitle them to be called prosperous, nor what the law intends they shall earn, cannot rest under such protection while other business struggles for its life.

" 'It would be a wise policy for the carriers publicly to avow that view and voluntarily reduce rates where they now work hardship, even though such rates may be reasonable in a transportation sense, and even though to reduce them means a loss of revenue to the carriers. The carriers can do this of their own volition where it would be improper for the Interstate Commerce Commission to do so. The result would be a temporary check in the rising fortunes of the carriers and that they can ill afford, but it would be a step in the restoration of sound business conditions and the public should give to the carriers a real appreciation of their act.'

SITUATION CLEARED.

"If the railroads will immediately, in good faith, adopt this suggestion of Gen. Atterbury, the situation can be cleared up, freight rates reduced, the cost of living reduced, and a stimulating effect exerted on all business.

"We would suggest that the wage cut of July 1 be translated at once into a reduction of freight rates. This would be much more tangible and satisfactory to the public than to promise that future wage reductions will be passed on to the people in the form of reduced freight rates. The public undoubtedly expected this result when the July wage reductions were made, and its consummation now, though somewhat delayed, would be highly gratifying. That direct benefits would promptly follow and that the psychological effect would be instantly beneficial cannot be doubted.

LOWER LIVING COSTS.

"Such reduction in the cost of living as might result from this and other causes would inure to the benefit of the railway employees and would constitute one of the statutory grounds for a further reduction in wages. It would have a tendency to reduce the cost of material and supplies to the carriers and it would not then be necessary for the carriers to rely solely on wage cuts for a reduction of operating expenses.

"Deflation should be general, and, as far as possible, uniform. Up to this time, the farmer is the only man that has deflated and he came to the earth with a thud. This was because he did not possess the parachute of organization to break his fall.

"Another catastrophe of that sort should be avoided if possible. Wages and freight rates should come to a just and reasonable level uniformly or by alternating stages.

MERELY SUGGESTION.

"Of course nothing in these observations should be construed to indicate what the action of the Labor Board will be on any wage dispute that may be brought before it. Such disputes will continue to be adjusted by the board in accordance with the evidence submitted and the requirements of the transportation act. When reductions are justifiable, they will be given.

"It must be understood that there is no intention to indicate in any sense the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"In this connection, it may be informative to the public to know what factors the transportation act requires the Labor Board to consider in fixing wages. They are:

"(1.) Scale of wages paid for similar kinds of work in other industries.

"(2.) Relation between wages and the cost of living.

"(3.) Hazards of the employment.

"(4.) Training and skill required.

"(5.) Degree of responsibility.

"(6.) Character and regularity of employment.

"(7.) Inequalities of increase in wages or of treatment of the result of previous wage orders or adjustments.

"Other relevant circumstances are also to be considered.

RADICAL CHANGES.

"It is obvious that the first two factors are subject to frequent change and that, during a postwar period of readjustment, the changes may be rapid and radical, necessitating a more frequent revision of wage schedules than would ordinarily be necessary.

"Condensing the foregoing suggestions into definite propositions, they stand:

"(1.) Let the carriers immediately give a general rate reduction measured by the July wage reduction and the benefits derived from the new rules, and devised under supervision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, to afford the greatest degree of relief to the public.

"(2.) Let the request for further wage reductions be withdrawn, unless rate reductions are completed:

"(3.) At such time as the carriers deem advisable, let them present to the labor board their petition for a further reduction in wages, based on conditions then existing.

"4. Pending the working out of the rate reduction and the action of the labor board on such petition for a further wage reduction as the carriers may subsequently submit, let the strike order be withdrawn.

COOLING TIME.

"This method of procedure has the merit of affording 'cooling time' to everybody concerned, and requires of the carriers only one thing—that they give to the public in reduced freight rates the benefit of the July wage cut, just as they are proposing to do in case of further wage reductions. It also involves withdrawal or suspension of the strike order by the employees.

"The course suggested does not involve any sacrifice of pride or prestige, either to the carriers or to the employees.

"In view of the enormous destruction of property values, the deadly blow to slowly reviving business and the appalling human privation, suffering and death that will follow a tie-up of the country's transportation system, the people should bring to bear on both parties the pressure of an impartial public sentiment."

SOUNDS ABSURD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—"The suggestion in Washington by the public group of the Railroad Labor Board that the recent wage reduction authorized by the board be passed along by the roads in lower freight rates as a possible means of averting the threatened railroad strike "seems inconceivable at first glance," Samuel M. Felton, president of the Chicago Great Western Railroad said tonight when informed of the suggestion, by the Associated Press.

"I cannot commit myself definitely until I am fully informed of the details of the suggestion," said Mr. Felton, "but at first glance it sounds absurd.

"Much of the recent 12½ per cent wage reduction already has been translated into lower freight rates. To make a further reduction now is impossible, I think, as the Association of Railway Executives pointed out in the announcement of its action last week when it agreed that future reductions would immediately be passed along into lower rates, but that no reduction now is possible.

"The matter is one for the roads to decide and I am speaking, of course, merely for myself."

DON'T FIGHT RUMORS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 16.—When informed tonight of the suggestion last July in wages of the railroad Labor Board that the reduction of last July in wakes of the railroad employees be translated at once into reduced freight rates, as a means of averting a strike, William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific Company, who is here, declined to comment.

Asked what the course of his company would be in the event of a strike, Sproule said:

"We never fight rumors. When there actually is a strike then we will make our declaration of what we shall do."

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—B. M. Jewell, head of the shop crafts organizations, refused to comment on the suggestion, saying "it would not be ethical" to comment until his organizations formally had issued a strike call.

TIME EXTENDED FOR DESERT LAND PROOF.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. — On July 17, 1917, Robert Ank filed on a tract of forty acres under the desert land laws near Victorville, San Bernardino county. When four years had expired and he was unable to secure water for the irrigation of the land he applied for an extension of time. George R. Wickham, assistant commissioner of the General Land Office, has revised the application for extension of time, and finding the same satisfactory, granted Mr. Ank until July 24, 1924, in which to show a water supply for the irrigation of his land.

Lee returned to headquarters today from Chicago and began sending out official notices of the strike order to approximately 800 general chairmen of his organization.

SAVIOR MAY APPEAR.

"Nothing but a miracle can stop this strike," he said. "Still, there may be a savior some place, but I am afraid not."

Lee explained that the strike order was final, no provisions being made for postponement. Only a satisfactory settlement before the date for the strike has been provided for.

Lee said that the strike is in protest against the 12 per cent wage reduction of the Railroad Labor Board, effective last July 1. He explained that when the five railroad organization chiefs met with a committee of five railroad managers in Chicago Friday to consider this wage reduction and were informed by the railroad managers that a further 10 per cent wage reduction would be requested, the brotherhood chiefs gave up hope of amicable settlement and the strike order resulted.

OFFICERS ARRIVING.

Grand officers of the Brotherhood of Engineers were arriving tonight for a conference tomorrow with Grand Chief W. S. Stone, at which they will receive final instructions before departing for their districts.

Stone, W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen; L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railroad Conductors, and T. C. Cashen, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America, are expected tomorrow.

Orders for calling off the strike in case a "satisfactory agreement" has been reached are contained in sealed code messages mailed general chairmen with the strike order, which are not to be opened until receipt of a code telegram. If the code telegram and the sealed code message are identical, the general chairman will know the strike has been settled.

NO BLUFF, SAYS HEAD OF SWITCHMEN'S UNION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Oct. 16.—"It is no bluff on our part. We have already sanctioned the strike order and it has gone out and the railroads will be at a standstill on the morning of October 30, as surely as the sun will rise," said T. C. Cashen, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America, tonight.

Cashen spent the day at the union headquarters getting out instructions for the men who will direct the switchmen's strike.

DENIES TELEGRAPHERS HAVE TAKEN ACTION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16.—E. J. Manion, president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, tonight refuted the statement of T. M. Pierson, vice-president, in a statement to the Associated Press, in which he said the policy of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers has not been formulated, and Pierson is not authorized to give out any such statement. "Our po will not be known until October 21."

LOCAL RAIL UNIONS AWAITING LEADERS.

J. A. Phillips and J. A. Farquharson, mentioned in dispatches from Chicago as assigned to the Los Angeles territory to direct the proposed strike of railroad workers, probably will arrive in this city this week, local union leaders said yesterday. Phillips is one of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen vice-presidents and Farquharson occupies a similar position with the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

The territory which will be under the direction of these two union chiefs will be from El Paso to Portland, it is understood. Farquharson has left Seattle on his way here, with a probable stop-over at San Francisco, according to reports received here yesterday.

Local chairmen and other union officials here are marking time pending the receipt of official information from the meeting in Chicago and the arrival of the designated leaders.

NO TROUBLE WITH SUPPLIES OF FLOUR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 16.—In the event of a railroad strike the question of a flour shortage would not enter into the situation "for a very long time," declared J. F. Bell, vice-president of the Washburn-Crosby Company of Minneapolis, tonight. Bell said a railroad strike would be "somewhat embarrassing," but he felt there would be no lack of flour.

On the Pacific Coast, he said, he anticipated no trouble. There is a system of motor transportation well developed there, he said, as well as large elevators and seaboard mills.

Rail Chiefs Declare Men Are Defying Government.

Ignoring Decision of Railway Labor Board.

America, the organizations on which an official strike call actually has been issued, and the hub of the situation, was being transferred to Cleveland, where the presidents of these five unions will meet Tuesday to complete grouping of the railroads and settle the final details of the proposed walkout.

The union forces gained strength today when T. M. Pierson, vice-president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, announced that the 81,000 members of his organization were pledged to strike; and that they would make every effort to tie up completely the transportation systems.

"It is our aim to tie up transportation so completely that it will be impossible for a train to move," he said. "If every telegrapher quits work, that will mean no train orders can be sent and train service necessarily will be at a standstill. There is no question but what we will order our membership out October 30, but the final instructions probably will not be issued until October 21."

SHOP CRAFTS DELAY.

The shop crafts' unions, comprising about 476,000 employees, today deferred formal issuance of the strike call pending a meeting here Wednesday, but their leaders have officially announced that their organizations will be called out and that the delay in sending out the call has been caused purely by the time needed to draft the final plans and orders.

At the same time, however, shop crafts leaders have made it known that while they will go out with the brotherhoods and the switchmen, they are not pledged to stay out after their own grievances have been adjusted.

"Our organizations will return to work when they are satisfied that they have gained their individual points," a high official said tonight. "The concessions which would satisfy one body of workers might not satisfy another. It is quite certain that we will all be on the same track going out, but there are many sidings, and we don't have to come back together."

B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employees department, American Federation of Labor, which comprises the shop crafts, said his men never would have been called out independently on a question of wages alone.

"Acting independently, our men never would go out on a question of wages alone," he said. "They will fight to the last ditch, however, for their rules and for fair working conditions—matters of principle—but the executive committees of the shop crafts were much opposed to calling a strike on the wage question alone."

Jewell referred to the recent decision of the shop crafts' executives not to call a strike on the wage cut ordered July 1 by the Railroad Labor Board, although the men had voted overwhelmingly to strike rather than accept the cut.

Jewell indicated that final instruc-

OFFICIALS OPTIMISTIC.

Few Railroad Men Believe General Strike Order Will Be Carried Out By Unions.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Upon the return of Atty.-Gen. Daugherty from Valley Forge, where he attended the funeral of the late Senator Knox, he evidenced interest in a section of the railroad strike call which declared there was no difference between a mail and a freight train so far as the right to refuse service was concerned.

"When that question is studied," he said, "they will find serious doubt about their position."

LITTLE TROUBLE EXPECTED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OMAHA, Oct. 16.—W. M. Jeffers, vice-president and general manager of the Union Pacific, in an interview tonight said:

"We understand unofficially that the Union Pacific Railroad is not included in the group affected by the first strike call, but we are not sure. I really think, however, that our men are pretty well satisfied, and will not be pleased with the prospect of being called out on strike. We have had little trouble with agitators."

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16.—Local railroad heads express little concern over the announcement a general strike had been set for October 30.

An optimistic view was expressed by President J. M. Kurn of the Frisco Railroad.

"I believe," he said, "there are a lot of conservative railroad men who are of the opinion that the time is inopportune for a strike. These men, no doubt, will use their influence to prevent a general walkout."

CONFIDENCE IN WISDOM.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.) Oct. 16. "I hardly think there will be a strike," declared Edmund Pennington, president of the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railway, here. "I have too much confidence in the wisdom of the employees to believe they will go on strike at this time. With the great number of unemployed in the country, it would be very unwise for their officials to call a strike."

W. A. McDonald, general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen of the Soo Line, said that "if there had been a possibility of averting a strike, further demand of the railroads for another reduction had wiped that out."

MEANS OF PREVENTION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Oct. 16.—The general impression among railroad officials and union leaders here tonight was that some means would be found of preventing the general strike of railroad employees October 30.

"I can't really believe that a strike actually has been called," said W. T. Tyler, operating vice-president of the Northern Pacific. He expressed a hope that it could be prevented.

"We are not opposed to the strike, and still we are not strongly in favor of it," said R. A. Henning, president of the Federated Shop Crafts for Northwest Railroads. "What we want is absolute fairness. We shall await action of the proper officials, and if nothing else can be done then it must be strike."

WON'T APPEAL TO MEXICO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 16.—Wm. T. Kemper, receiver for the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railway, said here tonight that the general railroad strike, if called, probably would not affect that road's lines in Mexico. The railroad has 750 miles of trackage in this country and about 230 in Mexico.

"We do not recognize the American brotherhoods in Mexico," he said, "and I do not contemplate any effect on our lines there."

He added officials were advised the road in this country would be affected by the strike, and said that as far as he knew no plans had been made to offset a possible tie-up.

IMPERIALISM'S HIGH COST IS BURDEN TO JAPANESE.

Half of Expenditures of Nation Going for Upkeep of Greatest Standing Army and Building of Navy.

BY LOUIS SEIBOLD.

[This is the nineteenth article by Louis Seibold dealing with Japanese questions. The twentieth and last will tell of the relations of the Nipponese toward the Mikado.]

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TOKIO, Oct. 15.—The most effective argument advanced by the rapidly increasing number of Japanese politicians, business men and newspapers in favor of limiting armaments is the balance sheet of the Imperial Japanese government. Confronted by the problem of supporting themselves on the prevailing rate of wages, taxed for everything that enters into their daily lives, 95 per cent of the people of Nippon will welcome any project that will cut the high cost of imperialism and its natural corollary, militarism.

With more than 49 per cent of the expenditures of the government devoted to the maintenance of the largest standing army in the world and a navy establishment that, theoretically, in ten years will win the fighting supremacy of the seas from Great Britain and the United States, there is a growing interest throughout Japan in the approaching conference on the limitation of armaments at Washington.

PEOPLE ARE ANXIOUS.

I have talked with several leaders of the two most important political factions in Japan, the editors of newspapers, business men of Tokio, Yokohama, Kobe, Shimonoseki and foreigners engaged in various lines of industry regarding the disarmament project. While divided in opinion as to the probability of the Washington conference being expanded to cover other phases of Far Eastern problems, there appears to be a decided unanimity of sentiment in favor of limiting the expenditures of the government for military purposes, from the operations of which the people themselves derive little benefit.

Up to a comparatively recent period the imperialistic government of Japan not only discouraged discussion of the financial burdens involved in the maintenance of huge armies and a navy always ready for war, but it applied drastic and effective means to prevent it. The suggestion of President Hording, however, that the most direct short cut toward effecting necessary savings in the conduct of all governments was through limiting armaments struck a responsive chord among many classes of the Japanese citizens, and women as well, to whom the ordinary agencies of expression are closed by tradition and government policies.

GOVERNMENT SURPRISED.

Sentiment in its favor has grown with great rapidity. The government itself was probably as much surprised at the manner in which the suggestion of the American President was received as the most confirmed warrior in the army or navy, who looks upon such proposals as sheer nonsense.

The Genro, which provides a sort of unofficial form of commission government, made a futile attempt at the outset to check the tide of popular sentiment in favor of the Harding plan. In doing so it encountered its first defeat in many years, for the Genro, despite the fact that its functions, derived from the old clan process of feudalism, are purely advisory, is the most powerful single institution in the country.

The boss of it is Field Marshal Prince Yamagata, "the Grand Old Man of Nippon," who at 83 is planning his lifework for the next forty years. Prince Yamagata, who is the most popular of national heroes in Nippon, is not only the head of the Genro but he is the president of the Privy Council. He is the most accomplished and successful politician in Japan. His influence, which has been won by sheer intellectual force and the complete understanding of Japanese psychology, pervades and practically controls every element of the people.

MAKER OF CABINETS.

He can make or unmake Cabinets, formulate or change policies, and his personal influence with the Emperor is very great, because in the last analysis it is the veto of the Genro (which means Yamagata) that finally disposes. The Genro is composed of several of the "Elder Statesmen," but it is Yamagata who dominates his associates as easily as Platt or Quay or Hanna or Croker dominated their respective parties in their time. The most important conferees of Yamagata are the Marquises Matsukata and Saionji. There are others of local celebrity and popularity but of less importance, for, as said, Japan looks to Yamagata alone for the key word.

At the outset of the armament discussion, to which Japan gave its tardy assent, the Seiyukai and the Kenesakai, political parties which most clearly reflect rival political sentiment, evinced a lively interest in it. This was confined, however, to members of the Diet, the popular branch of the national legislature. In accordance with established tradition, the princes of the blood, just plain princes, marquises, counts, viscounts, barons, imperial nominees and the highest taxpayers of the House of Peers manifested neither assent nor dissent, naturally taking their cue from the Genro sages. Not so with the 464 members of the Diet, which controls the government.

SENTIMENT REFLECTED.

Reflecting the sentiment of citizens throughout the empire, the members of the Diet, as well as the local bosses in the various provinces, began to line solidly up back of the armament conference plan. Yamagata and his illustrious associates in the Genro attempted to head off the storms of approval. Every wire and political device which usually succeeds in swaying the Japanese mind was resorted to. Meanwhile the government began to parley with Washington, London, Paris and other capitals in an effort to make terms that would prevent the opening up of "facts accomplished," meaning the violation of Chinese territory and economic and political control of Korea, Manchuria, Eastern Mongolia, Siberia and North Saghalien.

The overwhelming, preponderant sentiment in favor of the Harding conference plan which swept Japan probably convinced the government of the futility of directly attacking that project. But it took its own time in giving its qualified assent. The reason that it finally consented to do so was not due in the slightest degree to any sincere desire to assist in the enterprise but solely because the people, groping for an avenue of escape from the disasters consequent on taxation, demanded in no uncertain tones its concurrence.

Competent observers of long experience tell me that no proposal ever made by a foreign country was as universally approved as the suggestion for the conference on armaments. The majority of the people would probably support the contention of their government that the Washington conference should not seek to deprive Japan of the territory both legally and illegally acquired and so necessary to their economic and physical expansion, but the popular mind of Japan discerns no direct connection between the scheme for bringing about a disarmament agreement and the indefinite proposals to restore to the original owners the territory won by Japan in war or otherwise.

TAXES OUT OF PROPORTION.

Indorsement of the conference project held but one meaning to the Japanese—an escape from the catastrophes incidental to the maintenance of an expensive military establishment, to support which they have long believed they have been taxed out of all proportion to the value of it. The explanation of their resentment against the conditions forced upon them by the ambitious military plans of their government is pretty clearly set forth in the financial statement of the government for the current year—the monopolies maintained or permitted by it, the system of taxation and, finally, the high cost of living.

I have already shown in this series of articles that more than 49 per cent of the imperial budget goes to the support of the army and navy, that a minimum of 22 per cent goes to the maintenance of other agencies of it, leaving a scant 30 per cent for providing the conveniences and facilities for which the people of a country generally look to their government.

Aside from the army and navy, the other branches of the service foot up a total of 846,645,000 yen, or just a shade over 50 per cent of the entire amount. One of the most remarkable features of the Japanese financial statement is that almost as much money is spent for the "extraordinary" expenditures of the various government agencies as for the regular conduct of them. For instance, in addition to the 49 per cent set aside in the budget for the support of the army and navy there should be added 115,125,000 yen for the War Department and 124,712,000 yen for the navy in the nature of "extraordinary" expenditures.

BUDGET PROVISIONS.

Other budget provisions from which the people of Japan derive little, if any, direct benefits are the sums set aside for the civil administration of Shantung, Korea, Formosa, Saghalien and the government railways, the total being 171,934,000 yen. One of the reasons that provoked such unanimity of approval of the conference project was the oppressive effect of the monopolies maintained by the government. For instance, the government has a monopoly over steel, tobacco, camphor, salt, railways, utilities, telegraphs, in addition to local imports on some of them. Tobacco is taxed at the rate of 50 per cent, and is practically beyond the reach of the average citizen, who likes his weed as well as the next one.

A far more important reason, however, for the indorsement of the conference is to be found in the taxation system. This system, which appears to be the hodge-podge of that prevailing in other countries, places a heavy tax upon sake, the national drink; on beer, sugar, land, incomes, big and small businesses; in fact, there is scarcely a thing that enters into the daily life of the people that is not taxed to a greater extent than in any other country.

INCOME TAX RATES.

The income tax is rated pretty much like that in other countries. Incomes yielding from 10 to 20 per cent profit are taxed 4 per cent, with 8 per cent on 30 and 20 per cent above 30. On reserve incomes there is a 5 per cent surtax on 50 per cent earnings on the capital. Dividends are taxed 5 per cent. Individual incomes are taxed 1 per cent up to 1000 yen and run as high as 33 per cent above 3,000,000 yen.

The straight business tax is a complicated proposition. There are levies on sales, rents and manufactures. Intoxicating beverages are assessed from 20 to 41 per cent on forty gallons. The government has recently made a half hearted effort to readjust the tax system, but little progress has been made up to date.

The national debt of Japan amounted in March last to 2,579,746,000 yen, on which the interest is 117,961,000 yen. At the end of 1918 the foreign loans of the country totaled 1,338,784,000 yen. These include British, French and Russian bonds and the not inconsiderable item of 632,000,000 yen in Chinese obligations, which the Japanese government has taken over in administering the affairs of Shantung and Manchuria. Japan has made several direct loans to China aggregating 283,000,000 yen. The present (Hara) Ministry discontinued advancing money to China independent of the operations of the English, French, Japanese and American consortium.

VIENNA WOMEN STORM STORES.

Infuriated by High Prices, Markets Are Plundered in Capital.

The World Today

This article on California quicksilver, prepared by the Research Department of The First National Bank of Los Angeles and the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank, is one of a series on California's products.

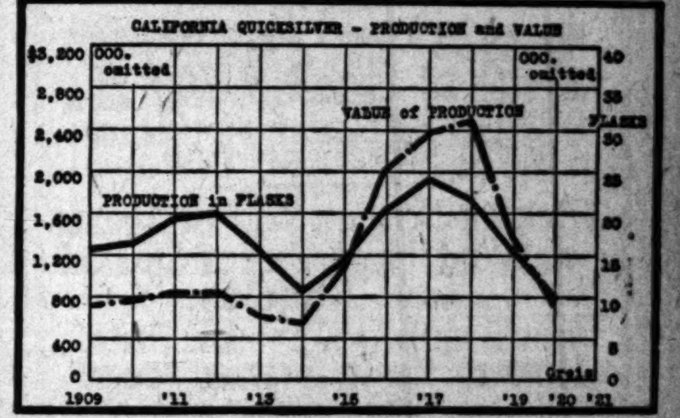
The State of California produces more than 75 per cent of the quicksilver mined in the entire United States.

It is plain that California is an important factor in this industry so far as United States is concerned. However, the total value of the product is not so great as a number of other mineral substances of the State. In fact, this mineral ranks fifteenth in value for the year 1920, and yet in importance quicksilver is much more than its money value.

For national defense and war purposes, quicksilver has been found to be almost indispensable. The Ordnance Department of the United States Army will accept no substitute for the manufacture of fulminating caps for explosives. Such substitutes have been found not entirely safe.

There are many other uses for quicksilver, the most important of which are: For the recovery of gold and silver by amalgamation; for the manufacture of drugs; for the manufacture of electric appliances and scientific apparatus; and for use in cylinders of steam turbines to improve the vapor pressure. Quicksilver is thus very essential to industry as well as being indispensable in times of war for the manufacture of munitions of war.

The accompanying chart shows that since the signing of the armistice the production of this metal has fallen from 24,382 flasks of 75 pounds each in 1917 to 10,278 flasks in 1920. It will be noted also that the value of this metal has decreased at a much faster rate than the production line.



The key to the situation is to be found in the decrease in price of this metal since the war, for in the United States the demand is still greater than the output of this country, and importations are necessary. This decline in price from a high of $114.03 per flask in 1918 to $47.50, October 1, 1921, shows the precipitous drop during this short period of time. The reason is to be found in great importations from Spain of quicksilver that can be produced at a cost of approximately $15 a flask.

There are two reasons why California producers cannot compete with such low costs of production: First, California ore is not as high-grade as that of Spanish ore, and secondly, the mines of Almaden, Spain, are operated by the government with convict workers.

The situation is that abundant and cheaper sources of quicksilver exist outside of the United States, and that such sources can under-sell American producers. In this respect a paragraph in the report of the Tariff Commission is of importance and is quoted in full.

"Quicksilver is an essential metal, however, of vital necessity in the conduct of war and widely used in the industries. It is stated that American resources, although low grade, can furnish an adequate supply for many years if a stable and sufficient price be guaranteed. Without tariff protection the United States will be dependent in large part on outside sources for a vital commodity, and a grave question of national expediency is involved."

Aged Hundred, Gets Proposal of Marriage.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Mme. Francoise Levaspiesto of Great City, Staten Island, who gave the whole town something to talk about when she celebrated her one hundredth birthday on October 4, has again stirred up a lot of excitement by displaying a letter proposing marriage she received yesterday from a man who gave his name as Frank Lindsay of Baltimore, 103 years of age. The letter read in part:

"I am a widower and see by the newspapers that you are a widow. I would like to have a companion and believe that you would suit me.

"If you will accept my proposal kindly answer my letter by return mail and I will come to Staten Island to see you."

Mme. Levaspiesto refuses to divulge whether she intends accepting the proposal.

RECALLS FAMOUS RAIL STRIKES.

Traffic of Whole Country Tied Up in 1894 by Walkout.

Federal Troops Sent to Chicago by Cleveland.

Government's Giving in Averted Trouble in War.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—The most serious railroad strike this country has ever experienced broke out in 1894 in Chicago. This was the Pullman strike, which tied up traffic to the Pacific and to Canada.

Eugene V. Debs, now serving a prison sentence at Atlanta for violation of the Espionage Act, was the directing head of the strike, and was sent to jail for collision with the government during the trouble. Debs came into charge of the strike through being president of the American Railway Union.

The trouble arose in the Pullman plant on the southern outskirts of Chicago during a general business depression. The men were asking a wage increase to help them meet the hard times.

BOYCOTT DECLARED.

A boycott was declared on all Pullman cars. It resulted in tying up all traffic, including the mails, over a wide area and violence broke out in Chicago. The Federal government ordered troops here. They were met by a mob and could not proceed until reinforcements arrived.

Mobs burned cars by the hundreds, more troops were sent in and President Cleveland issued a proclamation calling for order.

Debs was arrested on a charge of conspiracy against the United States.

Twelve were shot and fatally wounded in Chicago and the vicinity, 575 were arrested by the police, seventy-one were arrested and indicted under Federal statutes.

Loss to the roads in property destroyed and hire of United States deputy marshals was estimated at $600,000.

A threatened strike involving 125,000 switchmen was averted in March, 1910, when a Federal board of arbitration granted a 3-cent-an-hour increase in wages. Shortly after general increases in pay were granted railroad employees by many of the larger roads after extended hearings.

STRIKE AVERTED.

When Woodrow Wilson first became President, a general railroad strike seemed imminent, but it was averted, largely through the passage of the Adamson law.

A threatened strike of railroad shopmen in 1919 resulted in several thousand workers leaving their higher wages, returned to their work. The workers, who asked jobs during August after President Wilson had issued a request that the men remain at work pending adjustment of wage disputes by the roads at that time.

Railroad circles have been comparatively free from labor troubles since the unauthorized strike called April 1, 1920, which was ended by order of the Railroad Labor Board increasing wages, handed down July 20, 1920.

The unauthorized strike, called by an independent organization of yard employees headed by John Grunau of Chicago, threatened for a time to paralyze the nation's transportation facilities.

Thousands of yard employees left their established unions, joined the new organization and quit work. The big four brotherhoods revoked charters wholesale and sent loyal union men into strike fields to operate trains and break the walkout.

The Grunau organization finally expired when the Railroad Labor Board refused to recognize it or to order its members reinstated.

several less important houses. It was in these theaters and in concert halls that the correspondent saw the only persons who seemed to relax and divorce themselves from the gloomy Moscow atmosphere.

Moscow newspapers and the newspapers in all the leading Russian cities are little more than government bulletins. Because of the shortness of paper they are generally only one sheet, and the greater part of the space is given over to long political articles. The newspapers are pasted upon the deadwalls. Crowds gather about them eagerly and scan the few foreign dispatches. The great majority of readers show no interest in the political leaders.

UNIFORMS ARE SHABBY.

Street crowds in Moscow present a strange and varied appearance. Unless the weather is sunny and warm there are very few pedestrians in the center of the city. Markets which formerly existed near Opera Place have been abolished and there are few food shops in what was formerly the great shopping center. In consequence, most promenaders go to the food-lined boulevards, and the slightest threat of rain drives the crowds to shelter. Boots and clothing are too precious to be exposed unnecessarily to the weather.

Really well-dressed men and women are never seen on the streets. There is no starch. Therefore, soft collars and shirts are a necessity, and practically all men wear dark gray or brown shirts and collars.

Russia was always great on uniforms. Railway employees and other civil employees of the government wore uniforms under the old regime and still cling to the custom. Shabby uniforms, or parts of uniforms, make up the costumes of nine-tenths of the men in the streets, and the second-hand clothing stalls display practically no clothing, but uniforms.

continental route between New York and San Francisco. Additional planes will be assigned to this route.

President Harding will not reach a final decision on his contemplated program of action until the conclusion of the conference between the Interstate Commerce Commission and the members of the Railway Labor Board representing the public, who reached Washington at his summons yesterday. The discussion of the situation by the officials will be resumed tomorrow and their views will be laid before the President, he hopes, within the next forty-eight hours.

DELAYS INVITATION.

It was stated at the White House that the President had not asked the brotherhood leaders to come to Washington, though it is known he contemplates taking this step in order to make an appeal to them to avert a railroad tie-up which would bring all the larger communities of the country to the brink of famine inside of a week. The indications are that he will not make this move until the conference of the advisers he has summoned is concluded and the President is in a position to state the attitude of the government in dealing with the wage dispute which produced the order to strike.

Hitherto, threatened railway strikes have presented the clear-cut proposition of government mediation between the carriers and their employees. This time there is a wholly novel complication. The rail unions are protesting against an action of a government agency, the Railway Labor Board, which reduced their wages in accord with procedure laid down in the Cummings-Esch Transportation Act.

AIMED AT GOVERNMENT.

In a sense it is a strike aimed at the government, which rendered its judgment that wages should be reduced, more than it is at the railroads, which petitioned for a greater reduction than was accorded, but accepted the decision.

The provisions of the Cummins-Esch Act designed to promote the amicable settlement of wage and other disputes between the carriers and their employees and to minimize the danger of strikes, are receiving a crucial test. This legislation in its earliest form contained drastic prohibitions of strikes, which were eliminated as a result of the opposition of organized labor.

It was thought, however, that the bill in the form it became a law would prove a strong deterrent of railroad strikes. Providing for the submission of disputes to adjudication by the Railway Labor Board, the law, though containing no provisions for the enforcement of the board's decisions, would result, it was predicted, in marshalling public opinion to the support of the decisions in such a degree as to doom any attempted strike to failure. This theory will be tested out if the strike actually materializes.

WON'T PLAY GAME.

Before the bill became a law, however, President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor and some of the rail brotherhoods asserted that the machinery provided would not deter unions from striking if decisions of the board were deemed unacceptable.

If the President fails to avert the strike, it is practically certain that Congress will be besought to take a hand in the matter. From labor sources comes the report that the radical elements will take advantage of the situation to press for legislation providing for government purchase of the systems and the operation of the roads under a modified Plumb Plan, the employees to share in the management.

Senator Poindexter of Washington, Republican, author of the so-called antistrike bill, which passed the Senate at the last session of the last Congress, but was halted because Senator La Follette of Wisconsin demanded a reconsideration of the vote by which it was passed, expressed the opinion that the union officials were probably correct when they said that the men had as much right to refuse to work on mail trains as on freight trains. They have a right to quit work, he said.

But the Washington Senator addeds that in his opinion the Federal government has great power over interstate commerce, and that there is practically no difference in its power to protect all kinds of interstate commerce, as well as to protect the mails.

LITTLE CODDLING FOR RAILROAD STRIKERS.

GOVERNMENT HAS POTENTIAL ARMY OF EXPERIENCED WORKERS AVAILABLE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—For the first time in history the United States has a potential army of experienced and efficient railroad men available for strike duty. A quarter of a million men, it is estimated, proficient in various lines of practical railroading, are now available and are out of employment or are working in places where they could be spared for the emergency service that might be required if the projected railroad strike develops into reality.

Many of these men were connected with Federal control, others were in the railroad forces with the American Army in France and elsewhere and have graduated into more highly-paid office jobs and are scattered over the country. The government already has started to make a census to get the correct addresses and present conditions of the men who know how to do work on railroads that will insure emergency service in case the need arises.

The government will, in any event, insist on the operation of mail trains and such transportation of fuel, food and milk as is necessary to prevent suffering in the larger cities of the country which depend altogether on transportation for their daily food supplies. New York, for instance, has not more than forty-eight hours' food supply on hand, and while the people could exist for several days without new arrivals, the suffering would be intense, and a week of delayed rations would produce famine conditions.

To a certain extent, Chicago is in the same condition, but the radius of food supplies for Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston is not as great as for New York.

The Motor Transport of the Army is well organized, with great capacity and mobility. In the great centers of the East it could alone prevent any alarming food shortage so far as necessary rations are concerned, and the government is tonight counting noses to know just how much the Army can supply in emergency transportation.

much, for High-Strike Hannah throws a fit. She screams that her father is a clergyman and her mother was a lady, her husband is dying of consumption, her uncle is a Senator and various near relatives will die of shame if she is disgraced. She foams at the mouth on the subject of her innocent little children crying for their mama and growing up under a horrible cloud. She swears she is innocent—or, if the case is too clear for that, she attributes this one slip to the anguish of her children crying for food.

"It's all pumped out at high pressure in a torrent of words and sobs and by that time High-Strike Hannah is rolling on the floor. You've caught her, and a palpitating crowd of women shoppers look upon you as a murderer. For Hannah is a dignified-looking dame, dresses well and makes a good impression. Also, she throws a first-class fit and really makes the robbed woman believe that she'll kill herself if she's locked up.

"That's the object of it all, of course, to weaken the principal witness. Sometimes the ruse succeeds in keeping Hannah out of jail.

CROOK WAR IN PARIS.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Oct. 16.—The existence of the Paris police has become an unceasing battle with organized bands of crooks. Just as "Yvette's" cutthroat gang was brought to trial, ten bandits specializing in jewel shop robberies were placed under arrest and no sooner were these accounted for than a third gang was captured. This last devoted itself to automobile thefts.

Public alarm at the sudden development of the Apaches' war on society is expressing itself in an outcry for pitiless punishments for those who are caught. This opinion is generally approved by the public prosecutor, who today asked for the death penalty against one of the principal members of "Yvette's" band.

"The flapper queen" fainted in court when the government demanded the life of her lover and life imprisonment at hard labor for her. The prosecutor explained that he ought to propose capital punishment for her, too, as she was the leader, but because of her youth he suggested the milder sentence.

The police have discovered that the band of jewel thieves arrested a few days ago are affiliated with an international organization with ramifications all over Europe and South America and a membership numbering about 1000.

It is believed clews obtained in this capture will soon lead to the arrest of the gang.

On one occasion this gang in broad daylight broke a show window and took 500,000 francs' worth of gems. All of them escaped in an automobile.

The automobile thieves who have just been arrested have been making their headquarters for the last week around the Grand Palais, where the automobile show is being held. Ten of the gang were caught and admit that since last Sunday they have stolen four cars, one side car and made revolver attacks on two taxicabs.

APPEALS TO UNIONS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—An appeal to members of labor organizations in South and Central America to join with their colleagues in the United States to help bring about reduction of armaments at the international conference in Washington November 11, was issued today by the executive committee of the Pan-American Federation of Labor signed by President Gompers.

Approximately 100 men and women from all parts of the country have accepted the invitation of President Gompers to participate in the work of the advisory committee on limitation of armament, it was announced today.

The Department of State announced today it was advised the French delegates to the Washington conference on armaments would be Premier Aristide Briand; Albert Viviani, former Premier; Albert Sarraut, Minister of Colonies, and Ambassador Jules Jusserand.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 16.—Holland today dispatched a note accepting the invitation of the United States to participate in the Washington conference.

SPEEDBOAT RACES ARE THRILLERS AT HARBOR.

Hamlin's Joker and Paden's Hurricane Provide Fast Amusement for Many; Cabrillo Day Events End.

Lots of speed was unleashed yesterday in the inner harbor at San Pedro by the squadron of motor boats from the Los Angeles Motor Boat Club and the Newport Yacht Club in races held under the auspices of the motor boat club, winding up the Cabrillo Day events.

A speedboat race for just the average type of "go devils" was held first, a handicap affair, in which Ralph Hamlin, aboard his Joker, won thumbs down. The second affair proved a tuning-up event for the big Nordlinger Cup race to be held next month. Bill Paden had his mechanic, Billy Cubins, work on the Hurricane II and it sounded like the ol' Girines going through Belleau Woods. The noise was deafening, and the speed—well it was about the fastest speed ever seen in the channel, outside of an Avalon Hydroaeroplane picking up speed.

BEARDON ON TOP.

Following the speed exhibition, the husky and comfortable cruisers, the craft hailing from both clubs, held a race, also with handicaps and the Maxine D, with Ed Beardon in command, was the winner.

The lengthy run of the Cabrillo day events brought an exceptionally large crowd to the harbor city and by the time the first boat race was started the First street wharf, the First street pier and the adjacent lumber docks were black with people. It reminded one of the old days at Santa Monica when the road races were in all their glory.

The regatta committee intelligently waited until the harbor was cleared of outgoing and incoming steamships. The Cabrillo and Avalon had departed for Catalina and the President for Tacoma and the Yale had arrived from San Francisco. This left the course, with the exception of a few small boats, clear for the races. The course was between the turning basin at Wilmington to a buoy off Dead Man's Island and return.

The committee boat, the Jubilo, owned by Dickson and Wildey, was anchored off the First street wharf. The officials were L. Barclay, starter; Frank Smith and J. T. Dickson, timers; Commodore Claud G. Putnam, Frank M. Bockway, Fred Munsey and E. R. Abbott, judges of the course and finish.

QUICK START.

The small speed boat race got under way at about 11 o'clock. The Tia Kun, the Sho-Gun and Fay were jockeying at the starting line and as Barclay dropped the flag, the Joker from far astern of these three, shot ahead and took the lead at once. The lead was never overcome for the three laps, and she won easily. The Joker's time for the race of 15 miles was 30:35.

The Fay, driven by Allen Young of Newport, came in second, although being the slowest craft in the race. It took the Fay 1:04:57 to finish. Mrs. H. M. Worcester, driving the Sho-Gun, was third in 57:57. Worcester in the Tai Kun was fourth in 1:09:47.

In the race for cruisers, the entry list was larger and the race a close one for the two laps. F. S. Albertson and his Lady Luck took the lead, but was overtaken by the fast Waga, the cruiser owned by Walsh and Garbutt. Ol' Silver Top was aboard the boat himself. The Ethel A., Ben R. Meyer at the wheel, was right at the Waga's stern when finishing the first lap and the final lap was a close race all the way.

Coming in the stretch, a big converted sub chaser in the lead of Waga and Ethel-A kicked up considerable wake, and to avoid this, the Waga turned far out to the starboard, this gave the Ethel-A the needed chance, which Meyer took, plowing through the swells and winning over the Waga by a length.

HANDICAP DOES IT.

But—when the handicap committee got through with their fourth dimensions and allowed a percentage handicap on the first lap, Dearden and the Maxine-D were declared the winner. The time for the 10 miles was 52:22. The Ethel-A finished in 30:17 and the Waga but a half-second behind. H. E. Houston and the N'Import were second and the Lady Luck third. The Cabrillo Association awarded the winner and second place boat a trophy cup.

Following is the time chart of the speed boat race:

LOBSTER SEASON IS OFFICIALLY OPENED.

Lobster season was officially opened in California last Saturday, and those sportsmen who took advantage of the opportunity offered by the Fish and Game Commission report good fishing. Santa Monica, Redondo, Long Beach, San Pedro, Balboa, Venice and locations with similar formations of rock and plenty of kelp are the best places for the crustacea.

E. V. Parker, a lobster fisherman of considerable fame, gives a few pointers on the sport. Unsalted Albacore, bonita, tomcod or kingfish make excellent bait, the lobsters taking it better if it is putrid. Fishing should be done with a snag, the end of the line resting on the bottom. When the lobster is felt scratching on the snag, the proper procedure is to give the line a healthy jerk, and then pull up your catch.

The season closes March 1.

SEMIPRO BALL CLUB IS AFTER BABE RUTH.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—With the report that Babe Ruth had played baseball today in Buffalo in a post-season game in defiance of orders of Judge Landis, Bill Niesen, owner of the Pyotts semipro baseball team of the Midwest League, came out with the announcement that in the event that the Yankee home-run king was unable to patch up any differences that might ensue with the baseball commissioner, he would make Ruth an offer of $25,000 for six months.

"The west side wants Babe Ruth," Niesen said tonight, "and if money will get him, in the event he 'gets in bad' with organized baseball, then he can hang up his hat in our park. I will go the limit to get him to play with our team."

AGGIES LIVE UP TO PREDICTIONS.

Oregon Farm Team Appears Very Formidable.

But Cougar Eleven is Also a Northwest Factor.

Bagshaw Building Well at U. of Washington.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 16.—Early season predictions of the strength of the Oregon Aggies were confirmed yesterday, when they walloped Willamette University at Salem, 54 to 0. Willamette is considered a second-rate team, but even so, the size of the score is impressive. As Oregon had previously met difficulty in defeating Willamette 7 to 3, the comparative scores would indicate that the Aggies are in a class considerably above the university this year.

The game was even more one-sided than the score indicates. From first to last, the Methodists were at the mercy of the Farmers, making only eight yards from scrimmage in the entire contest. On the other hand, O.A.C. had things so much its own way that it played recklessly and was penalized a total of 100 yards for off sides and holdings.

NICE TRYOUT.

Coach Rutherford made substitutions frequently, and the game as a whole was a dandy tryout for the Aggies' clash next Saturday with the University of Washington. In the last quarter the entire second team went in and added another touchdown to the score already rolled up.

The University of Washington's showing against Montana, which it defeated 28 to 7, shows that Bagshaw is building up a strong machine even more rapidly than had been expected. He has been working hard to get ready for the Oregon Aggies, and has expressed himself as well pleased with the way the team is coming on. Last year, Montana beat Washington 18 to 14, so the Sundodgers were out for revenge.

Capt. Ray Eckmann played a brilliant game for Washington. The apathy for which he was criticised by Bagshaw early in the season has entirely passed away. In the first quarter yesterday he caught a punt from Plummer on his own fifteen-yard line and ran the length of the field. He had good interference, but the way he ploughed through practically the entire Montana team was a revelation.

OPEN WORK.

Although the field was soggy, Washington played an open-field game, its passes particularly being effective. Montana made its lone touchdown by a formidable line attack in the third quarter that swept the surprised Sundodgers down the field and across the goal line. When Montana made any attempt at open play they found their opponents too quick for them. Several forward passes were intercepted by Washington and figured in the scoring. Washington's second team took the job over after the game had been safely salted away.

Washington State College's 54-to-7 defeat of Gonzaga University at Spokane indicates that the Cougars are going to be a formidable element in the Pacific Conference. When they were defeated by an all-star alumni team a week earlier some of their followers feared that Welch's men were not up to expectations, but now all is well. Gonzaga is no mean opponent. It has a Notre Dame coach and a sp[illegible] bunch of players. The week before it had beaten the College of Idaho, 36 to 0, and that school had lost only one other game in four years.

STEAM ROLLER.

Matched with Gonzaga, the Cougars were a steam roller. The whole string of touchdowns was scored on straight football, the backs fairly tearing the Catholic line to pieces. Gonzaga's touchdown came in the first two minutes of play, before the State Collegers had their eyes open, Melsaacs making a brilliant run of seventy yards.

In its 7-to-7 tie with Oregon, the University of Idaho lost an opportunity for which it had been waiting many years. Idaho has never defeated the Oregonians, and the Gem Staters were set on taking home a victory yesterday. They should have done so, for they clearly outplayed the Eugene eleven in practically every department. A spectacular forward pass of forty-five yards, Spike Leslie to Morfitt, scored the Oregon touchdown and saved the day.

INDIVIDUAL FOOTBALL STARS STILL IN DEMAND; MANY ARE THE HEROES WHO GO UNSUNG.

BY ROBERT W. MAXWELL.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16. — Has there ever been a time when individualism and brilliancy was less sought for on collegiate football teams than at present?" writes a contributor.

That is a broad sort of a question and you cannot justly answer either in the affirmative or negative. Individualism and brilliancy always have been at a premium in football and always will be. It is that kind of a game.

The outstanding star is wanted just as much today as he ever was in the history of the gridiron and a little more, perhaps. We presume said contributor is referring to the backfield berths mainly, but the same thing applies in a different way to the line.

The whole question centers around whether the individual star is capable of fitting into team play. If not, then he is far from an individual star, for his effectiveness is wasted.

ALWAYS WILL BE.

There were wonderful players a generation and more ago, a decade ago and there are wonderful players today, just as there will be ten years hence.

Perhaps the whole question resolves itself into a question of just what is a great star of the gridiron.

In the back field we should say he is man who has everything, a constant menace and threat, who can affect the psychology of the opposition just as much as he can affect them physically. In other words, he must be the type of player who can do everything and do it well. That means he must have weight for ripping through the line, speed for circling the wings or shooting off tackle on those quick, short dashes, and he must be able to hurl forward passes and punt, with a fair amount of education in his toe for the field-goal variety of scoring.

When a coach has a man who can do these things, or nearly all of them, and who fits into the general team play, he has a star and can build around him. But they are rare, the Brickleys, and Mahans, and Thorpes, and Berrys.

THE ATTRIBUTES.

Before passing from the topic of greatness as applied to the back field there are some other attributes that this superplayer must have to rightfully earn recognition as a star. He must also be able to help his fellow-players. He should be an excellent man to interfere for another back carrying the ball, should be able to ward off tackles and bear the brunt of a lot of punishment. Perhaps that lists with the team work, but it is essential if the player is to be truly great.

So far as the line is concerned, the same thing applies. Individualism to the ultimate degree, but fitting in with team play. A star linesman must be able to diagnose enemy plays fairly well, take certain men out of them, stop all attacks on his own opposition and help those on either side of him, must be able to open gaps for his own backs to go through, be a deadly tackler and never get disheartened because all the cheering is for the backs, while the best he gets is a mouthful of mud. It's all in the game.

SOME REMAIN UNSUNG.

We have seen many a player touted to the skies as a star in recent years when, as a matter of fact, some other member of the team was the genuine star and was merely paving the way for his team mate to earn recognition. That was good team work.

Without pointing out any instances of those who received undeserved plaudits, attention can be called to just what is meant by pointing out one instance. A couple of years ago the University of Pennsylvania had one of the finest teams in the country. They took a couple of drubbings that never should have happened and they had one star back who never received genuine recognition other than the plaudits handed out because he was such an exceptionally hard worker. The player was Hobey Light, fullback. When the other backs went through the line, Light had always been there first to open the gap; when Penn needed two or three yards for a first down, Light always got it; when an end run was staged, it was Light who usually took two or three of the enemy out of the play; when opposing backs broke through that powerful Penn line, it was invariably Light who threw them a step in back of it. And he could throw forward passes. Had he been able to kick he would have been a perfect back. And every college has the same sort of thing happening.

Think over the list for the past five years, and you will find just as many cases of individual brilliancy in modern-day football as ever, with the tendency more and more toward developing this type of player and then teaching him how to fit in with team work.

Louisville on Top of Post-Season Series.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BALTIMORE, Oct. 16.—Louisville forged ahead in its post-season brush with Baltimore by a 7-to-6 victory today in a game replete with thrills. Louisville now has four victories and Baltimore three.

For three innings the contest was close, after which Louisville bunched hits and bases on balls off Thomas for five runs. Egan and Lefter of Baltimore made home runs. Score:

In the mixed foursomes at the Los Angeles Country Club yesterday Mrs. George Midgeley and Dr. F. W. Warren won with a score of 89-13-76. Miss Katherine Mellus and E. S. Armstrong were second, scoring 85-4-81, and Mrs. C. J. Gordon and George W. Weber came in third, 101-19-82.

FORM NEW GOLF CLUB.

Western Avenue Organization Springs Into Being; Players Pay No Dues—Just Greens Fees.

One hundred and fifty-five acres of land on the northwest corner of Western avenue and Manchester avenue has been purchased by the Western-avenue Golf Club and plans are now under consideration for a golf course and clubhouse.

The best architectural and engineering talent is to be employed, and it is intended to construct as fine a course as any in the West. Fairways and greens are to be grass, the soil being a rich loam, free from clay and salts, and perfectly adapted to the enterprise. The greens will be large, well drained and in many instances undulating. While the course will be scientifically trapped, it will be free from steep hills, and rocky canyons and washes — skill rather than rugged endurance being the requisite and pleasure rather than work the aim.

A PRETTY THING.

The clubhouse will be pretty without pretense and comfortable without ostentation.

The plan of the Western-avenue Golf Club is unique and different from any other organization in the West. In the East, however, the idea has been tried with phenomenal success. The plan is to charge no dues or assessments against members, such as is the case with other private clubs, where usually the majority of the members use the club but little, if at all, but, nevertheless, pay the major portion of the dues and assessments, and thus pay the major part of the expenses of operation.

Only those who use the club privileges at the Western-avenue Golf Club will pay—a schedule of fees will be established. The greens fee tentatively decided upon is 75 cents per day, which is, of course, very low, and it is intended to sell "commutation books" at substantial rebates. Only those joining the enterprise and their guests, will be permitted club privileges, unless it is found that there is ample room for more, in which case selected members of the general public will be allowed limited club privileges at rates higher than those charged members.

NO CONGESTION.

No congestion, however, is intended to be permitted, and it is believed that there will be enough members and their guests to comfortably fill the course.

Among those backing the enterprise are T. A. Morrissey, James M. O'Brien, Marco H. Hellman, H. H. Cotton, W. G. Van Pelt, Richard H. Oakley and Harold D. Benton. The executive end of the enterprise is being handled by Mr. O'Brien, who is counsel and director of the James Ranch in the San Joaquin Valley, and Morrissey, who is cashier of the Merchants' National Bank of Los Angeles, and who will act as treasurer of the club.

HAWKEYES ARE AFTER TITLE.

Victory Over Illinois Puts Them in Lead.

Display Great Offensive Power and Drive.

Wisconsin May be Contender for Big Ten Honors.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 16. — Decisive and well-earned victory of Iowa over Illinois, which places the Hawkeyes in a commanding position to claim the Western conference championship, triumph of Ohio State over Minnesota and the defeat of Princeton by the Navy were the salient features of Saturday's football games.

Defeat of Illinois by Iowa, 14 to 2, eliminated the Urbana eleven from championship consideration, while the Hawkeyes are started on a season which should be the most successful since 1900, when Iowa had a great team. Iowa has yet to meet Purdue, Indiana, Minnesota and Northwestern to complete its season without defeat. Of these games, the clash with the Hoosiers may be the hardest, although Minnesota will be met at Minneapolis and may improve by November 5, when the contest is scheduled.

ALL-AROUND ABILITY.

In defeating Illinois, the Hawkeyes showed great offensive power and defensive strength.

Illinois made a gallant effort to stem the tide of defeat but succumbed to defeat by a better team, which is well coached in all departments of play.

Wisconsin gave a pleasing exhibition of football by defeating Northwestern, 27 to 0. There is a lot of power in the Wisconsin eleven. A coach could hardly ask for a better trio of backs than Caprat, Sundt, Elliot and Williams. With Gibson at quarter, the team was handled nicely and for the most part plays which gained the necessary distance were selected.

A CONTENDER.

Wisconsin should be a contender for Big Ten honors after taking into consideration the game with Northwestern and the ability of the men on this year's team. If both Michigan and Wisconsin play true to form, they should clash at Madison on November 12 with clean slates. If this should be the case, one of the hardest fought battles of recent years should take place, as the old rivalry which existed between the two institutions back in 1905, when the last game was played, will crop out.

Ohio State was expected to recover from its 7-to-6 defeat by Oberlin. It showed the proper football stuff by getting together and gave Minnesota a 27-to-0 trouncing in the first football game ever played between teams representing the two universities. When one stops to analyze the material at Columbus, it is not hard to figure that Coach Wilce should place a team on the field which should be a worthy opponent for other teams.

RUTH PLAYS IN SPITE OF LANDIS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Oct. 16. Disregarding the order of Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, Babe Ruth and his barnstorming team today played an exhibition game in Buffalo against the All-Stars. Bob Meusel and Bill Piercy, also members of the Yanks, appeared with Ruth. The balance of the team was composed of Buffalo players. Ruth's team batted out a 4-to-2 victory, Babe cracking out a home run. Approximately 3000 persons witnessed the game.

After the game Ruth said: "I don't think I have committed any wrong. I think Judge Landis is wrong in his decision."

ADVISES OFFICE MEN TO WRESTLE DAILY.

"Wrestle before supper" is the advice given to office and store men by P. C. Bragg, the wrestling instructor at Central Y.M.C.A., and to suit the action to the word he has agreed to conduct a special class from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, beginning tomorrow. The regular evening wrestling class began last Friday night with a nucleus squad of ten strong men, but as Dame Nature had a punishing headlock on Bragg in the shape of a boil on the back of his neck, he had to give instruction without demonstration, much to his chagrin.

FRENCHMAN AFTER KIL

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Chiqui is France's new fighting marvel and, according to his manager, M. Huron Leon, who arrived today on the liner Leopold from Havre, the Gallic king of punch, as he is called there, will sail for this country within a month. He wants to meet Johnny Kilbane for the featherweight boxing title. Efforts to find out whether Chiqui had a first name were unsuccessful. Chiqui's chief asset, it would appear from his manager, is the absence of a chin. According to Leon, the chin was badly dented by a two-and-half-inch shell from a German Big Bertha, which had the featherweight groggy

ORDER ARREST OF FIGHT PROMOTERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WICHITA (Kan.) Oct. 16. R. J. Hopkins, Attorney-General, tonight directed Sheriff Doug Simmons to arrest promoters of the O'Dowd-Gibbons fight tomorrow. He said they had already violated the State law regulating prize fights, in that they had promoted and advertised the fight scheduled for Tuesday.

nesses of the doings. There was a strong sprinkling of shirt sleeves in the concourse, than which there could be no finer testimonial to our matchless and salubrious climate. The shirt sleeve, sometimes the barometer of diplomacy, can also be made to serve as a thermometer, and is more reliable than the ground hog. Thus, the silhouette transcends the shadow in importance. The ladies dressed about the same as usual, but you can't tell anything about the climate by the foliage on the wreng. Most ladies are of the deciduous variety, wearing less in the winter than in summer, when they come out all furred-up like a Russian mujik in full bloom. The scores:

Vernon Collects Long End of the Series in North.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—San Francisco and Vernon broke even on the day in the Winter League, but Vernon took the long end of the series. In the morning at Oakland, Dell beat Harry Krause, 8-2, and in the afternoon Johnny Couch triumphed over Tom Hughes, 6-2. Couch pitched a strong game, even if George Sisler and Claud Cooper did nick him for three hits each. With men on, John had something. Harry Hannah got to him for a home run and the other run was the result of a pass, an out and Cooper's two-bagger.

Things just don't break right for Ty Cobb to show up at his best at the bat here. He was up today in the seventh inning with the bases full and none down—an ideal set-up for a long slam that would have had the customers yapping with delight. But after working Tom Hughes down to a three-and-two call Ty swung mightily and raised a foul to Hannah and a sigh of disappointment went up from the crowd. When a batsman like Cobb comes up the crowd wants to see him hit and when he fails to hit a lot of the enjoyment is taken away.

Ball Title of Movies Won by Buster Keaton.

The indoor baseball championship of the Hollywood motion-picture studios is now the property of Buster Keaton and his diamond artists, for they won the coveted honor by winning from the Larry Semon nine yesterday morning, 4 to 3. The game, which proved highly exciting from start to finish, was played on the firemen's grounds in Hollywood and was witnessed by a larg ecrowd.

The Keatons won through a batting rally in the eighth inning, after the losers appeared to have the game shelved. The pitching of Haines, the batting of Collins and the fielding of Keaton featured for the winner, while Connykamp and Rock were the outstanding stars for the losers.

Not having anything more exciting to do at the conclusion of the game, the Keatons took on the Firemen and gave them a drubbing to the tune of a 9-to-6 score.

AUTO RACER TEARS OFF A RECORD MILE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DALLAS (Tex.) Oct. 16. — Sig Haugdahl, a motor-car racer, yesterday negotiated the mile in forty-four seconds flat on the Texas Fair speedway here and set what officials declared was a new world record, and which it was stated, would be regarded as official. The world record of forty-four and three-fifths seconds had been held by Tommy Milton and was made at Bakersfield, Cal.

MERCURY SOCCER DEMONS SUCCUMB

L. A. Uniteds Trim L.A.A.C. Team in Rapid Exhibition.

Sons Slaughter Rangers in Opening Tussle.

Pasadena Squad Humbles the Crown City 4 to 0.

Fast, clever and open football, garnished wit haplendid marksmanship and in two of the tilts a glut of goals featured the soccer games played yesterday before large crowds.

At Vernon, L. A. Uniteds took the points from the Mercury Club by a score of 2 to 1. The game was replete with brilliancy. Both sides were so good, neither deserved to go away pointless, although it must be said with equal force, the winners were deserving of their success. A finer defense under severe pressure than that presented by the Mercury Club has rarely been seen in local games. Playing with ten men they held well the ever dangerous United forwards.

COUNTS FIRST.

Lawrence Elliott opened the scoring for the Uniteds when he sent in a stinging shot from close range. The counter was the result of some clever work by Mitchell, who carried the ball from near his own half, beat the defense after a rare tussle, and parted to Elliott.

The Athletic Club's goal was scored by Collins from a perfect pass by Fulton. This center half was the bulwark of his side. He is a resourceful player, who showed clever individualism and also worked in good and effective unison with his forwards. The deciding goal was netted by Mitchell, who broke through and hooked the ball over the line just out of the reach of Milford.

Brown, Milford, Fulton, Collins starred for the losers, while honors go to Mitchell, Bonar, Robinson and Smith for the victors.

SLAUGHTERED.

In the preliminary at Vernon, the Sons slaughtered the Rangers, the tally sheet reading, 7 to 0. The plethora of goals, however, was due not so much to weak defense, but to the brilliancy of the Sons' attack. Then, too, the Rangers played with but ten men, and this handicap was further added to when injuries laid off two more. At half time neither team had scored, which was a fair indication of the respective strength of either side. The Rangers need some bolstering and Manager Mitchell has his lines out for some new material. Scotty Edwards, for the Sons, was the outstanding player.

At Exposition Park, honors were even when the Overseas and the Long Beach Uniteds played to a crowd of 2500. George McGregor put the Overseas in the lead when the game had gone but three minutes with a well directed shot from twenty yards. Knowles did not have a chance to save. Elder recovered the ball, and after a fine exhibition of dribbling centered to McGregor. The impetuosity of the Veterans' attack in the opening stages of the game had the visitors on the run, but fine defensive play by Knowles held his charge clear until his team-mates found themselves. Long Beach equalized shortly before time was called, Hart inside left being the medium. Hart Sutherland, Stephens and Knowles for Long Beach, and Tunicliffe, Brighton, Wagstaff and McGregor starred.

PASADENA WINS.

Pasadena and Crown City barked shins at Tournament Park, the former taking the points by the score of 4 to 0. Good defensive play for the Crown City Club saved an even greater defeat. The game attracted a large crowd.

Another double-header at Vernon next Sunday is on the card: Sons vs. Pasadena, and Overseas vs. L.A.A.C.

JAP TENNIS STARS WIN ALL TILTS.

Defeat Bay City Sharks in Both Singles and Doubles; Johnston Easy for Shimidzu

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BERKELEY (Cal.) Oct. 16. — Ichiya Kumagae and Zenzo Shimidzu, Davis cup contenders from Japan, won both singles and doubles in tennis matches with West Coast players here today.

Kumagae defeated Willis E. Davis of San Francisco, 6-4, 6-2, and Shimidzu defeated William Johnston of San Francisco, former national singles champion, and member of Pacific Coast doubles champions, 6-2, 6-3.

At doubles the pair defeated Roland Roberts and John Strachan, Pacific Coast doubles champions, 6-4 6-8 and 8-6.

Kumagae is scheduled to return East tomorrow and Shimidzu plans sailing for Japan.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, Oct. 16.—In a warmly contested game this afternoon at the Ontario Baseball Park the San Pedro club defeated Ontario by a score of 7 to 6. Nothing of interest happened until the first half of the second inning, when San Pedro piled up three runs, but Ontario came back in the second half with three more, and tied it. The fourth and fifth innings were uneventful, but in the first half of the sixth San Pedro scored three more. Ontario came back in the second half with another three, and once more the score was tied. It remained thus until the eighth, when Schinkel, pitching for Ontario, allowed several hits and was replaced by Dirks in the box after San Pedro had scored the seventh run. Ontario was unable to come back, and the game ended 7 to 6. Isenburg caught for Ontario. Morris pitched a good game for San Pedro and Peres caught.

EXETER LEGION OUT FOR PIGSKIN TITLE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EXETER, Oct. 16.—Exeter football team, American Legion champions of 1920, is about ready to start gathering in honor for 1921. First game of the season is with Reedley on Sunday, October 16, at Exeter. Games this year will all be played on Exeter's grounds, with the exception of the Armistice Day game, which is with Bakersfield and will be played at Tulare, where Exeter, Lindsay, Visalia and Tulare hold a joint celebration.

SAGEHENS WILL BE CONTENDERS.

Can't Count Pomona Out of Conference Race.

Battle With Whittier Will be for Title.

U.S.C.'s Forward Passes Are Big Success.

BY PAUL LOWRY.

Nothing happened in the southern football games Saturday to give the natives heart failure. Everything went off as per schedule. U.S.C. gave Occidental a walloping for the third year in succession, Whittier beat Redlands in a grim struggle, and Pomona got off to a running start by shoving the Cubs aside for a 55-7 victory.

Pomona's showing was enough to utterly revise the early season dope sheet which gave the Sagehens not a ghost of a show for the conference title. As matters stand now it is safe to predict that the battle between Pomona and Whittier at Claremont on November 12 will be for the conference title.

SOME DOPE.

Occidental has been brushed aside, Redlands was eliminated by Whittier, the Cubs have received two severe trouncings, and only Caltek, squelched by U. S. C. 70 to 0, remains to be licked, and this will be Pomona's job next Saturday.

Pomona has two extremely valuable men in Ray Wilson and Voorhies, halfbacks. These men were stars last year, and it is around them that Nixon has built most of his offense. They would be fixtures in any backfield in the south, and so long as they remain physically intact Pomona has a dangerous scoring machine. Voorhies, however, has an old injury which lays him open to abuse.

On the line Pomona has Baker, guard, and Denebrink, tackle, members of the team which last year held U.S.C., champions of the south, to a 7 to 0 score. Though two men don't make a line they can plug up two very important gaps, and form a solid nucleus for the rest of the forward wall.

U.S.C.'s showing against the Oxy Tiger wasn't as impressive as it might have been, and yet it should be remembered that Gloomy Henderson is pointing his team for the game with California. Perhaps this doesn't excuse the fact that the Tiger lineman frequently outcharged the Trojan rush line and broke through and slew Trojan runners for losses, but on the other hand U.S.C. wasn't keyed up to the same pitch as Occidental.

Occidental knew that fight was its only salvation, and U.S.C. was aware of the fact that she had a big edge on Occidental. This would have its effect on almost any football team, and U.S.C. players are just as human as any others.

Certainly no fault could be found with U.S.C.'s aerial attack. The short pass worked like a charm for half a dozen tries, and then when Oxy got the combination resort was made to the long pass, this resulting in two more touchdowns in the last quarter. Henderson's patience with his forward passers and receivers is bearing fruit.

WILL IMPROVE.

The U.S.C. line will improve with age, and so will the mechanical precision of her plays. It will be remembered that U.S.C. failed to look like a well-oiled machine until the game with Oregon—the last one of the season—last year. The same thing has happened each year at U.S.C.—that is, ever since Henderson has been a football coach. He lets the rough spots wear themselves off.

When such men as Wheaton, ex-Annapolis football coach, and Stanton of Caltek, declare that U.S.C. will beat California on November 5 it is unwise to pass snap judgment on the caliber of the U.S.C. team until she goes into a struggle where she will be forced to use all her skill and cunning.

AD GEYER TO PERFORM.

Thursday night gives promise of being a large evening at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. A boxing show of unusual merit has been arranged for this date by George Blake and Charley Keppen, and eight bouts will comprise the bill, which will be staged in the gymnasium.

More interest than ever before is being taken in the club glove cards, due to the slashing type of performances that have marked the last few programs. Now that the world's series has passed into history, local sportsmen have begun to turn their attention toward the club bouts, large numbers of reservations having been made. The bouts are open to the public.

Ralph Smith, who weighs 225 pounds and is six feet seven inches tall, will be given the acid test when he exchanges blows with Leon Azeltine, another big and heavy boy. Despite their relative sizes and weights, both Smith and Azeltine are unusually fast for big men.

The main event has been set aside for Ad Geyer, Coast amateur welterweight titleholder, and Sailor Goldman, red-haired Tar. August Gotto and Manuel Martinez, will appear in the semi-wind-up. The card follows:

Joe Salas	122	Lloyd Cressman
Carl Paperone	140	Edward Reardon
Ralph Smith	225	Leon Azeltine
Jesse Mulvaney	145	Kenneth Moffett
Ad Allegrini	158	Ralph Brown
Manuel Martinez	115	Aug. Gotto
Fidel La Barba	105	Benny Marks
Ad Geyer	145	Sailor Goldman

The Woes of a Coat.

Here am I cracking up my beauty daily, and I feel like a worm because there's no beauty in mere lines and curves done in black and white. They're cold and dead; whereas, I am just full of beauty and every inch of me breathes pep and life.

DISINFECTANT
COLD WATER WHITE PAINT
ALBATROSS CRAOLA

Every poultry man knows the necessity of good white paint. Albatross Craola is the best white paint you can buy for brush, spray or wash. It is a powerful disinfectant and germicide; kills mites, fly eggs, and lice; is harmless to stock and cattle. It outlasts other "white washes" or paint. Is easy to apply and sticks on any solid surface. Gives that clean appearance. Use in barns, dairies, chicken coops, hog houses, kennels and granaries.

Price, 85c per 5 lb. package (add 15c for packing and postage).

FOR SALE—
We know a builder who builds good houses. He has just completed a 6-room stucco. In our experience we have seen no better value for the money.

Located on a terraced corner in West Hollywood, surrounded by full grown trees. Shrubs and flowers beautify the yard. The living-room is 21x14 and the dining-room 16x14. Both are finished in antique plastering, domed chapel ceilings and quaint hand decorated fixtures. The wall decorations alone cost $500. Bath and kitchen are tiled and the 3 bedrooms are each unusually large.

Drive out Sunset to Curson and south to the corner of Pacific and Norton.

PASADENA—
For Sale, Exchange, Wanted, To Let.

FOR SALE—
MR. AND MRS. ANNUAL VISITOR.
Are you thinking of locating permanently? Would you consider a home offering unusual charm of location and surroundings, situated on the main thoroughfare connecting Pasadena and the Foothill Boulevard, two miles from the heart of Pasadena, yet having the quiet and seclusion of a real country place? It consists of five acres of the most wonderful trees in Southern California, which would require a lifetime to reproduce, also has an abundance of practically every variety of fruit.

The house consists of eleven large rooms, two baths, three fireplaces and furnace; is set well back among the trees and is connected by a beautiful winding drive to the main thoroughfare. It has a quiet, homelike air, seldom found anywhere, which makes it the ideal home for both the winter and summer seasons.

The present owner has occupied it for eight years and has never before offered it for sale, but due to advancing years and smaller family now offers it for $35,000, which is far below actual value.
Shown by appointment, Mr. Shaw.

STABLE CONTINENT.

Sinking of Greenland's Coast Not Duplicated in Cape Breton.

An extract from a London paper which you reprint says: "All the eastern coast of Greenland has been subsiding for the last four centuries, so that some of the ancient piles, driven into the beach to secure the boats of the settlers, have been gradually submerged."

In 1861 the Geological Society of London published Dr. Abraham Gesner's paper, entitled "Elevations and Depressions of the Earth in North America," in which it was contended, upon evidence drawn from the vertical position of the walls of the fort at Louisburg, Cape Breton, that the sea had encroached upon the land; in other words, that Nova Scotia had undergone and was still undergoing submersion.

As such contention threatened to disturb many interesting historical conclusions which assumed a permanent relation of continental land and sea in historical times, a new and more elaborate survey of the Louisburg ruins was made in 1901 by Kenneth McIntosh, C. E., of St. George's Channel, Richmond county, Nova Scotia. This survey was published in the Transactions of the Nova Scotia Institute of Science, XI, 2, 262, Halifax, 1906, and was indorsed by Dr. Henry S. Poole, D. Sc., F.G.S.; by Maj. O. C. Williamson, Royal Artillery, and other competent critics.

In the words of Dr. Poole, "there is no evidence of subsidence in Nova Scotia in historic times." The conclusive verdict of Engineer McIntosh is that "the ditches, curtain walls and batteries of Louisburg enable us to balance [or refute] Gesner's 'depressions.'"

Hence, while admitting the subsidence of Eastern Greenland, which is an island not necessarily connected with the main, such submersion does not appear to have been accompanied by any subsidence of the American continent in historical times.—[Alexander Del Mar in New York Herald.

Naming Rooms is Not New.

The idea of giving descriptive or picturesque names to rooms in hotels instead of being a modern idea in reality dates back to the days when hotels were first established, says an old hotel manager.

The chambers of many of the charming old English inns, during Shakespeare's time, had special names, as well as some of the old New England taverns and ordinaries of a later date.

According to an old inventory of one of the several King's Arms of Boston, at the time of its sale in 1651 the furnishings disposed of included those of the "Starr," "London," "Court," "Exchange" and a number of other chambers.

It has been said that the rooms of the Blue Anchor, a Boston ordinary of the early Colonial days, were designated by descriptive names some of them strongly suggestive of the names of well known rooms of our modern hotels of today.

Some of the names in the old Blue Anchor were the "Rose Room," "Sun Low," "Cross Keys," an "Anchor," the "Green Dragon" and the "Castle Room."—[New York Sun.

CITY ANGLERS WELCOMED.

"City anglers are certainly welcomed in these parts," said the Maine fisherman. "The more city folks who come up here, the better fishing is for us. Thousands come every summer to try their luck on the cod shoals. They go out and pull up so many fish that they don't really know what to do with them, so they give them to the native fishermen to sell. More cod has been given to me this summer than I caught myself. It has more than doubled my income." — [New York Sun.

Jollying Ye Ed.

"I suppose you editors wish there was really such a thing as 'biting wit.'"

"Why?"

"Because then you could look at the teeth of the jokes sent you and tell their age."—[Boston Transcript.

VETERAN OF OREGON BAR SUCCUMBS.

Justice Henry L. Benson of Supreme Court Was Born in Stockton, Cal.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALEM (Or.) Oct. 16.—Justice Henry L. Benson of the Oregon Supreme Court died early this morning at his home here. His services as prosecutor and jurist in Oregon covered a period of nearly a quarter of a century and he had practiced law in the State for about forty years, previously practicing in California. He was a brother of the late Gov. Frank W. Benson of Oregon.

Justice Benson was born at Stockton, Cal., in 1854. Much of his boyhood was spent in Portland, Or., and he received his early education in old Portland Academy. His college work was at the University of the Pacific at San Jose, where he was graduated in 1878. Later he was accorded a master's and a law degree from the same institution. He read law in the office of George F. Baker of San Francisco and Judge Herrington of San Jose and was admitted to the bar in California in 1878 and practiced law in California with W. G. Lorigan in San Jose. He came to Oregon in 1880. He was principal of the Drain Normal School and of the Grant's Pass schools.

Judge Benson was admitted to the bar in Oregon in 1886. The following year he was elected District Attorney of his district, comprising the counties of Josephine, Jackson, Klamath and Lake, and served four years. In 1896 he was elected to the Legislature and served as Speaker of the House. In 1898 he was elected circuit judge of his district and was re-elected in 1904. He resigned in 1908 to enter law partnership with C. F. Stone of Klamath Falls, but later was again elected circuit judge, serving about fourteen years.

He was elected to the Supreme Court in 1914, defeating Justice Charles McNary, now United States Senator, by one vote. He was reelected in 1920.

Justice Benson is survived by his widow, five children, two brothers and three sisters. One son, Arthur S. Benson, is clerk of the Supreme Court. The brothers are W. W. Benson of Dryad, Wash., and Fred T. Benson of San Jose. The sisters are Mrs. W. T. Pekins of Portland, Mrs. George Carpy of La Grande, Or., and Mrs. William Tonkin of San Jose.

ONE DOLLAR QUART FOR CHAMPAGNE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—As a result of the tremendous advantage in exchange rates for the American money in Germany, sailors of the United States Navy and stewards, waiters and ordinary seamen of the American trans-Atlantic steamships are living high, these days, when their ships touch at German ports, according to members of the crew of the steamship Princess Matoika, which arrived today from Bremen.

Prices at the best German hotels and restaurants are ridiculously low when paid in American money, and the humblest deck-swabber of an American commercial liner is treated with as much courtesy and respect as a plutocrat, members of the Matoika crew said.

The best champagne may be had for $1 a quart and a seidel of the best beer can be purchased with an American penny. Food is similarly cheap.

ANTIBEER BILL IS FACING FIGHT.

Wets Will Carry Battle to the Supreme Court.

Will Oppose Congressmen Who Support Measure.

Prominent Men Are Identified With Organization.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The troubles of Mr. Volstead and the proponents of the "antibeer" bill will be far from ended when that measure is enacted into law, according to Capt. William H. Stayton, founder and executive vice-president of the National Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, who, in a statement today said that if the bill passes the Senate and is signed by President Harding his society will immediately bring suit to test its constitutionality, and will carry the case to the Supreme Court if it becomes necessary.

"This litigation," Capt. Stayton announced, "will be in charge of a committee of prominent lawyers, doctors and laymen, who are members of the association. After the law has been declared unconstitutional, the association will go into the districts of the Senators and Congressmen, who voted for it and will point out to their constituents that they were duly warned of the unconstitutionality of the bill and that in spite of the warning and under the lash of the Anti-Saloon League, they sacrificed the Constitution of the United States and voted improperly."

BRANCHES BEING FORMED.

Capt. Stayton announced that his association is forming State and local branches throughout the United States with offices conveniently located in large cities and that in addition it is conducting a huge mail campaign from its principal office at Washington.

"Every one of our offices is humming with activity," he stated. "We have already absorbed the memberships of several of the smaller liberal societies that have been formed in various parts of the country during the last few years, and are this fall launching a nation-wide campaign, which we hope will crystallize and make potent the widespread and rapidly increasing sentiment against prohibition."

According to Capt. Stayton, the present membership of 250,000 only marks the beginning of the work of the association. He expects that over 1,000,000 voters will be enrolled by the end of the year and said that the step necessary is being taken to effect an organizathion to fight the efforts of Senators and Congressmen, who vote for the measure. The association does not anticipate the return of the saloon.

PROMINENT MEMBERS.

Among its members are: F. Dewitt Cuyler, Dr. Charles D. Hart, the Rev. Archibald Campbell Knowles, Dr. Collier F. Martin, Dr. Charles B. Penrose, Dr. John J. Deaver and William Jefferson Guernsey of Philadelphia; Stuyvesant Fish, Charles H. Sabin, Archibald B. Roosevelt, Kermit Roosevelt, Harrison Grey Fisk, Vincent Astor and Albert H. Atterbury of New York; R. L. Agassiz, Hon. L. A. Coolidge and Charles N. Rackmann of Boston; Gen. Felix Agnus, Dr. Julius Friedenwald and Waldo Newcomer of Baltimore; John A. Roebling and Dr. Hudson Maxim of New Jersey; William P. Eno of Washington and other equally well-known men and women throughout the United States.

Germans Try to Discredit Yankee Films.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—That German motion-picture interests are attempting to discredit American films and to destroy their popularity with Teuton audiences is the charge made by the Berlin Gazette's motion-picture critics. He was moved to make it after attending a performance, the program of which was composed of an Italian film depicting the life of Christ, and a Charley Chaplin film. The combination of the Bible and Chaplin was too much for the critic, who sought a motive for it. He pronounced the Italian biblical film as unpsychological, undramatic and intensely tiresome, whereas the Chaplin film, which convulsed the audience, was voted fine. The critic reached the conclusion that the Chaplin film had been purposely hitched to the poor Italian film, "so that it might quickly disappear."

"One cannot shake off the suspicion that the German picture interests, by a deliberately wrong choice of American pictures and a wrong make-up of programs, attempt to create a wrong impression of the value of American pictures and so prevent their popularization in Germany," he adds.

NAMES SUCCESSOR TO KNOX.

Gov. Sproule of Pennsylvania Will Appoint William E. Crow of Uniontown.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—Strengthening of the fight to ratify the treaty with Germany will come through the appointment of State Senator William E. Crow of Uniontown as successor to the late Philander C. Knox as United States Senator from Pennsylvania. Gov. Sproule, urged by President Harding to promptly fill the vacancy because of the anticipated close vote on the treaty, today decided to comply with the request.

CONFERENCE WITH PENROSE.

The selection of Crow followed a conference between the Governor and Senator Penrose last night. The appointment, which will be made early this week, will give fifty-seven Republican votes favorable to ratification and if the eleven Democrats originally reported as favorable remain steadfast the treaty will be ratified by a maority of four, in case the full Senate is present and voting. Sixty-four votes, or two-thirds of the Senate, are required to ratify.

Gov. Sproule left today for New York with the intention of going to Washington for a conference with President Harding later in the week. Before going he said that he intended to appoint Crow, who is chairman of the Republican State Committee, long prominent in Pennsylvania politics, and has had experience as a legislator and public man in Pennsylvania eminently qualifying him to be United States Senator.

The appointment will be made before the vote on the treaty is taken. Republican State leaders here yesterday said that the chances of defeat were so great that they would not permit the treaties to go to a vote until Knox's successor had been appointed.

Senator Lodge told Gov. Sproule that his failure to select a successor to Knox might mean the defeat of the treaties and endanger the success of the Disarmament Conference. Atty.-Gen. Daugherty brought a personal message from President Harding to the Governor, which was to the effect that the administration urgently requested prompt action in the appointment of a Senator from Pennsylvania. Atty.-Gen. Daugherty impressed the Governor that the treaty fight was in great doubt because of the wavering of the Democrats who had pledged themselves to its support.

CZECHS GIVE OIL RIGHTS TO STANDARD

American Company Will Have Monopoly to Drill for and Produce Petroleum.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—The Standard Oil Company has been granted a virtual monopoly of the petroleum business in Czecho-Slovakia on condition that a company with a capital of 100,000,000 Czechs kronen be formed, 30 per cent of the stock to be given free to the Czech government and 20 per cent to be given to Prague interests and the parent company to invest 50,000,000 kronen additional in boring and prospecting within five years, according to a dispatch to the Vossische Zeitung.

It is declared that independent American companies must abandon operations. The Czecho-Slovak refiners are protesting that the concession not only gives the Standard Oil Company a monopoly of petroleum, but also of subsidiary business.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Officials of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey today announced that Standard Oil interests had been given a concession to develop oil prospects in Czecho-Slovakia.

STEP TAKEN FOR RELIEF OF RUSSIANS

Residents of This Country Can Provide Help for Hungry Relatives.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Secretary of Commerce Hoover, as chairman of the American Relief Administration, announced tonight the receipt of a cablegram from Moscow stating that an agreement had been completed between the American relief administration and soviet authorities covering the sending of food to relatives and friends inside Russia by persons in the United States and abroad.

There are at least 2,000,000 Russians or Americans of Russian descent in the United States and probably 1,000,000 in Europe outside Russia and there has been large demand from them to assist in providing for their relatives and friends in Russia.

The following plan has been established to meet this need and at the same time to provide additional support to the destitute children. Under this plan anyone may remit funds by mail only, payable to the American Relief Administration on New York draft, money order or certified check in sums of not less than $10 and in multiples of $10 through the American Relief Administration offices in New York, Washington and London for the benefit of any person or group in Russia. These remittances, it is agreed, must be accompanied by full name and address of beneficiary in Russia and such remittances will be advanced to the headquarters of the American Relief Administration in Moscow.

The Moscow office will direct the American Relief Administration children's warehouses to get in touch with the beneficiaries and deliver food to them corresponding in amount to the money paid.

If beneficiary cannot be found within ninety days, remittances will be refunded to the purchaser. Advice of delivery of the food will, wherever possible, be sent to the purchaser.

FEDERAL RESERVE SALARIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The Federal Reserve Board does not regard "salaries paid the governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank and the Federal Reserve agent as being excessive," Gov. Harding of the board said in a letter to Chairman Anderson of the Congressional Agricultural Committee, made public last night.

BABY SLAYERS CONFESS.

Body Dug Up in Dooryard of Married Man's Home; Woman Admits Seeing Three Children Slain.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEWARK (N. J.) Oct. 16.—Following the arrest of Mrs. Rose McIntyre, 42, of Newark, and Edward M. Fitzgerald, 40, Hawthorne, N. J., on the charge of suspicion in the deaths of three babies, detectives went to Fitzgerald's home this afternoon and in the dooryard dug up the body of a baby.

Confessions in this baby's death have been made by both prisoners, each accusing the other, the police say. They also declare that in her statement to the police Mrs. McIntyre frankly admits she saw two others of her babies killed. These were murdered nine and five years ago, she says. She was twice married and also stated, the police say, that for several years she lived with still another man as her husband.

MAN IN CASE MARRIED.

Fitzgerald is married and his wife and two daughters live with the husband and father in a pretty home in Hawthorne, in the yard of which the last baby of Mrs. McIntyre's was found buried. They were present when the detectives dug up the baby's body. Fitzgerald was also present, he having shown the detectives where to dig, and during the disinterment his wife kept her arms about his neck, saying that she did not believe any of the charges against him.

GETS ANONYMOUS TIP.

It was through an anonymous letter received by Capt. Brex of the detective bureau that the arrests were made. On May 5 last the bodies of twins were found in the Passaic River. Detectives made an investigation, but could not obtain any evidence as to their identity. Among the scores of letters received offering solutions in connection with the mystery there was one which stated that a neighbor knew of Mrs. McIntyre having given birth to a baby and that it had never been seen. After questioning the woman for hours, Capt. Brex says she admitted she gave birth to a baby last April and confessed the child had been killed and buried.

Mrs. McIntyre, according to the police, stated that Fitzgerald had buried the baby's body in Hawthorne. When Fitzgerald was confronted with the woman's confession he denied it and swore that it was she who had killed the baby by wrapping it in a blanket and placing it under the bed, and not he. He said he became frightened when the woman implicated him and in order to prevent scandal he had taken the body in a dress-suit case to the yard of his home, where he buried it.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is sign you have been eating too much meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. —[Advertisement.

PIMPLES DENOTE WASTE PRODUCTS IN THE BLOOD

So Do Blackheads, Boils and Similar Skin Disorders.

The human system is forever striving to get rid of the waste products. It is a life-work which goes on forever. When waste products get in the blood, they cause a lowered vitality. As a result, we become subject to many painful and embarrassing ailments.

When these symptoms appear, Nature is warning us. To throw off the waste products, the blood must be purified. Don't clog your blood. Just clean it out. Nature will do the rest. Pure, rich, red blood nourishes the body and fights off disease.

S. S. S., the standard blood purifier and system builder, is the ideal remedy for skin eruptions. The effect of S. S. S. is to rid the system of the waste products which are causing the trouble. For over 50 years S. S. S. has proven to be of unusual merit. Begin taking S. S. S. today and write for 56-page illustrated booklet, "Facts About the Blood"—free.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.—[Advertisement.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixture with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.—[Advertisement.

FARMER'S WIFE NEARLY STARVED

Mrs. Peterson Says She Became Afraid To Eat.

Suffered Attacks of Indigestion After Every Meal.

Now Fully Restored, She Gives Entire Credit to Tanlac.

Declaring she was Nearly Starved to keep from suffering awful misery, Mrs. Amy Peterson, wife of a prosperous farmer of Lakeville, Mass., gave out a remarkable statement, recently, in connection with her relief through the use of Tanlac.

"Sometimes I wonder how I lived through it all," she said. "I would have attacks of acute indigestion nearly every time I ate anything. Those terrible cramping pains and the distress from gas and bloating were almost unbearable.

"But now I'm eating anything and I feel as strong and well as I ever felt in my life. I've gained back all the weight I lost and six pounds besides and I know from my experience what Tanlac will do. It's the best medicine in the world."

Tanlac is sold in Los Angeles by The Owl Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere. — [Advertisement.

Prof. Thomas Wilkinson begs to apologize to the numerous ladies who were unable to make appointments with him owing to the overwhelming calls for his time during the summer months; but invites them to come now, when he can give them more time and attention. Do not take swimming lessons in the pressure of summer rush. Those persons who swim during the cool weather will be stronger and healthier than those who neglect to do so.

My various visits here, covering periods running over the full year, convince me that it is the finest section of this country in which to live 365 days out of a year, and I am here for that purpose. I have come in contact with many who have no real conception of what California and the Pacific Coast is, and the idea of what its future will be.

IF .. SHE .. WANTS .. A .. FIGHT, .. WELL—

Musician's Lawyer Hints at Something Up His Sleeve

Mr. and Mrs. Carlos De Mandil.

"IF she wants to fight the suit, that may alter the case, of course."

This was the expressed sentiment yesterday by Attorney George B. Toland, who represents Carlos de Mandil, leader of the Mission Theater Orchestra and noted violinist, in the latter's suit for divorce against Isabel Rodriguez de Mandil, famous dancer now appearing in Shubert's theaters in the East.

But should there be no contest of the suit, the brief charge of desertion listed in the complaint will fail to sound the depths of the temperamental differences of the two artists which led to their separation after five years of wedded life.

The lure of the footlights and the resounding applause of large audiences proved stronger in their appeal than the less dramatic life in a "cottage for two," even though the cottage in this case was a veritable palace built in San Francisco by Mr. De Mandil. So Isabel Rodriguez de Mandil forsook the comparative quiet home life for the limelight again.

Such is the inference drawn from the divorce complaint as it now reads. It is said by friends of the couple that she reluctantly gave up the fascinating life of a theatrical dancer to become "anchored" in San Francisco. In other words, she longed to be on the move again, but her husband had found he could make more money as a director and violin soloist by staying in one c than by traveling with road shows. He was determined to stay where his art was most appreciated.

She had a similar desire, but the prompting was to travel, so at last, during April of 1920, she returned to the stage. The separation marred the romance which originated five years before in the Winter Garden at New York City. So rapid was the love-making which depeloped when Mr. De Mandil met the dancer at the garden, where he was playing the violin, that he proposed one day and they were married the next, his friends say.

Then the couple were together with the Al Jolson show and their happiness was unbounded. The violinist, however, soon learned that as a director of orchestra for one theater he could make more success than as a traveling director, so he accepted a contract at a San Francisco theater. It was in the Bay City they separated.

So the violinist, noted for his music and his specially-built automobiles, came to Los Angeles. He merely charges desertion in his complaint. There are no hints of temperament—that poetic license for the artist. But should the case be contested, well——

Abused by Old Man, Says Girl Shock Victim.

Asserting that she had been slapped in the face and knocked down by an old man who had been introduced to her by a girl friend, Miss Eva Stillwell of 742 Gladys avenue was late Saturday night treated at the Receiving Hospital for nervous shock. It was recorded that no evidence of violence had been found upon the girl.

According to the police report, Miss Stillwell met a girl friend who she knew as "Dorothy" and they walked to Eighth street and Ceres avenue where she was introduced to an old man who left them a few minutes later to obtain a quantity of whisky. Later the girl "Dorothy", she said, departed, leaving her with the old man, who attempted to force his attentions upon her. When she resisted, she said, he slapped her and knocked her down in the street. The girl's screams summoned C. D. Valenzale of 717 Kohler street and R. J. King of 966 Cornelius street to the rescue, and they took her to the Receiving Hospital.

WAKES UP RIP VAN WINKLES.

Sawtelle Trustees Ready to Resume Functioning.

Gavel Dusted Off; Members Met Long Unofficially.

President Gone; Will Elect New One Tonight.

Sawtelle's Board of Trustees awoke yesterday from a four years' sleep, dusted off the gavel, and prepared to function officially for the first time since Los Angeles stepped in and took everything in sight, including the City Hall and the Marshal's star. Not that the board has been moribund, for the members have been meeting regularly for the past four years though their official status was about that of the Dail Eirann, with possibly fewer bonds under the seat.

According to plans announced yesterday, the board will meet tonight after its Rip Van Winkle hiatus to elect a new president, as the former city head, William Haas, has moved away. The trustees now remaining on the board include Miss Mary Aldridge, Zachary T. Walker and J. P. Varney. The City Treasurer is H. C. Head and W. E. Mecum is City Clerk. A Fire Chief and a Marshal also are to be named. For fire protection, City Attorney Stephens of Los Angeles having ruled that all departments of this city must withdraw from Sawtelle, the Soldiers' Home town will revert to the old apparatus that has been stored away for four years and volunteer fire-fighters will be sought. The city has about $5000 to its credit in the bank, with accumulated interest, it is stated, to start on.

Meanwhile, however, Fred Finch, one of the leaders of the annexation force, is preparing for another merger election and is confident of success. The Anti-Annexation League, of which W. A. Abbot is secretary, is also limbering up its big guns in case of need, and talk of sewer and water bond issues also is being heard. For adequate sewer improvements about $100,000 is needed, while between $300,000 and $500,000 will be required to purchase the water system.

WELL KNOWN PHYSICIAN DROPS DEAD.

State Medical Board Member Succumbs While in Sacramento.

Dr. A. J. Scott.

While taking an early morning walk with his wife, Dr. A. J. Scott of 905 South Ardmore street, member of the State Board of Medical Examiners, dropped dead in Capitol Park, Sacramento, yesterday, of heart disease. News of his sudden demise was telephoned to his son, Dr. A. J. Scott, Jr., of 2310 Cimarron street, at 9 a.m. yesterday by the grief-stricken widow.

The doctor's three sons, Carlton, Robert and Dr. A. J. Scott, Jr., left by automobile at noon yesterday, bound for Sacramento, to assist their mother in making arrangements for the funeral. After their arrival it is expected that the date for the funeral will be telegraphed to relatives and friends in this city.

Dr. Scott was 63 years of age and was born in Missouri. The family came to Los Angeles nineteen years ago. He had offices in the Auditorium Building. In 1915 he was on the exposition's reception committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and for many years he took an active interest in harbor development and other municipal and civic enterprises.

Dr. Scott had practiced in Michigan and Wisconsin before coming here. He was appointed a member of the State Board of Medical Examiners by Gov. Stephens two years ago.

It was business in connection with the State Board of Medical Examiners that called Dr. and Mrs. Scott to Sacramento on Friday. They expected to return Friday of this week. The relatives are the widow, Annis Scott, three sons, Carlton, Robert and Dr. A. J. Scott, Jr., and two daughters, Mrs. David S. Bennett of Ventura, and Mrs. Margaret Donaldson of San Francisco.

HANDS TROUBLE TO "HIS" DOCTOR

Santa Barbara Man Ends Sewer War by Getting Out.

Tony Neighbors Snub Him; He Gets Nearly Even.

Physician Now Home Owner, Heir Apparent to Woe.

A. H. Matthews, who fell out with his aristocratic hillside neighbors at Santa Barbara over a sewer right of way, has got even with them. He has sicked a doctor on them. But let the story proceed in its own orderly way.

Colina Lane, where Mr. Matthews lived, is in one of the aristocratic parts of Santa Barbara's high-toned East Side. Years ago an imported city engineer laid out a sewer system for that part of the city and made the manhole at the junction of Quarantina and Colina so shallow that the greater part of Colina Lane is unable to connect, as the sewer line from that district would have to run uphill. Mr. Matthews bought without realizing this engineering deficiency. He poured out thousands of dollars in beautifying his grounds, erecting an attractive home and surrounding it with a veritable park. He tried to get the city to lower the sewer manhole. The city refused. He tried to buy a private right of way for a sewer line across his neighbors' property to connect with a sewer line farther down the hill on which Colina Lane is graded. They refused to sell him a right of way.

Finally, after repeated efforts, realizing he would have to abandon his property, he hit on the plan to pay the neighbors back with interest.

WITH INTEREST.

He had not spoken to a neighbor for eight months. The feud between them grew intense. His final plan to pay with heavy interest developed. He advertised his property as for sale to colored people. Then he sat on his porch to glimpse the effect. He had 100 telephone calls about as fast as they could be taken. Most of these were from his neighbors, he says. He was roasted, flayed and, he says, about drawn and quartered. He liked it, he declares, for it was interest being paid, though the Realty Board of Santa Barbara took up the matter and resoluted against Mr. Matthews.

Then the would-be purchasers began to arrive and the telephone acticity increased.

"I had many offers to sell my home to colored people," Mr. Matthews said yesterday. "One woman sat on the steps for half an hour drinking in the wondrous landscape, while the little colored children of her household romped over the greensward or gathered the choice flowers. I could catch glimpses of white faces in neighboring houses taking sly peeks from windows all about.

FINE FOR CHILDREN.

"Finally, one colored man, who was acting for himself and a brother, insisted that the deal be closed. He said between them they had twenty-four children and the place suited them fine. But I required twelve hours to think it over. I could not run the bluff to such an extreme, so when Dr. Sanford McDonald came along I gave him the property on the same terms I would have given the colored folk, had I closed with them."

So peace now reigns in Colina Lane. Pedigreed dogs romp on the neighboring lawns and the neighborhood is supremely relieved, while Mr. Matthews is preparing to build in another part of the city a home that will cost a little fortune, but it will have sewer connections.

Fete Proceeds Clear Debt On Land for Home.

The garden fete benefit given for the McKinley Home at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. Brown 919 West Adams street, Saturday afternoon and evening proved to be a financial success, the net proceeds being $4000, it was stated yesterday.

The amount will complete the final payment on the acreage secured near Van Nuys for a larger home and a drive is to be instituted for the funds for the buildings.

A number of private schools lent support to the garden fete, among them the Marlborough, Cumnock, Palm Hall and Westlake schools, all of which sent delegations to assist. The Pasadena Military Academy sent over a corp of cadets in uniform.

Monrovia Churchman Mourns Loss of Cash, Suits and Flashlight.

While C. W. Bogart, treasurer of the Monrovia Baptist Church, was counting up the collection last night thieves broke into his home and took the morning offering of $127.34 in checks and coin. They then departed with two suits, a pair of shoes and the flashlight used in locating the place where the net proceeds from the collection plates were hidden.

LONGSHOREMAN HIT BY AUTO; MAY DIE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN PEDRO, Oct. 16.—Arthur Olsen, a longshoreman, age 61 years, was perhaps fatally injured late this afternoon when he was struck at Ninth and Pacific avenue by an auto driven by Forest Stoner of 3044 Kerckhoff street.

According to the police, Olsen stepped from behind one auto directly into the path of the other. He was knocked down and run over. His injuries consisted of many severe bruises and three fractured ribs. He was treated at the Hillside Hospital.

MONROVIA BOY, NINE, IS KILLED.

Lad Walking on Foothill Boulevard Run Down and Fatally Injured by Auto.

Thomas Villinenna, an 8-year-old school boy of Monrovia, received fatal injuries last night when he was struck by an automobile driven by William Talbott on the Foothill Boulevard near Monrovia.

According to a brief report of the accident reaching the Sheriff's office here, the boy was walking along the road with two companions when the automobile struck him. Mr. Talbott was held by Constable Bovee of Monrovia for some time and then released. Constable Bovee reported that the accident was unavoidable on Mr. Talbott's part. The latter is 17 years of age and is the son of W. A. Talbott, proprietor of the Monrovia Feed and Fuel Company.

The body of the boy was sent to the Reynolds undertaking establishment in Monrovia.

TRAFFIC PERIL ZONE WILL BE INSPECTED.

LOS ANGELES RAILWAY TO CONDUCT NEW KIND OF EXCURSION.

A personally conducted trolley trip of a new kind will be conducted by the Los Angeles Railway tomorrow morning when officials of the street railway and representatives of various public bodies will inspect points of traffic congestion and danger. A special car will leave the Los Angeles Railway Building at 9 a.m. and the greater part of the day will be devoted to the trip.

The party will include railway company officials, representatives of the engineering department of the State Railroad Commission, the Board of Public Utilities, the police traffic bureau, the legal department of the Automobile Club of Southern California and the Chamber of Commerce.

The trip will give an understanding of the traffic and danger conditions as they exist with a view to developing co-operation between the bodies represented for greater safety and less traffic delay and congestion.

Lunch will be served at the new restaurant built by the street railway for the convenience of employees at the Division No. 3 car-house, Avenue 28 and Idell street.

Nebraska Man, Taken Ill On Car, is Dead.

A man of about 55 years of age, identified by papers in his pocket as Robert A. Kinney, was declared dead apparently from natural causes last night at the Receiving Hospital, where he was rushed after becoming violently ill on a Maple-avenue street car at Maple and Santa Barbara avenues about 10:05 p.m. A. E. Hall of 3837 Crawford, a passing motorist, placed the man in his car and took him to the Receiving Hospital. Police surgeons declared that Mr. Kinney was dead when he arrived.

From receipts for membership dues in the Masonic order found in the man's pockets, the police say that he evidently came to Los Angeles within the past few days from Lincoln, Neb. Other articles found in his pockets were several checks, a door key, $1 in change and an Ingersoll watch. He wore a plain gold ring and white bone cuff buttons.

PAGEANT CLOSES GLORIOUSLY

Last Day of Cabrillo Discovery Celebration Full of Snap and Beauty; War Heroes Gather at Port.

Los Angeles Harbor's three-day Cabrillo discovery celebration, launched Friday night with a spectacular pageant, came to a close last night after a day crowded with events that attracted throngs from all parts of Southern California.

Starting out in the morning with speed-boat races and ending at night with a repetition of the pageant of Cabrillo enacted by pupils of the San Pedro High School in Gaffey's Canyon, the day was replete with excitement and novelty.

One of the outstanding features was the reunion of the members of the twelve oversea units of the Army during the war at Fort MacArthur, and the dedication of a German naval gun captured by Yankee soldiers soon after America's entrance into the world conflict. More than 500 former soldiers who were mustered into service at Fort MacArthur, representing the twelve outfits, gathered in the quadrangle at the fort shortly before noon. They were greeted by Col. H. J. Hatch, commanding officer at the fort, and by sergeants and privates still in the service.

GUN DEDICATED.

Following a banquet held by the former overseas men in the Service Club Building at the fort, the German gun was dedicated as a lasting memorial of the conflict, Gov. Stephens and Sheriff Traeger of Los Angeles being the speakers.

Prominent among the men at the reunion was Capt. Duncan Taylor, who headed the Hollywood unit that volunteered for service early in 1917. The unit was composed entirely of motion-picture actors and men engaged in work at film studios.

The ex-soldiers joined the thou-

CITY NEIGHBORLINESS.

"Jack and I met the Blanks in the mountains last July,' young Mrs. Smith told me the other day. "We were simply fascinated by them. They really are a most delightful pair. We were charmed to learn that in the autumn they were coming to our city to live. When we learned that they didn't know where they were going to live we urged them to move to the building where we lived. There was a vacant apartment just above us. When Mr. Blank ran down to the city in September to look at it, it was still vacant and he engaged it then and there. That," she added with a deep sigh, "is where our troubles began."

THE FIRST BIG BLUNDER.

"You know," she resumed, "how little one knows of one's neighbors in big city apartment-houses, and how carefully one avoids them. If, necessarily, one meets them, one then proceeds to follow an unwritten law which is all the stronger for being unwritten. One is much more punctilious with acquaintances in the same building than with those in other buildings. One never dreams of running in and out, as in the country. One takes special pains to call only on the regular day of the hostess, if she has a calling day, and to see that she knows ones own day.

"But poor little Mrs. Blank didn't know those things. She had lived in country places and was used to informal neighborliness. Before she had been in our building three days she ran in at breakfast time to consult me about some shopping she had to do."

She sighed again.

LIFE'S BLEAKEST HOUR.

"Breakfast time," she went on gloomily, "is the hardest hour of the twenty-four in our house. It's simply awful! Our three children are always late at the table and that makes our one servant furious. Then the children wrangle, quietly but incessantly. Jack reads the paper steadily and never speaks except to scold the children for the noise they are making or to criticise the coffee or muffins. I am as nervous as a cat trying to keep them in some sort of order. And on top of all this in rushes little Mrs. Blank right through the kitchen—she had come to the back door—drawing her chair close to Jack's, taking a cup of coffee with us, and prattling at the rate of a hundred and sixty words to the minute. Her husband leaves his home earlier than Jack, and she has no children. So she came in bubbling with good spirits!"

I looked the sympathy I could not express.

THE ONE REMEDY.

"She does it still, on an average of three times a week at breakfast time. The other days she 'runs in' early in the afternoon or very late at night because she has just thought of something to do early the next morning—even before breakfast. Usually it's a flower show, or an early market she wants to drag me to. Half a dozen times she has caught a disappearing glimpse of Jack as he fled before her in his pajamas. We like her just as much as we ever did, but—" she paused to make her climax stronger—"we've simply got to move! Jack says so!"

Making More Money

A Woman Who Became Successful Through Telling Stories to Children.

THAT'S what the children in Chicago call her, for she has succeeded in making a name and an excellent income for herself through a most unusual type of profession—telling stories to the kiddies and keeping them amused while their mothers shop in the large store where the "story lady" spins her entrancing tales of fairies and giants and gnomes.

The selection of this type of work, unheard of up to a few years ago, dates back to the time when the woman in question found herself in the position of having to make her own living without any apparent means of support whatever. She had passed the age when shorthand came easily or when it was possible for her to learn any other professions which can be quickly picked up by young girls, and she felt that clerking in a store did not present a future sufficiently bright for her to specialize on this type of work. In fact, there was nothing at all in sight, when one of her friends happened to suggest story-telling as a means to economic independence.

"I've seen you keep children quiet by the hour, just by telling them stories," said the friend, "and the establishment of that children's playroom in the big downtown stores opens a real opportunity for this type of endeavor. Go down and introduce yourself to the store manager. Tell him that you can take the major portion of the problem of what to do with the children off his shoulders and offer to prove this by telling stories for a week or so without recompense. They'll soon find that you are worth a good salary and you'll get it."

Not without some trepidation the "story lady" made application for the position which had not previously existed and her offer was accepted. At the end of her probationary period she was informed that she would be retained at a good salary and the rest was easy, for the children never seem to get tired of the stories as she tells them.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Censorship UnAmerican.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The recent parochial expression of opinion by a certain section of the public is nothing less than an attempt to govern the amusement of the majority from their own dogmatic point of view.

The present agitation for censorship is repugnant to that spirit of fair play shown in any great controversy by the American people.

The motion-picture industry is one of the greatest mediums through which leadership can be given to the moral conscience of the people, for whilst admitting a certain class of picture mediocre in its conception of human interest, was the result of the novelty of the new art, public criticism brought producers to realize the responsibility of its use for the best interest of humanity, and today engage the highest intellects in the literary world to write strong virile stories of moral uplift, hundreds of thousands being spent in this direction without even a suggestion of censorship.

The question of censorship should be dismissed because it is an absolute impossibility for any two or three men or women, or particular clique, to represent fairly the thought and personal tastes of the vast citizenship of any city, State or country.

Likes Mr. Thorne.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Having for many years perused fairly assiduously "ye letters to ye editor," I could not help but become acquainted with Mr. W. F. Thorne's highly altruistic and uplifting sentiments, as well as the cogent and courteous manner with which he so aptly conveys them, sometimes to the ludicrous discomfiture of his would-be opponents.

The past two weeks have indeed given us some striking illustrations of the latter's manner, or lack of manners, proving to the hilt that Brother Thorne's keen thrusts have struck deep.

And, oh my! what a vituperative flood of abuse, and what a medley of inconsistencies is brought forward by Mr. Thorne's adversaries in their futile, comical and disgusting attempts to answer his irrefutable indictment!

How well do they prove, all unconscious of the naked revelation, that certain birds, generally flocking together, always unerringly alight upon carrion! with a resultant breath that is mephitically nauseating to all right-thinking folks!

Some day, always near, Mr. Thorne's yoemen work for decency shall be rewarded with, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Thinks It's Cheap.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The future of Los Angeles Harbor as visualized by Admiral Eberle and illustrated by you in your recent Sunday edition, has long been in my mind and the minds of many of my friends; but I am astonished at the probable cost of it. It seems too good to be true. Not many of us but are familiar with the history of Manchester, England, who unaided built a ship canal in 1887, thirty-five and one-half miles in length that made her a sea port and one of the greatest manufacturing cities in the world. At a cost of $28,750,000 and it seems a wonderful chance for us to be able to have one of the best harbors in the world for a mere bagatelle of $8,000,000. I would suggest that The Times hammer away at it and get it done P.D.Q. If Uncle Sam won't do it, let's do it ourselves. As an advertisement for us this idea will skin the aqueduct a mile and it proved a winner.

Corrects Our Hebrew.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—[To the Editor of The Times:] May I be permitted to offer a slight correction to one of "Questions Answered" appearing in a recent issue of The Times?

I refer to the answer given to the first question "What do the names of Adam and Eve mean?"

The answer "Adam is a Hebrew word meaning "mankind," is not correct. Adam is indeed a Hebrew word meaning "earth," hence it would be more to the point to say that Adam, derived from the Hebrew "Adamah," means "the earth-born."

S. HECHT.

HOPE FOR THE BEST.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I can't help but thank you with all my heart for your editorial of October 4, entitled "Censorship." I cannot see how any one with common sense or a love of decency could take exceptions to a word of it. It seems a pity that the public have had to suffer so long and keep quiet when they were convinced that the pictures were not what they should be in many, many cases.

It is high time that we had a cleaning up and we all hope the picture people have learned their lesson. We look to our clergy to cry out against any evil, and we know it takes much courage on their part to do so. We watch them with an eagle eye, and if they make one misstep—oh my, oh my. The motion-picture people have grown immensely wealthy in our midst, while the rest of us have been content to work for a little and divide what we had with them. They should be very grateful for the support that has been given them. Their abundance has ruined some of them. We all know if pictures are what they should be, they can be used as object lessons in so many ways. We all hope for the best, and that wisdom will be given every one of us.

MRS. E. C. MARTIN.

What's the Matter.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Since you know about everything worth knowing, will you tell me why so many women have illyformed—regular grapevine—legs? What's the matter with 'em? I have been inspecting (sidewalk inspection, y' understand?) about all the legs that women, old and young alike, are wearing in this town, and I find that only three out of twenty are entitled to wear knee-length skirts. Something is wrong with nearly all of 'em. One fat leg and one slim leg, knots, spots, bowlegs, knockknees, general and miscellaneous deformities, etc., mar nearly every female on our streets.

Something ought to be done about (or to) these monstrosities, for they are just ruining the eyes, disposition and artistic temperament of our men folks. This is an important question, Mr. Editor.

HENRY HOOCH.

INSISTS ON PARK.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Has any one named a site more suitable, more available and more accessible than Pershing Square for a Library Building? We have not heard of any. We know it is dedicated to the sacred art of breathing. But, then, most of the people are too busy to go there just to breathe. Perhaps if the library were located there it might serve a double purpose; as the busy people who go to consult reference books could do a little breathing at the same time, or on the side, as it were. Because we have been told that about 75 per cent of the people who patronize the library belong to the busy class. And they may be working on problems of interest or of benefit to the whole community, or to all humanity.

"There is duty, lowly, tending each requirement of the hour;
"There is genius still extending science and its world of power."

It would seem to us that accessibility is the most important consideration in selecting the library site, because of the necessity of making it available to the ones who are busy and who must make use of the reference books almost constantly. So that too much emphasis cannot be placed upon this important point. Some one has suggested Exposition Park, and while it might be worth considering, it seems to be too far from the center of the busy mart, too far from the county and city offices as at present located, the newspaper offices, hundreds of other offices of business and profession and from the big shopping district, although quite near one or two quite important schools. Perhaps a few years hence, and when more funds become available, a large branch might be located in Exposition Park; and we might begin saving our coin with the object of doing so, but for the present and immediate future the most important need seems to be the main library to be located where it will be available to those who need and use it most, and who must keep the home fires burning while they work on, or over, more weighty matters, perhaps.

Question: What is the disease called the pip? J. K.

Answer: Pip is a condition of the tongue caused by some such ailment as a cold, which compels a bird to breathe through the mouth. The continual passing of air over the tongue causes it to become dry, hard and scaly, especially about the tip.

Q.: What is zirconium? M. A. G.

A.: The Bureau of Mines says that zirconium is a metal which is mined in this country in Henderson county, North Carolina, and in the Wichita Mountains in Oklahoma.

Q.: How did Wambsganss make a triple play unassisted? A. P.

A.: Wambsganss made a triple play unassisted on Oct. 10, 1920, during the World's Series, as follows: First and second bases were occupied and no one was out when Mitchell drove a sharp liner over Wambsganss's head. The Cleveland second baseman snatched the liner from the air, thus automatically retiring Mitchell. He then dashed over to second base, retiring the runner who, by that time was nearly to third and could not possible get back. Then, with never a pause, he ran up the base line towards first and tagged the astonished Miller, who had started at the crack of the bat to avoid a possible double play.

Q.: Will an increase in the weight of mail increase the salary of the postmaster of a third-class postoffice? J. C. M.

A.: The Postoffice Department says that the salary in a third-class postoffice is based on the sale of postal supplies, box rents, etc., rather than increase of the weight in the mail.

Q.: How many patents have been issued on bicycles? J. A. [illegible]

A.: More than 5000 inventions have been patented in connection with the development of the velocipede and bicycle.

Q.: What are prayers called that are used in some churches when special people are prayed for? W. A. A.

A.: A prayer which bids or directs what is to be prayed for is known as a bidding prayer. This form of exhortation, always concluding with the Lord's Prayer, was enjoined by the fifty-fifth canon of the Anglican Church in 1603, to be used before all sermons and homilies. It was, and in its abridged form still, is, very impressive, allowing individuals to supply from their own knowledge special cases of necessity under the different heads.

PALESTINE OF TODAY.

Palestine is in area about equal to the State of Massachusetts; and that New England State, blest (as Palestine is not) with plentiful water, ample water-powers, abundant forestation, and a good soil, supports only 4,000,000 persons. This bald comparison, however, does not begin to tell the story. Massachusetts is an integral part of a tremendously prosperous nation of 100,000,000 souls. She enjoys all the advantages of a highly industrialized community, and of established commercial intercourse with the rest of the most progressive nations in the world.

This is the condition of Palestine: Not only must agriculture be pursued under the greatest possible handicaps of soil and water, but it is subject to the direct competition of far more favored lands in the very agricultural products for which it is distinctive.—[Henry Morgenthau in World's Work.

Farm Names May be Trade-marked.

The United States Patent Office recently approved and published in the Patent Office Gazette a trade-mark covering the name of the farm of an Iowa farmer, Ledru C. Willis, the farmer in whose name the trade-mark was issued is a breeder of purebred hogs, cattle, and sheep. The name of the farm as trade-marked is "Hawkeye." To the knowledge of live-stock men in the United States Department of Agricultural, Mr. Willis is the first stockman, and probably the first farmer, to obtain a United States trade-mark for his farm. slogan, 'America to Americans,' is heresy. God never blessed one people above all others except for the sake of all others. Our national greatness and power constitute the measure of our opportunity and responsibility to serve and bless the world.

"The tragedy of our American life since Nov. 11, 1917, has been the collapse of our national idealism. The World War is over and our President has taken the initiative to lead the nations away from the path of militarism.

"But America has the greatest war before her she ever waged. The foe will be neither Europe across the Atlantic, nor Asia across the Pacific, nor Mexico south of the Rio Grande, but ourselves right here at home. We can conquer the world, but can we conquer ourselves. For this next great war the supreme need is not a big army or navy, but the thing we mean when we talk of moral manhood, righteous character. It is that mastery of an educated conscience that will stand for the right everywhere and oppose the wrong every time. Think not that this is an easy thing to achieve, an easy goal to reach, an easy victory to win. Nothing in the world is harder. It is the greatest fight man ever fought and it is to enable him to win that fight that Jesus Christ came into the world. We must make America Christian to enable her to win her next war."

REV. DAN A. TRUNDLE.
ALVARADO ST. CHRISTIAN.

"Many very significant lessons may be learned from the narrative in the fourteenth chapter of Matthew where Jesus feeds the multitudes. Great numbers had in reckless disregard of bodily comfort followed him to this drear, dangerous, desert place. He is quick to realize the situation and feeds them. By this course he seems to preach a sermon in these words: 'You have taken me at my word. You really have this day sought first the Kingdom of God and trusted Him for bodily safety. I shall see to it that your trust has not been in vain.'

"If it be true, and we know it is, that 'Man shall not live by bread alone but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God,' then the desert of life that are the most hopeless and are the greatest menace to the human family are the deserts of sin. What creates a desert? We know it to be the failure of climate or soil to function in the matter of production of life-sustaining harvests, crops or gardens. After their souls had been fed their bodies hungered. The disciples were alarmed. 'Send them away.'

"But, the Master said: 'They have no need to go away; give them to eat.'

"The means at hand is totally inadequate. The disciples, like many of us, are worried more about something to eat and wear than the priceless values of the soul. Again, the master surprises them by sayin: 'Bring them hither to me.' What! only 'five loaves and two fishes?'

"Yes, yes, when will even His disciples learn that it is the temporal, only that is really insignificant? China is being redeemed from the danger of famine by replanting its forests. What is your part in world-construction, planting trees of life? or cutting down the trees that some one else has planted? The ax of devilitry is busy in the land."

"The real test of an education is not alone the number of facts a man knows, but what they mean to him and what he means to other people as a result of possessing them. Mere formal knowledge should not be confused with wisdom. A man may have memorized Shakespeare and not understood him. Education should bring forth an interpretation of the facts of life. It should encourage clear, clean thinking. It should bring ideas to people. It should teach them the relative value of facts. It should encourage them to think for themselves at times and to depend upon specialists at other times. It should make a man or woman bigger, broader, more tolerant.

"There is no fool so bad as an educated fool. Formal knowledge in the head of a bigoted narrow person is more dangerous sometimes than sheer ignorance. For it breeds conceit. History must be taught so as to make the student realize the underlying principles of civilzaton and all those things that effect its progress or decline. Literature must make the scholar feel the beauty and poetry of life and the world. Mathematics must develop a logical sense and encourage accurate thinking and good judgment.

"Schools and colleges that do not turn out thinkers are of little use to the world. The greatest task before the world today is the proper education of the young. Especially true is this in a republic where the masses are endowed with the power to rule and make laws."

REV. M. HOWARD FAGAN.

"Jesus said, 'No man can serve God and gold.' There are some folk who seem to be living as though to prove that Jesus was mistaken. God and gold are the two dominant forces that govern the lives of men. No man can serve them both.

"It is not a sin to be rich, provided the money has been honorably procured and is righteously administered. No gift to benevolence, no matter how large, can atone for the unrighteous procuring of money.

"I am not much concerned about how you would spend a million dollars: I am mightily concerned about how you are administering the ten, five, three or one thousand annual income that is yours. In this age of commercialism we need to be reminded that the Great Teacher said, 'A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things he possesseth.'

"If your money-getting embraces all your time and energy; if it makes you neglectful of your family and of your church; if it makes you unneighborly and unkind, then it is a sin. You cannot serve God and gold, but you can serve God with gold."

DR. A. C. DIXON.
CHURCH OF THE OPEN DOOR.

"The word translated 'atonement' in the New Testament means really the 'mercy seat' in the Holy of Holies, where God and man met, the place from which God spoke to man. It is translated 'reconciliation' in another place; and the verb is used very frequently, 'reconciled to God.' There are two words which define its meaning, 'propitiation' and 'reconciliation.' 'Propitiation' gives us the Godward definition; 'reconciliation' gives us the manward definition. The justice of God demands that there shall be satisfaction; the holiness of God demands that there shall be propitiation. The love and mercy of God furnish what His justice and holiness demand. God does not demand propitiation of another. He gives the propitiation that His nature demands, and thus makes it possible for Him to remain God and occupy His throne of justice and righteousness, while He deals out mercy to penitent sinners.

"In the great Treasury Building in Washington you will notice over a door, 'redemption department.' In it are piles of soiled paper money. When these bills, through much use, have become soiled, torn and ragged, they are brought into the redemption department and for every one of them a brand new clean bill is given. As I looked at those piles of greasy, torn, soiled bills, and then at the beautiful, clean, bright bills by the side of them, I said, 'This surely represents redemption.' Here is my poor, soiled, torn life, and the Lord Jesus Christ takes it and gives me His clean, white, righteous character. It is not only imputed, so that I am regarded as if I had never sinned; but by the work of the Holy Spirit it is imparted. He pronounces me righteous, and then begins to make me righteous; and by and by the work of making righteous will be as complete as His imputed righteousness 'through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus.'

"The Atonement of Jesus Christ is applied by 'faith in His blood.' It was not faith in a lamb tied to the door-post that saved the first-born of Israel in Egypt; it was faith in the blood sprinkled on the door. It is faith in the atoning sacrifice of Christ that saves. May the spirit of God burn that into our souls, that we may never forget it. You say to me, 'Trust in Jesus,' 'Believe in Jesus,' 'Depend on Jesus;' and if you mean what the Scripture teaches, that is all right; but if you mean a sort of historical faith in the Christ who lived and taught and worked and influenced men, and then was killed as a martyr to His mission, there is no sort of salvation in that. Salvation is through faith in the blood of Christ, that reconciles us to God, and cleanses us from sin, while it propitiates the righteousness and holiness and justice of our God."

SEEKS WOMEN JURORS.

A jury composed at least partly of women probably will be sought by Charles Erbstein for the trial of Madalynne Obenchain, whose former husband, Ralph Obenchain, retained the famous Chicago criminal lawyer Saturday to defend the one-time Northwestern campus beauty in the Kennedy murder case.

Mr. Erbstein, who has defended twenty-two women charged with murder, every one of whom was acquitted, it was declared yesterday, may be relied upon to make a most determined fight for the acquittal of the Evanston beauty. No avenues of escape, it may be said, will be overlooked by this resourceful and alert lawyer.

Asked about his plans yesterday in Chicago, Mr. Erbstein said the case seemed to him one in which women jurors would be particularly fitted to pass.

"Of course," he said, "I do not make any definite statements about the defense until I have consulted with my associate counsel in Los Angeles. However, looking at the matter from a distance, as I must at present, I should say that I would be strongly in favor of women jurors for the trial of Mrs. Obenchain. The California law permits it and it has already been done in other cases in that State.

"I have already had a long-distance conference with Mr. Obenchain and expect to have many more, probably one a day until the time comes for my departure. The counsel on the ground is competent and will take care of any preliminaries which may come up."

WOMEN MISSIONARY WORKERS TO MEET.

The Women's Federation of Christian Missionary Workers of Los Angeles will hold its annual meeting tomorrow in the First Christian Church. The meeting will begin at 10:30 a.m. and another session will begin at 1:30 p.m. The key words for the day will be "On Earth Peace."

Two Boy Bandits Rob Man, Woman in Automobile.

Two youths, described as being barely 18 years of age, early yesterday morning held up and robbed Merton Hart of 217 Citizens' National Bank Building and Mrs. J. C. Allen of 1221 Maryland street, as they were driving at Bixel and Maryland streets. The robbers obtained $45 and a $50 watch from Mr. Hart and $5 from Mrs. Allen.

Mr. Hart told the police that the youths were driving recklessly without lights and narrowly averted colliding with his automobile as they turned at Bixel and Maryland streets. Both the bandits, they said, were heavily armed, and acted in a nervous maner, pulling a cape roughly from Mrs. Allen's shoulders and continually poking a gun into Mr. Hart's side. Following the robbery the bandits speeded south on Bixel street.

CAPT. PERIGORD PRESIDES.

Capt. Paul Perigord will preside tonight at a meeting of the Causeries Francaises in the Music-Art Studio Building, where a program in honor of the Modern Language Association of Southern California will be given. Mme. Emma Loeffler Zaruba will sing several French songs. The causeries, conducted by Cigurd Russell of the Los Angeles High School faculty every Monday evening until June, are part of a movement to encourage the study of French.

THE PINCH OF POVERTY.

Nowadays the world idea of poverty is represented by a man who is so poor he has to drive a second-hand Ford.

BREAKING A TIE.

With thirty-seven divorce cases and thirty-six marriage licenses as the proceeds of a single day, how long will it be before Cupid goes into bankruptcy?

KEEPING UP WITH LIZZIE.

It costs more money to keep a car abroad than at home. The annual tax on a Ford in England averages about $125 a year. It pays to keep a wheelbarrow over there.

WHAT WE CAN.

Over 7,000,000 quart cans of peaches and apricots is the recorded pack of a single cannery in Los Angeles county. Which is another reason why this is a great country. Think of the refreshment from this one source of supply! Yet it is only a drop in the bucket.

SLAVE AND SERF.

Russian peasants are offering themselves for sale for life as slaves in exchange for food. At that, they are not finding takers. Nobody seems to want a Russian peasant about the place. Looks as if he would have to shake off his incubus, go to work and save himself.

FOR MAILS ONLY.

Congressman Osborne introduces a bill appropriating $3,000,000 for the extension of the postal facilities of Los Angeles. The government building is almost too small for a month's rations of postage stamps. Keeping up with Los Angeles is one of the problems of the administration.

POLITICAL PLAYTHINGS.

Thomas R. Marshall, the former Vice-President, says that the preferential primary took the place of the saloon as a political playground and that in another season the American people will be ready to give three cheers for some plaything to take its place in our political life.

EASILY REMEDIED.

The housewives, the papers and the economists are alike complaining that many foodstuffs and the articles needed most to sustain life advanced from 8 to 13 per cent within the last six weeks. That would mean that the high cost of living was going still higher. Fortunately people do not have to live.

THE BIG FELLOWS.

Lloyd George and Marshal Foch will be among the eminent visitors in Washington next month. The national capital will be all cluttered up with the great ones of the earth. Paris and London will have a hard time in getting mentioned in the papers. Marshal Foch has promised to visit Los Angeles if possible. Here is another call for a brass band and a loving cup.

THE NEW FACES.

Among some 500 or more applicants for new appointments to the Chicago police force it was found that sixty-six had criminal records. These included about a score of burglars and bandits and two who had been indicted for murder. The Chief says that more than half of the old force are bootleggers. Whether they are making progress or not seems to be up to the reader to decide.

PICKING AT THE PICTURES.

The Rock River Conference of Methodists passed resolutions declaring that "the screen is America's worst school of crime." If some of these folks had their way there wouldn't be any use for a camera. It is the people who pass resolutions like that who wish to have absolute censorship over the films. Guess what they would be like when they got to the rest of us. There would be a picture of the Sunday-school taking up a collection for the heathen, and not much else.

FULL OF PRUNES.

An official delegation from the East is now in California in the course of its quest to locate the gap between the producer and consumer and to find out what it is that maintains prices at a high and unnatural level. One of the visitors was bothered to find an explanation why he should be paying 70 cents a pound for prunes when the man who raised them got but 7 cents. We never knew that prunes went to that figure. In some sections of the effete East they must think that whisky can be made from prunes.

MULES AND BEES.

In Arizona a mule kicked over a hive of bees and the fiery insects stung three mules to their death in retaliation. Now the man who owned the mules is suing the man who owns the bees for the value of his departed animals. An Arizona mule that could be stung to death by a herd of feverish bees cannot be worth very much, anyhow. They used to make 'em so tough that they couldn't be killed by a pile driver. Even a bolt of lightning wouldn't make a dent in their hides. We would think the mule owner would be ashamed to admit that he had a trio of Missouri mockers that could be extinguished by a parcel of peevish bees.

WHAT OF THE CHILDREN?

Juvenile courts in all great cities are crowded with offenders. To deal with child delinquency heavy dockets are calling every day for additional judges. Reformatories, detention homes and houses of refuge are filled to the limit. The number of young girls picked up on the streets at night is a harrowing tragedy.

So serious are these conditions that the Attorney-General has recommended the converting of army cantonments into reformatory training camps for boy law-breakers. This increase in crime committed by children is not only sweeping the United States, but every country in Europe.

When the Department of Labor reports so dreadful a state of affairs one cannot help but be filled with doubt and apprehension for the future of the republic.

While the present generation was still in the making there was no such prevalence of youthful depravity as exists today in every civilized community. Yet we are suffering now from an unusual wave of adult crime. This is bad enough. But that through neglect of child morals we are preparing for the next decade a still more devastating flood is infinitely worse. For the criminal record of the waning generation is a menace to public health and safety of small account compared to the criminal record of the waxing generation. Not against the storm in the offing, but against the tempest gathering over the open sea, the wise mariner trims his sails.

What are we going to do about it—you and I and everyone who loves the home life and the children through which and by which and for which this country lives and prospers?

Federal and State and county and city authorities, roused to the problem of child delinquency, are preparing various more or less (but generally less) effective ways for remedying the results of these abnormal conditions. They are working along the lines adopted by the Prohibition party for combating the drink evil—by wiping out the effect instead of tackling the cause of it. Not by such tactics comes salvation. You do not cure blood diseases by pricking pimples—you cannot ward off the ravages of age with paint and face powder.

Of course, it is absolutely essential to provide proper facilities for handling the children who have been permitted to fall from their divine birthright. No doubt we must have shelters and refuges and reformatories to help close the stable door before all the horses have got loose. But it is shocking, it is horrible, it is heart-breaking that such an obligation should rest today upon the most enlightened nation in the world's most progressive era.

After the floods had wrecked Pueblo and drowned out San Antonio the work of rescue and restoration was immediate and imperative. Not to have attended to it would have proved our people decadent and demoralized. But how much better by wise engineering to have forestalled the possibilities of such a flood. Check dams are better than salvage. And far less expensive.

Our child problem is one that should deal chiefly with causes, so that there would be less demand for fighting with effects. Prevention is better than cure. And the causes can only be remedied by the people as responsible individuals, accepting their responsibilities at face value and not attempting to shuffle them off on Federal or State or city or school officials. Care of children is a home problem—and as the beauty of home life dies out in a mad scramble for money and amusement the child changes slowly but surely from the pride and glory of the race to its menace and danger. Parents, this problem is yours—not one for the Attorney-General nor the Department of Labor to solve. They can merely deal with the results of your neglect.

In the decadence—or, at any rate, the diminution—of real home life in America we can find the chief cause for the report on child delinquency just issued by the Department of Labor. Whatever the difficulties, whatever the temptations, whatever the distractions imposed on parents by the speed and struggle of modern life, the maintenance of the home must be safeguarded and the morals of the children be preserved.

Rents may be high and building material scarce and landlords extortionate, but the automobile industry, the moving-picture magnate, the ice-cream parlor, the chewing-gum baron, the tobacco king, the caterer to luxury and amusement are today absorbing the greatest bulk of the nation's wealth.

Parents can, if they make the effort, spend less on show and outside pleasure and more on the home itself. They can, if they wake up to the seriousness of the problem, trust more to their own guidance and example for shaping the lives of their little ones and less to the school-teacher, the minister and the policeman.

They have got to do this before the Department of Labor or the Attorney-General can make any headway against the wave of child delinquency which is the most ominous sign among the multitude of troubles and dangers besetting our modern civilization. No amendment to the Constitution will cure any disease of the community that springs from the acts of the individual. The individual himself must be amended. The Constitution is all right—but that will avail us little if the private citizen is all wrong.

While we have to multiply the reformatories and juvenile courts to deal with the effects of personal laxity in the care of children, it wouldn't be a bad idea to establish a few compulsory night schools for the correction of delinquent parents. Our hopes for the future start from the family circle.

We are a nation of magnificent hotels, of sumptuous restaurants, of glittering pleasure resorts, of travel de luxe, of comforts and luxuries beyond the reach of any other people in any other age. We are also about to convert army cantonments into reformatory camps for neglected children.

God help this dear land of ours if in the years to come it is written as "A Country Without a Home!"

THE SILENT MUMMER.

There is genuine grief over the passing of Harry S. Duffield, for many years associated with the Morosco productions. He was an actor of the old school and conformed to the best traditions and the loftiest ethics of the stage. In a few months he would have reached the sixtieth anniversary of his first dramatic appearance. He was active to the last and he possessed a lovable personality that carried the gospel of good will and clean living.

PASSING OF THE "RUBE."

Peter Clark McFarlane, eminent author and Chautauqua lecturer, says that the rube type of American farmer is an extinct species. Good roads, telephones and motor cars have worked a metamorphosis. The daily press now penetrates the most remote country districts, the movie films keep the country folk posted on the latest styles in dress and manners, and the high prices that farm products have brought during the last three or four years have enabled the farmers and their families to get ahead of the average denizen of the cities in the way of togging up.

"Way Down East" and "The Old Homestead" are now as far behind the times as the Bret Harte narratives of frontier life in the mining camps of Northern California. A type of Americans who were loved even while they were ridiculed, that furnished the nation so many of its great men and noble women, has disappeared with the conditions that brought it into being. They served their purpose and have been gathered unto their fathers.

Those who now tour the country districts seeking the local atmosphere of the generation that produced Lincoln and Garfield have only their discomforts for the pains. The village hotels are now electrically lighted and supplied with running water. The buckboard has given way to the motor car. The sons and daughters of the farmers are more likely to possess a college education than the average city-bred youth and maiden. The book agent and the lightning-rod agent have given up the rural routes as no longer profitable. When Uncle Josh comes to the city now he carries a check book, isn't in the market for gold bricks and is no longer interested in the purchase of the City Hall or a public park.

Even in the cities the sharpers who used to hang about the depots and pick out the rubes by the cut of their beards and the make of their clothes have disappeared. For the farmers are no longer easy marks. They are sophisticated in the ways of the world and are no longer susceptible to adroit flattery.

Concerning the intelligence of the rural population Mr. McFarlane says:

> I believe that the farmer is thinking as he never thought before. He wants to know the answer to innumerable whys. He is mentally digging down to the root of economics and trying to find a means by which to solve his own business problems and get a line on the collective problems of the people. A case in point. After I had delivered a lecture on "Us Americans" a farmer, standing on the running board of his car, waved his hand in the direction of a great field of ripening grain and said, "Plenty of wheat, isn't there?" Another sweep of his hand took the direction of a cornfield and he said, "Plenty of corn, too." He pointed to a barnyard and pasture and added, "Plenty of beef, mutton, hens and eggs." I nodded a general assent. Then he said, screwing his face into an expression of impatience, "How the devil is it that so many folks don't get enough to eat?" That, at the moment, is the thought that is engaging his attention, and it is not without significance.

Mr. McFarlane says that the mass of the country people in the sections through which he passed are neither radicals nor Socialists, but they have a consciousness that something is wrong with the present system or production and distribution and they want to see it corrected. On all sides he heard the expression, "There ought to be some law to stop that." He was impressed with the fact that, while there was a general clamor for new laws for the correction of real or imagined abuses, "the people were much inclined to snap their fingers at existing statutes if they find themselves in opposition to their restrictions."

It is apparent to those who study the trend of the times that the new generation of farmers is more sophisticated than the one which has passed, but is also more skeptical. They have lost a part of the reverence of their forebears for existing institutions. They are more curious and more inclined to experiment with new and untried forms of government. They are better informed, but are neither more honest nor more just. The sudden prosperity of the war period has served to weaken the old virtues of thrift and industry. There are too many overseers and too few workers among them.

Forlorn country maidens, pining for companionship and hankering for the bright lights of the cities, no longer exist. Most of them have attended high school or college in the centers of population; they have seen the reverse of the pictures and know how to keep the urban Lotharios who wander out into the country in the proper places. The country boy is much more likely to be the possessor of a flivver than the boy from town and the cultural advantages that the city once possessed over the country have disappeared.

Life in the country and the city are much more nearly on a par than during the last generation. The country has caught up and, in many instances, is forging ahead. The superior advantages of city life have been lost. In California, at least, exodus from the cities to the farms is now greater than that from the farms to the cities.

New problems will necessarily arise from this transformation that has taken place in American manners. Agricultural machinery now relieves the farmer of the necessity of raising and harvesting his crops by hard manual labor. Work in the open is more attractive than that in the modern industrial plant. An equalization of advantages has been taking place that is likely to furnish its own solution for overpopulated cities and deserted farms.

Present problems cannot be solved by the methods of the last century, when relative conditions of city and country life were different. The agricultural bloc in Congress is much more intelligent than were the old groups recruited from the grange and the various farmers' alliances. Whether for good or for ill, the farmer with unkempt beard has definitely passed. Public schools and modern inventions have wiped out the class distinctions that once existed. Just as the last century was remarkable for the shifting of population from the country to the cities, the present one is likely to witness a reaction, due to the improved conditions of country life.

BARGAIN WEDDINGS IN KANSAS CITY.

During the American Legion's convention at Kansas City all ex-service men can get married free of cost. The national chaplain, Rev. John W. Inzer, has undertaken to perform the ceremony without charge, while a local jeweler has undertaken to present the bride with her ring.

All of which is very seductive and ought to encourage a brisk trade in marriages. And it isn't good form to look a gift horse in the mouth. But, all the same, these bargain marriages should be undertaken with discretion. For one thing, getting married in Kansas City offers food for hesitation. Quite a number of marital causes celebres have come out of Kansas City, whose date line in the news is invariably followed by another marital complication, all the way from the Cudahy-Lillis trouble to the Lee Shippey affair.

Moreover, there is a catch in this "free-of-cost" offer. The pastor and the ring are a very trifling consideration compared to the remaining expenses attached to the undertaking. Most any chap can find that initial amount, but what he wants to feel more assured about is a permanent job and the proper disciplining of the rent-profiteer. There are also grocers, butchers, bakers and milkmen to be considered.

And the presumption is that ex-service men are being encouraged to marry Kansas City maidens, which may provide any number of complications for maidens otherwhere. The girl he left behind him to attend the convention may view with alarm this intrigue in Kansas City to lure the Legion man with bargain matrimony. Of course, it may be all right for the Kansas City girls, but the chap that attends a convention in his best clothes and his nicest disposition is not necessarily the same chap at home.

And if the idea is to induce all Legion men to settle in Kansas City—that again—ahem—should give pause. In Southern California we regard Kansas City as a place to come from—and we have something like 25,000 human evidences in Los Angeles county alone to support our feeling in the matter.

SKEETS ON THE RHINE.

BY DORA OLIPHANT COE.

A recent wire from Switzerland says that the troops in the zone of occupation are sorely pestered by mosquitoes, which insects, by rights, should have been in their winter quarters long since. The message further states: "The female mosquitoes are by far the most bloodthirsty."

This last is a very interesting statement, though not new. You remember, "The female of the species is more deadly than the male." The peculiarly interesting thing, however, is neither in the words nor in the news, but in the fact that the writer of the message, in common with multitudes of other otherwise intelligent folks, does not know that the male mosquito is absolutely harmless. It is the female only that commits such depredations on the human race.

Mosquitoes are by nature and taste vegetarians. One scientist says that it is likely that not one mosquito in a million ever tastes human blood. The male never does, but the female must have some kind of blood to develop the 250 to 400 eggs which she deposits at one time. She is rather particular in regard to the kind of blood she drinks in that she prefers human to animal and that of the white races in preference to the dark, and youth rather than age. I do not believe it has ever been determined whether sex or previous condition of servitude influences her choice in the least.

Generally speaking, all mosquitoes look alike to me, but there are distinctions, though the one we meet most frequently is neither death nor disease-breeding. If a mosquito bites you in the night time, don't lose any sleep worrying about yellow fever, for that particular culex only drinks at daybreak or in daylight. The malaria carrier, though, has no regular hours and the only way to relieve your anxiety about him is not to squnch him until you have seen how he stands on his hind legs. If the hinder part of his body is elevated to an angle of forty-five degrees you better go and take some quinine.

Some time ago a "Pen Point" said that campers in California need not fear mosquitoes.

Huh? Why?

I have made my bed in canyons, on mountaintops, by roadsides, near running water and stagnant pools and hundreds of miles from any known stream and I am here to say that in every location the culex and the coyote have vied with each other as sleep disturbers to such an extent that many of my dreams have been of mortal combats with winged coyotes, each of which had a proboscis like an ant-eater.

One night at Wild Bloom Creek, in the desert beyond Lone Pine at the foot of Mt. Whitney, we found mosquitoes draped in long festoons on the ridge of our tent, yet the only water anywhere to be seen was an exceedingly swift, snow-fed stream.

Another night we stopped after dark by the road between Sacramento and Stockton and, with our car for a screen, made a night camp. From a stream a few hundred feet away we brought water and made a pot of coffee before going to bed. And the coffee was good. At least we thought it was—until morning. When we went for more water for the morning coffee we found the stream actually thick with "wiggle-tails" or "wrigglers," whichever you prefer to call the larvae of the mosquito.

There ought to be a way to swat the culex.

Out in Arroyo Seco the Los Angeles Board of Health tried spreading distillate over the pools, but Dr. Potts says he thinks they eat that stuff for breakfast food. Too, if the tiniest stick lies on the surface of the water it forms a barrier over which the oil does not spread and gives ingress to the mosquito who would lay her eggs and egress to the fledgling when it takes its wings and loses the big head of the wiggle-tail.

Malaria mosquitoes breed only in fresh-water pools, but the yellow-fever variety breeds in any kind of water, even in houses and cesspools.

No body of water is too small to furnish a nursery for the infant culex. Large broods have been found in the hoof-prints of a horse. A marshy spot in a lawn; a fish pond (without fish;) a fountain; chicken pans in poultry yards; water standing in the house, even vases containing plants or flowers; all may be breeding places, as may discarded cans in back yards or the receptacle for indestructible garbage; old cans or bottles in the basement, anything that will hold water so that the eggs may be deposited. Safety-first fire buckets make good mosquito incubators. Even in the fonts of churches the larvae have been found. The water tanks of gas and acetylene engines also harbor the creatures.

In fifteen to twenty hours after the eggs are laid the water becomes the home of nearly half a hundred larvae. These creatures reach their growth in a very few days. In eight or ten days the larva enters the pupa stage and two or three days more and the full-fledged mosquito starts on its concert tour and you and I are apt to be stung.

San Antonio, Tex., after a siege of mosquitoes, stocked up all cisterns and ponds with minnows, for fish eat the larvae, which is one argument against the use of distillate, which kills the fish as well as the baby culex. Also, at the suggestion of one Dr. Campbell, San Antonio established bat roosts outside the city. Bats are fond of a mosquito diet and do their hunting at the same time of day.

In the Philippines pure kerosene is used as a deterrent for the pest and in the houses sulphur is burned, together with anything that will make a thick smoke.

It amuses me to remember that when I was a child and we lived on a high bluff overlooking the Wabash River in Indiana we burned a smudge of chips in the house every night to drive out the mosquitoes, yet right at the kitchen door stood a rain-water barrel by which I used to stand hour after hour watching the myriads of wiggle-tails.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM.

BY HERMAN J. STICH.

A Boob.

A gaudy automobile stopped in front of a small country hotel patronized by common folk, where the boarders get together and enjoy themselves. Mine host was at the door.

"Can we get something to eat here?" asked the leader of an automobile party, as he pulled up and got out of the machine.

"Certainly, I should be happy to accommodate you," replied the hotel proprietor.

"Our chauffeur—you'll fix it so he won't sit at the same table with us?"

"That is easily arranged," replied the landlord.

The automobilist went in, washed up and came out.

"Be sure," he said to the proprietor, "not to seat our chauffeur near us."

"I'll see to that," was the answer.

The auto autocrat busied himself for a few moments and then he and his friends started for the dining-room.

"Don't forget," he said to the landlord on the way in, "not to put our chauffeur at our table."

This was too much for the hotelman.

"Say, you young fellow," he demanded, "what's the matter with your chauffeur, anyway—won't he eat with you!"

Snobbishness, like selfishness, is always self-defeating.

A stiff neck, a narrow mind and an empty head are commonly close companions.

A snob is like a shallow pond—everybody sees the mud at the bottom.

Greatness is characterized by democracy—the bow that bears most always bends lowest.

Snobbishness simply puffs a man up—it never props him up.

There is such a thing as one man being better than other men, but the moment he shows he knows it, he isn't. He's a boob.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

THE POORHOUSE WAY.

The price of things is higher than it should rightly be and oft we hear the buyer exclaiming, "Hully chee!" They say that hides are cheaper—so cheap the growers lose; but, oh, the weary weeper who buys a pair of shoes! We cannot scrape together the coin to buy a pair of shoes of honest leather, such as we used to wear; and so in shoes of paper, for which we roundly pay, all drearily we caper along the poorhouse way. Oh, why are things of leather still priced to break the heart, when hide of steer and wether are cheap in every mart? And cotton has been selling so ruinously low we heard the growers yelling and wailing in their woe. But goods composed of cotton, the things we had to buy, as you have not forgotten, were always beastly high. Conditions are not cheering to one who's spent his wad; the hogs are profiteering, the swine are still abroad. Reduced are pins and buckles and carpet tacks and nails, but when I'd buy brass knuckles the war price still prevails. Silk shirts of blazing splendors are lower than of yore, but when I'd buy suspenders they're dearer than before. Oh, many things seem rotten and few seem good and gay, as, in my shoes of cotton, I tread the poorhouse way. WALT MASON

THREL FALL.

WOULD PICK HIS RAILWAY.

In some quarters anxiety has been expressed concerning the integrity of the Ford mentals. But he is still able to find his way about—has a shrewd notion concerning the limits of his wonder-working powers. When he comes to make figs grow on thistles he would pick his railway—would have it so located that he can fatten its income by diverting traffic.

So if owners of other bankrupt railroads come to the Ford anteroom in large numbers we may expect to behold an elderly gentleman of philanthropic aspect climbing out of a back window, and when he crawls back hear him nervously asking his faithful secretary, "Are they gone yet?"—[New York Tribune.

FREE BANDIT'S SWEETHEART.

Mrs. Zella Tullis.

Mrs. Zella Tullis, 19 years old, who was arrested last week with three men accused of holding up nearly thirty oil stations in the southwest part of the city, was released yesterday by Detective Sergeant Shy.

A charge of suspicion of highway robbery against the girl was dropped when investigation revealed that her connection with the asserted bandits was of an innocent nature. Probation Officer Bagley of San Bernardino had asked local officers to hold Mrs. Tullis for possible prosecution, but ascertained that there were no grounds for action.

Mrs. Tullis's mother and several relatives went to the City Jail yesterday to take her home. It was stated that efforts would be made to have her baby returned to her. Clarence Richardson, 20, asserted leader of the bandits, and Mrs. Tullis's declared sweetheart, repeated statements yesterday in the presence of the girl that he had nothing to look forward to in life and intended to resume lawbreaking on a larger scale after serving his sentence.

bers to other cities of the same size.

"Our city has spent money in an effort to make provision for the material welfare of our population, but it has not given equal attention to the matter of protecting the lives, the property and the moral welfare of our citizens. The time has come when the City Council ought to take definite action to increase the size of our police department. The people of Los Angeles ought to be willing to pay an increased tax, if necessary, to accomplish this purpose.

"For the most part the police officers we have now are intelligent, courageous, unselfish, sober, honest and upright men and women. It is to be expected that a crook will get in among them once in a while. We must not impugn the motives nor malign the character of all the policemen because now and then one is found to be a liar, a debauchee or a thief. I want to pay tribute to the splendid company of self-sacrificing men and women who are in the Police Department, who for years have kept their names untarnished and their characters clean in the midst of temptations to both graft and immorality.

"The decent people of the city ought to frequently take advantage of the opportunities they have to say a word of encouragement and cheer to those who are compelled continually to work with and among criminals. A man who is a successful policeman deserves our highest honor. These men are instructed to school themselves to keep cool on all occasions and maintain a perfect control of temper, come what will. One who can govern himself can govern others.

"All honor to the men and women on our police force who meet these qualifications. Let us back up the department, then, in its efforts to enforce the law. Let us say to the City Council that we will stand behind them in providing a larger number of policemen. Let us be good citizens enough to obey the law ourselves.

"Let us teach our children to be obedient to the laws of the city and to show courteous respect to policemen. The greatest need of the hour is to inspire the American citizen with an honest [illegible] every law that is enacted for the welfare of the people. If a law is not a good one, get it changed, but as long as it is a part of the statutes of our country it should be absolutely obeyed."

MANY ARTISTS SIGN FOR MUSEUM DISPLAY.

EXHIBITION OF CALIFORNIA PAINTINGS WILL BE BEST SINCE WORLD'S FAIR.

Pictures will begin to arrive tomorrow for the State exhibition to be held at the Southwest Museum during November.

"We have 173 artists signed as contributors to this exhibition, which promises to be the largest and most successful display by strictly California artists in the history of Southern California," said Dr. Milbank Johnson yesterday. "It will be the most comprehensive and representative exhibit since the World's Fair at San Francisco."

Salient points regarding the exhibit are: No admission fee is to be charged, no pictures are to be sold and no price marks will be allowed to appear. The artists themselves must be the exhibitors and all prizes will go to the artist and in no case to an owner.

The three principal prizes are $250, $150 and $100, respectively, and there will be a special prize of $100, the winner to be chosen by the popular vote of the spectators, who will indicate their choice prior to the publication of any decision on the part of the jury of awards.

An unusual method of judging has been decided upon for this jury, which will be made up of five prominent connoisseurs, three of whom, it is understood, will come from the East. Each judge will make his decisions alone and with no one else in the room, and submit a sealed report. Then, if necessary, a final conference will be held.

A reception is being arranged for the opening night, November 1.

ALSO PLAN A TEMPLE.

New Home Expected as Outgrowth of Moose Membership Drive.

Results of the first week of the intensive campaign which is being conducted under the direction of Dr. Ward Davies, veteran supervisor, assisted by Field Supervisors R. A. James and R. L. Holcomb, for the Greater Los Angeles Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, for a 10,000 membership give promise of an early institution of the new lodge, it was stated yesterday, as soon as the 500 charter names are on the list. The lodge will be instituted by Secretary of Labor Davis, in whose honor the lodge is being established.

At the institution ceremonies the officers will be appointed. Hywell Davies, Federal mediator, will be dictator; a committee also will be appointed for the purpose of making investigations for a suitable site for the erection of a Moose temple and clubrooms.

"GREAT COMMONER" IS AGAIN A GRANDFATHER

William Jennings Bryan, the onetime boy orator of the Platte, is again a grandfather, a daughter having been born yesterday to Mrs. Richard L. Hargraves, 1520 Ogden Drive, daughter of the "Great Commoner." It is Mrs. Hargraves's third child.

WAR TAXES HIT JUNGLES.

"You can't get away from them; taxes due to the World War reach even into the jungles of Africa."

This is the statement made last night by Orin Denny, motion-picture cameraman for Universal and the Smithsonian Institution, who has just returned from a two-year trip in Africa and India.

"The World War hit the jungles," he said. "The wanderobo, as the tribal hobos and riff-raff are called, is taxed four rupees a year—about $1.60—and the British government collects it, too. If the wanderobo can't pay he is set to work. This taxation system reaches into the heart of the British East African jungles, for the wanderobos are cast-offs from the native tribes and have to make their living with bow and arrow."

Mr. Denny brought back about 45,000 feet of film showing many varieties of wild animals in their native state and also made a large collection of heads and skins. Some leopards and baboons which he intended to bring back alive escaped en route to the ship, Mr. Denny said, and he returned empty-handed as far as live specimens are concerned.

WHAT STUDENTS ARE DOING.

Students at the Manual Arts High School will have an opportunity to act as musical conductors on various occasions if the plans of the music department are successful. According to the Manual Arts school publication more than twenty-five students have already enrolled for that branch of study, and there is much keen competition among the pupils for the positions. Girls will be selected from the glee club to lead their organization and boys will be chosen to direct the band and orchestras.

Considerable discussion has been started among the high schools of the city as a result of the persistence in using the well-known "ax yell" by the rooters of the Polytechnic High School. The yell is said to be discourteous by rival high schools and for that reason it has been asked that it be abolished. Ernest Bemis, editor-in-chief of the Poly Optimist, has published an editorial in refutation of the charges, and says that the discourtesy is in the interpretation only and that it is not the fault of the Polytechnic student-body if other schools make wrong interpretations. He says that the yell is an old tradition of the school and is the most ancient and most revered of its institution and that it was never intended to be discourteous.

Members of the alumni of the Manual Arts High School are planning a series of lectures to be given at the school library for the benefit of the students. The first talk will be given today at noon on the subject of "Getting Started." The second lecture will be "Opportunities for Women" and will be given at the same hour. The speakers will be Stanley Guyot and Helen List.

Work on the Jefferson High School's annual, "The Monticellan," has started under the direction of a faculty advisor. The staff has been appointed by an advisory board composed of teachers and includes: Alex Forsyth, editor-in-chief; Gladys Lavelle, editor-in-chief for next year; Robert Wheatley, business manager, David Ginsburg, advertising manager; Richard Zobelion, circulation manager; Harry Jobe, sport editor; Josephine Stott, alumni editor. Other members of the staff are: John Hood, Herbe Milles, Ann Chapman, Dorothy Mack, Eugene Hilton, Emma Parks, Eloise Day and Lois Hall. Although no definite work has been started, a plan has been decided upon and the first staff meeting will be held next Thursday.

A wireless telephone receiving set has been constructed by the electrical classes at the Jefferson High School so that music and spoken messages may be heard direct from New York City. By means of this novel apparatus every play of the world series baseball games was heard at Jefferson. Music played by the band during the games also was distinctly heard.

More than 250 alumni and former students of Pomona College gathered at the City Club last Friday evening to celebrate Founder's Day. The celebration was in the form of a banquet and the guests entered into a formal flame ceremony which is an innovation for the college annual birthday program. The evening was presided over by A. L. T. Gould, assistant superintendant of the Los Angeles schools. Many Pomona College graduates held programs in other sections of the United States in memory of the founding of the college. The center of interest, however, was at the Los Angeles meeting. The mens' glee club gave two numbers. The String Quartette, under the direction of Amandus Zoellner, offered several selections. The speakers for the evening were Gerald Denebrink, Elvin Erickson, Frank Harwood, Dr. Robert C. Dennison, and Dr. Gould.

An automobile club made up entirely of students of the Occidental College was formed last week for the purpose of solving the problem of transporation to and from various athletic events held at distant points. The club will be of benefit not only touring information, but also to the college by taking the athletes to the games. Compensation will be offered to themembers for the use of the machine and time.

The Flaming Jewel
by Robert W. Chambers
America's Greatest Writer of Short Stories

Robert W. Chambers, America's King of Romance, is writing exclusively for McCall's, "The Flaming Jewel," a series of ten great short stories, to appear one each month for ten months, the whole completing a thrilling chain of romance in the life of a wonderful girl and her strange lover. These stories, rooted in mystery, love and intrigues, are vivid tales of a great crime; of a passion and fury that unites the grandeur of our own Adirondacks with the court of Russia and the underworld of Paris. You must not miss these vivid stories.

Wonderful Eyes,
Beautiful Hair,
But-Not Pretty

How often have you heard this expression of some one, or perhaps thought it yourself about your friends and acquaintances, who may have in turn said the same of you.

The beauty of some faces is of course marred by irregular features, but if the complexion is clear, soft and smooth, then even facial defects are forgotten in the admiration of the perfect blending of pink and white with the coloring of face and eyes.

Women who have learned the secret of complexion beauty use Black and White Beauty Bleach to remove any discolorations, such as tan, freckles, liver spots, and to prevent pimples and blackheads. No tedious hours are required in the use of Black and White Beauty Bleach, as the best results can be obtained if applied just before retiring. Full directions are given with each pack rections are given with each package. Follow them carefully, using Black and White Soap to keep the skin pores thoroughly cleansed, and in a short while your complexion will be a compliment to your personality.

Black and White Beauty Bleach 50c, Black and White Soap 25c, are for sale at all good drug and department stores. Complimentary literature mailed upon request to Rita Murray, Box 1302, Memphis, Tenn.

SAYS PLOT REPORTS LIES.

Peru Visitor Accuses Government of Issuing False Statements; Notes Growth of Air Travel.

"Reports of a revolution in Peru at the time of the centennial anniversary were entirely unfounded and the regretable part of the false impressions sent abroad at that time is that the reports emanated from the government," said Juan Pesantes Ganoza, well-to-do ranch owner of Peru, who arrived here yesterday.

"The people of the country outside of Lima never have desired revolutions, and the history of my country shows that all revolutions in the past have originated, not with the people of the republic, but within the narrow circle of political control at the capital," he said.

SUPPRESS SENTIMENT.

"Reports of impending revolutions have been too often used in the past merely as an agency to suppress sentiment unfavorable to the government, or as a means of disqualifying certain individuals who have been held by the present government as impedimento.

"Peru is advancing slowly, because of depressed markets and high rates of exchange, but one salient development, striking far into the future, is evidenced in the commercial advancement of airplane transportation. It is now possible to go almost anywhere in Peru by air route. Two fine schools of aviation have been recently developed and the government is fostering airplane transportation in every way possible. This progress is especially desirable in Peru, because of the rough, mountainous topography of the country, which has retarded railroad extensions and the construction of public highways, owing to the expense.

BENEFIT OF CANAL.

"The Panama Canal is showing its beneficial effect since the termination of the World War, but not in full measure, for the reason that very little is being imported into our country as yet, because of exchange rates and a lack of confidence as to the future. In this connection Peru looks to the United States to solve the problem with the right kind of a merchant marine. If you want trade with South America, that is the channel through which you surely can win it, and every month of delay will prove a handicap to your industries in the future.

"It is a pointed fact that not one vessel is docking at Lima commercially that is manned with American seamen. Englishmen predominate, and this is true of even the ships that claim America as their home port. Get your young Americans into the holds and onto the decks of freighters and passenger vessels as the first requisite toward the establishment of your merchant marine. As it stands today, from our observation there, America is practically unrepresented."

Bandits Hold Up Three; Get Cash, Watch.

Two armed bandits using a stolen automobile staged a series of holdups early yesterday morning.

C. E. Combes, 1224 Ionia street, reported that he was held up on Beaudry avenue and robbed of $1 in cash, a valuable watch, and personal papers.

L. P. Van Houten, 337 South Hope street, was stopped a block from his home and forced to surrender $15, a watch and articles of jewelry.

Police were furnished with detailed descriptions of the two bandits. The license number of the stolen automobile used by the robbers was secured and is being traced.

Louis Medano, a laborer, reported that two bandits tried to hold him up on Bishop street and struck him on the head with a revolver when they found nothing of value. He was treated for bruises at the Receiving Hospital.

TEXANS WILL MEET.

Texans will hold their regular monthly meeting tonight in the Friday Morning clubhouse, 940 South Figueroa street, where a program including negro folk songs, violin selections and dancing will be given.

TO GIVE A DANCE.

Post No. 8, American Legion, will give a dance in its clubrooms in the basement of the Washington Building tomorrow evening. It will be Broadway Department Store night, being the first of a series of so-called department store affairs.

"Somewhere East of Suez" Will be Program Motif.

Pleasure-seekers will be "shipped somewhere east of Suez" tomorrow evening when they enter the incense-laden temple which is to be the motif of the Cocoanut Grove at the Ambassador for "A Night in India," with its Buddhas, high priests and oriental atmosphere.

For the blase will be a bevy of maidens who will dance in a Hindu fantasy before the gleaming eye of a mute Buddha copied from a statute in a famous Indian temple.

A costume twenty-five feet wide and not seen before in Los Angeles will be worn by Fredderic Ko Vert, as well as his well-known peacock costume.

Art Hickman is arranging many Indian chants to fox-trot time for the affair.

FREE HARBOR PLAN PRAISED.

warrant and stir the greatest ambition and endeavor—rich resources, building construction, industrial expansion, agricultural pursuits, the hydroelectric project of the Colorado River, free-zone harbor as outlined by Henry M. Robinson, the development of foreign commerce and many more. And what is so important, the ideal conditions under which workingmen can labor and live with the open shop as an incentive for efficiency and future economic welfare.

FREE ZONE URGED.

"The free-zone harbor brings to mind my experience when establishing business throughout Europe some years ago. I had occasion to use the free harbor of Hamburg as an operating base. It convinced me then of the importance free ports are to developing world commerce. Los Angeles Harbor will reap vast benefits by this move—it should be brought about soon, for it will do more in circulating the products of this section over the Seven Seas and making this the important port of the Pacific than anything else. Now is the time for your business men to grasp the opportunity for creating a world's market at this port of entry.

"With regard to the future developments and expansion of American industry, it occurs to me that conditions forced upon us by the war can be made sources of advantage by more generally adopting the policy of industrial conservation and standardization as worked out with our industries through the conservation division of the War Industries Board.

"I had occasion to observe the results of standardization of types and styles in various classes of commodities, with the consequent saving in materials, money, labor and increasing productive capacities. The result was cheaper costs, thereby placing our manufacturers in position to better compete in the world's markets. Advantage should be taken of all these factors. With a standardized program worked out in manufacturing more can be produced for the masses at a lower proportionate cost, and one of the great lessons learned from the war is the possibilities which such economies lend to the industrial fabric making up our country."

WILL DISCUSS PEACE.

Women's Federation of Christian Mission Workers Also Will Elect.

The Women's Federation of Christian Missionary Workers of Los Angeles will hold its annual meeting in the First Christian Church, Hope and Eleventh streets, tomorrow, beginning at 10:30 a.m. In view of the approaching conference in Washington on November 11 to consider the limitation of armaments by all the leading nations of the world, the theme chosen for this meeting of the missionary workers is "On Earth Peace." In the forenoon Mrs. G. H. Clark will speak on the international institute work of the Young Women's Christian Association and Miss Winifred Rouzee of the Bible Institute of Los Angeles upon the "Service of Consecration." The closing address will be delivered by Rev. Edwin P. Ryland in the afternoon upon the subject, "World Peace." Rev. Edgar F. Daugherty and Mrs. H. W. Crabbe also are on the program. Mrs. Alma K. Moss will sing. Officers of the federation will be elected at this meeting. The present officers are: Mrs. James D. Eaton, president, and Mrs. Nathan Newby, secretary-treasurer.

ODD FELLOWS TO GIVE DANCE.

A dance and card party will be given Thursday evening by Good Will Lodge No. 323, I.O.O.F., in Memorial Hall, at 220½ South Main street. The entertainment, which will start at 9 p.m., is open to all Odd Fellows, Rebeccas and their friends. The program was arranged with a view of having a social evening each month.

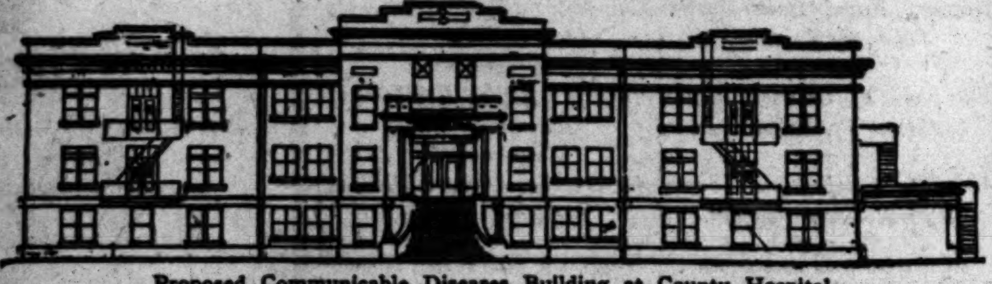
Bean Designs Structure To Cost Three Hundred Thousand Dollars.



Proposed Communicable Diseases Building at County Hospital.

Bids for the new $300,000 building for communicable diseases, containing 100 beds, to be erected at the County Hospital, will be opened by the Board of Supervisors today. The building will be of brick, stone and reinforced concrete, 184.4x158.1 feet, built in the shape of the letter H, the administration building being in the center.

Supervisor Bean designed the buildings, incorporating in their design many features he picked up on his recent trip among eastern institutions. William Davidson, mechanical engineer, supervised the plans.

This building will relieve the main hospital building of many beds where patients suffering from communicable diseases are being treated.

ATHLETIC BOARD.

The Pacific Fleet athletic board's personnel was announced officially yesterday by Admiral Eberle, commander-in-chief. It is composed of Capt. J. R. Pringle, chairman; Commander N. E. Nochols, Commander H. A. Orr, mine squadron; Maj. S. S. Lee, Marine Corps; Lieut.-Commander E. W. McKee, fleet athletic officer; Lieut.-Commander M. J. Foster, Lieut.-Commander D. J. Callaghan, Lieut.-Commander F. K. Elder, destroyer squadrons; Lieut.-Commander H. B. Glow, air squadrons; Lieut.-Commander S. L. Wilson, fleet train.

All matters pertaining to fleet athletics, which form one of the most important activities of the fleet in peace times, are to be handled by the board, working in conjunction with the athletic officers of the various ships and stations. Athletic programs, awards and regulations will be passed upon by the board for final disposition.

WON FROM SEA BY GIRL.

The enlisted men of the dreadnaught Mississippi are mourning the loss of W. E. Browning, joeman first-class, who completed his term of enlistment the other day and was discharged. Fear that he would not reenlist and return to his old duties in the paymaster's office was strengthened when it was announced that joeman Browning was heading for his home in Arkansas, there to take a bride.

It was reported aboard the Mississippi yesterday that Lieut.-Commander Frederick G. Reinicke, former Naval Academy football and boxing star, has been ordered by the department to report on that ship for duty.

Transportation by rail for dependents of Navy men transferred from the Pacific Coast or the Canal Zone to Eastern points will no longer be provided by the Navy Department, except in individual cases that have been taken up with the Bureau of Navigation at Washington, according to an order just issued by Admiral Eberle.

TELLS NEWS ON BOARD.

One of the most popular spots aboard any ship of the Pacific Fleet is in front of the bulletin board. Certain members of the crew see to it that every item of news published in Los Angeles papers that deals with the affairs of the Navy, the fleet and particularly the individual ship, is posted on the bulletin board for every man to read. Photographs and illustrations of fleet athletic events, clippings of newspaper articles, notices of articles lost or found, all these and many more can be found on the ship's board.

Catholics among the enlisted personnel of the battleship force attended divine services conducted by Chaplain Finn on the Nevada yesterday morning. At nearly all the morning services on the ships special music was provided by church and other organizations from Los Angeles and the harbor towns.

One of the strongest features of the "Mississippi Bulletin," the weekly paper published aboard the Mississippi, is the sporting page conducted by Lieut. Jack Kennedy, sporting editor. The page is called "By the D-e-e-p Six," a term familiar to all Navy men who have cast the ship's lead from the chains to determine the depth of water beneath the ship's keel. All the newest sporting gossip of the fleet, the "dope" on the ability or failings of the fleet's boxing champions, football and baseball chatter, and many other things dealing with athletic activities, are to be found on the page. Few sporting pages of big city newspapers are written in newsier style.

ANOTHER WOMAN ESCAPES

Mrs. McCumber Avoided a Serious Operation by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Georgetown, Ill.—"After my first baby was born I suffered so with my left side that I could not walk across the floor unless I was all humped over, holding to my side. I doctored with several doctors but found no relief and they said I would have to have an operation. My mother insisted on my taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I soon found relief. Now I can do all my own work and it is the Vegetable Compound that has saved me from an operation. I cannot praise your medicine too highly and I tell all of my friends and neighbors what the Compound did for me."—Mrs. MARGARET McCUMBER, 27 S. Frazier St., Georgetown, Illinois.

Mrs. McCumber is one of the unnumbered thousands of housewives who struggle to keep about their daily tasks, while suffering from ailments peculiar to women with backache, sideaches, headaches, bearing-down pains and nervousness,—and every such woman should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

TO INVESTIGATE POLICE OFFICER.

Member of Long Beach Force Under Arrest.

Chief Charges He Was Aid to Bootleggers.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Oct. 16.—Following closely the dismissal from the police department ten days ago of Motorcycle Officers Brewer and Rice on charges of "conduct unbecoming an officer," Chief of Police McLendon today ordered Special Officer E. R. Strong held under arrest for investigation on charges of accepting a bribe.

Strong was arrested by Officers Dunn, Richardson and Russell in Los Angeles as he was preparing to leave for the East, according to the officers.

He was found at Fifth and Main streets by the arresting officers and now occupies cell No. 1, in the City Jail, which has held several prisoners arrested by Strong during the five months he has been on the department.

Strong was a member of the "booze squad" which has been engaged in ridding the city of bootleggers and other violators of the dry laws in Long Beach the last several months.

It was from bootleggers that Strong is alleged to have accepted bribes amounting to about $500 during the past month, according to reports made to the police. Strong denies his guilt, although he is said to have admitted to the chief, in the presence of several officers, that he borrowed $50 from two men said to have been formerly engaged in illicit liquor traffic.

Strong was located in Los Angeles through his bride of five months, who, when first approached by officers at their home at 127 Male avenue, declined to state where her husband could be found and then under close questioning broke down and told, it is said, of her husband's downfall and their intention to flee the country.

Strong is 41 years old. A warrant was issued for the officer tonight on the charge of aiding and abetting the sale of liquor. Evidence in the case, gathered by officers detailed on the investigation, may be placed in the hands of the grand jury, Chief McLendon said this evening.

FASHIONABLE HOTEL.

Oil Operator Plans to Spend Fortune at Montecito.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 16.—William Miller Graham, wealthy oil operator of Tulsa, Okla., has secured options on approximately twenty-five acres fronting on Channel Drive, Montecito, on which a magnificent hotel will be erected.

The land purchases call for an investment of $350,000, and it is said $1,000,000 will be put into the building. The property included in the options are the Walter Douglas frontage, now occupied by a group of cottages known as the Montecito Park Dwellings, the Francis T. Underhill property and the Samuel Cupples Pierce home, known as Seagull Cottage. Willis Polk of San Francisco is drawing the plans. The hotel will provide for about 150 guests.

WAS EARLY PIONEER.

Old Time Stage Driver Dies at Ventura Hospital.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENTURA, Oct. 16. — Frank Haskin, a well known frontier character of other days, died this week at the new Ventura County Hospital. In the days before the railroads and decades before the Coast highway was thought of, Haskin drove freight teams between this city and Santa Barbara.

He was born in New York 70 years ago but came to Santa Barbara in 1874. Two or three years later he drifted to the old mission town of San Buenaventura and spent many years here making regular trips with freight between the two cities.

His brother was at one time owner of the Revere House here. Haskin had been blind for twenty years before his death, but was in other ways physically sound.

TO CELEBRATE ARMISTICE DAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENTURA, Oct. 16.—Armistice day will be marked here by a big dance and program at the bathhouse, under the direction of the Ventura county post of the American Legion.

During the day a parade will be given at Oxnard, in which Ventura veterans will join, and there will be a ball game there. Jasper Barry of Ventura has charge of the program arrangements.

PYTHIANS TO RAISE FUNDS FOR A CASTLE.

The Knights of Pythias Central-avenue Lodge, No. 319, will conduct a carnival beginning tomorrow and lasting until Saturday at the Hollywood Bowl, the proceeds to be turned into the building fund for the erection of a castle hall at Fiftieth street and Central avenue. George K. Kingcade will be in charge of the entertainment, which will include as its feature the dramatic presentation of "Damon and Pythias" Thursday night. A barbecue will be held Thursday and Saturday afternoons and nights. Other entertainment provided during the carnival includes dancing and vaudeville.

LONG BEACH FIRE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Oct. 16.—Fire of unknown origin caused damages estimated at about $2000 to the storehouse of the Long Beach Junk Company in the harbor district today.

The plant is owned by the Bernstein Brothers, who have it fully covered with insurance. Hundreds of rats were cremated in the flames.

BRUSHES DUST OF CITY FROM FEET.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Oct. 16.—Long Beach may be known as the holy city to the outside world, but it is anything but that in the opinion of Timothy O'Sullivan, a traveling evangelist, who had gathered a large audience on the Pine-avenue pier and was rudely interrupted by the police.

The itinerant preacher was informed that he was violating an ordinance prohibiting public speaking in that area and was escorted by Detail Officer Reusch to the city limits and told to go his way and returneth not.

As Officer Reusch turned to leave the apostle, O'Sullivan pulled a red bandana from his hip pocket and remarked as he flicked the dirt from his shoes, "I would not have the dust of this unholy city on my feet."

SPEEDERS GET JAIL SENTENCES

San Diego Justice Making Active Campaign Against Fast-Driving Autoists.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 16.—Bergman Johnson, an aviator, living at 811 Ross Circle, Long Beach, is spending five days in the County Jail at San Diego, having been arrested for driving an automobile fifty-one miles an hour.

Twenty-three others were caught going through speed traps here at high rates of speed, but were sentenced to serve sixty hours each, none of the others making the dangerous limit at which Johnson was going. Police Judge Ed L. Davin said that fifty-one miles was entirely too fast for the usual sixty-hour sentence.

Seven others from Los Angeles fared better than Johnson, the judge assessing either $10 or $15 fines each, because they were not acquainted with conditions in San Diego. These were: F. C. Sherman, Long Beach; Joe Warnick, Long Beach; Mrs. Esther Johnson, Los Angeles; E. Radcliffe, Los Angeles; H. E. Martin, Ocean Park; G. M. Jadlick and George Bird, Los Angeles.

Because of exceptionally aggravating circumstances, a bench warrant was ordered for the arrest of Paul Foreman, Los Angeles, who is charged with speeding.

Forty speeders were arrested in San Diego last week, and twenty-four of them are spending Sunday and until tomorrow midnight in jail. As the City Jail was too small to hold all of them, together with the other prisoners, eight of the speeders werfe transferred to the County Jail. Six speeders failed to answer to their names. These will be brought into court tomorrow morning on bench warrants if they are found.

Police Judge Davin is showing no disposition to relent in the severity of the sentences, which, according to schedule, are increased twelve hours each week, in addition to the fine of $10.

It was not a very cheerful crowd which filed from the courtroom yesterday to remain in jail until Monday midnight.

"I hope the day will come when a speeder cannot be found in San Diego," said Judge Davin.

MINISTERS MEET.

Congregational Churches Send Delegates to Yucaipa.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Oct. 16.—The fall meeting of the San Bernardino Association of Congregational Ministers, including all those in San Bernardino and Riverside counties, is to be held at Yucaipa on Friday. It is expected that there will be about fifty present, two representatives from each church in the association.

There will be an election of officers and reports from the churches. In the morning there will be three talks; one on "Survey to Service" by Dr. Kengott; "Where to Begin" by Miss Bundy, and "Japan and Disarmament" by Rev. Paul Waterhouse. In the afternoon Rev. John Gardner will speak on "He Restoreth My Soul," the Rev. Charles Davis on "Launch Out Into the Deep," and the Rev. Daniel Thomas on "Celebration of the Lord's Supper."

Women of the Yucaipa church will serve supper and a speaker from Pomona college will be a feature of the evening meeting.

FIRST SERMON.

New Minister Takes Up Work in Redlands Church.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Oct. 16.—Rev. William Jeffers, new pastor of the First Methodist Church in this city, preached his first sermon to the church here, the largest in Redlands, this morning. Dr. Jeffers spoke of the happiness he felt in being called to the local church which is considered one of the strongest and fastest growing in the district. He made a plea for co-operation from all departments in making the work for the coming year the best the church has ever had.

Dr. Jeffers comes to Redlands form the Boyle Heights church in Los Angeles. His family has not yet arrived in Redlands. When they do the church here is planning a reception.

Rev. Charles F. Sletter, who has been pastor of the church for three years left yesterday for Ontario to take up his work in the church to which he has been assigned.

MEETING FOR IRISH.

The public is invited to a meeting Thursday evening of the O'Rahilly branch, Friends of Irish Freedom, at Hall 660, Walker Theater Building. Speeches and music will make up the program.

GUARD COMPANY ENTERS SERVICE.

Unit at Pasadena to Become Part of Regiment.

Engineers to Discuss Boulder Dam Project.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Oct. 16.—The formal mustering in of the newly organized National Guard company in this city will take place the night of October 24, it is stated by Capt. W. R. Jackson, the commanding officer. The unit will be then a formal company in the California National Guard and in the auxiliary service of the Federal government. The local company will be Co. H of the One Hundred and Sixtieth Infantry.

BOULDER DAM TOPIC.

The proposed Boulder Dam power project on the Colorado River will be discussed by the Pasadena Engineers' Society at its next meeting, to be held Tuesday. E. C. LaRue of the United States Geological Survey will be a speaker.

INJURED MAN IMPROVING.

Frank Fitzgerald, one of the night groundkeepers at the Annandale Golf Club, who was accidentally struck on the head with a golf club in the hands of his brother, who was practicing last night, is improving at the Roosevelt Hospital, where he was taken. His recovery is expected.

ROTARY CLUB DINNER.

The Rotary Club of Pasadena will give a banquet and ball at the Maryland Hotel next Friday evening in honor of Stuart W. French and Charles H. Prisk, two prominent members of the organization, who have just returned from long absence in Europe. A committee comprising L. H. Turner, H. L. Miller and J. H. Pearman is in charge of the affair.

FALL CLEAN-UP.

The city will start its "fall clean-up" campaign the coming week, beginning with the eastern section of the city and gradually reaching other sections of the city. Rubbish that has accumulated during the summer and vacant premises will be cleaned up.

PLANS TO INCREASE SHIPPING.

Motorship Equipped to Aid Movement of Goods From Small Harbors.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Oct. 16.—The motorship Angel, formerly the U. S. patrol boat Rainier, arrived at the harbor yesterday, in command of Capt. Ernest W. Cullen, well known here for many years as an officer in the coastwise lumber vessels, but since the World War as a commander of some of the best of the U. S. Shipping Board fleet.

Some months ago the Rainier was sold at a public sale in San Francisco and was bought by Capt. Cullen at a very low figure, on account of the vessel having originally developed very slow speed. A change in the propeller is said to have increased the speed of the craft some four knots per hour.

The vessel has been brought here for the express purpose, Capt. Cullen states, of acting as a feeder to the deep-water vessels plying from Los Angeles Harbor to foreign ports, principally to Hueneme, Santa Barbara and San Diego on a regular schedule.

McCormick & McPherson, with offices on Pier A, who also handle the business of Williams, Dimond & Company and a number of other lines, will operate the vessel on a regular schedule and, if the traffic warrants, will add other vessels to the service as soon as the volume of traffic will warrant the move.

They state that the products of both Ventura and Santa Barbara, as well as those of San Diego, have for years past been principally shipped to San Francisco for export, whereas this harbor is the logical point of transhipment to deep-water vessels, particularly when destined to the Atlantic coast or to Europe.

The Angel is well adapted to this trade, carrying 400 tons of freight on a twelve-foot draught, which will enable her to get into Hueneme at all stages of the tide. The vessel is equipped with two double boom cargo electric winches, each of which, it is said, will handle 100 tons per hour.

The craft was built at Portland in 1917, is 111 feet in length and is equipped with a 300 horse power McIntosh & Seymour Diesel engine.

Capt. Cullen emphasizes the fact that this line is being established for the express purpose of building up a trade which logically belongs to this port, and which he believes can be greatly increased by giving prompt and regular service.

BOHEMIANS ELECT PRESIDENT.

Because of the coming departure for San Francisco of Alexander Saslavsky, violin virtuoso, where he will make his home, Vernon Spencer has been elected to fill the unexpired term of the former as president of the Bohemians of Los Angeles, it was stated yesterday. The club, organized about a year ago, is fashioned after the lines of the famous Bohemian Club of the Bay City, and its membership embraces many of the well-known musicians of the city, as well as many in other professions. The Bohemians meet every alternate Wednesday at the homes and in the studios of various members, the next meeting, on Wednesday evening, to be at the residence of Mr. Spencer, the new president, where a program will be given. Charles R. Baker has been elected a member of the board of directors.

Cabrillo Celebration Closes With Colorful Pageant.

sands of visitors from Los Angeles and other near-by cities who poured into the harbor town in the afternoon to witness the sailing regatta and the cruiser races staged in the main channel and at the outer harbor by members of the Los Angeles Athletic Club and other yachting organizations.

Shore boats and Navy motor sailers and speeders plied between the various landings and the gangways of the eleven battleships lying at anchor in the harbor from noon until late in the evening. The usual Sunday throng of visitors to the ships was almost doubled by the crowds who went to Los Angeles Harbor to participate in the Cabrillo discovery celebration.

CROWDS POUR IN.

Long trains of Pacific Electric cars from Los Angeles poured visitors into Los Angeles Harbor and the main highways leading southward were filled with automobiles carrying thousands more. Parking space about the city was at a premium.

The battleship California, pride of the Pacific Fleet and the State, came in for considerable attention by the visitors. The California lay at anchor at the farthest Navy berth, almost off the Long Beach shore, and in addition to the great crowds who went aboard from Los Angeles Harbor, shore boats from Long Beach carried hundreds of visitors to the ship's gangway.

The speed boat and cruiser races gave the thousands of visitors and natives who lined the wharves and lumber piles on both sides of the main channel of the harbor several thrills. The keenest rivalry was shown between the various entries and as the racers swept past the wharves they were cheered to the echo by the men and women who lined the wharves and waved pennants and handkerchiefs.

POLICING IDEAL.

Much favorable comment has been made by members of the celebration committee and visitors on the fact that not a single serious accident occurred to mar the three days of jollification at the harbor. The crowds were orderly and were handled without difficulty by the harbor police and officers detailed from other police divisions. A large detail of enlisted men from the subbase and the Pacific Fleet came ashore and assisted the police in patroling the docks and boat landings.

The arrests of each of the three days were fewer than on an ordinary day at the harbor, and there were for minor infractions of the law. On "Joy Street," where a carnival with its merry-go-round, Ferris wheel, freak shows and dancing pavilion drew thousands nightly, there was nothing for the police to do but keep the crowds moving.

ATTEMPT TO ROB FAIR TREASURER.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 16.—The gate receipts of yesterday's record-breaking crowd of 25,000 at the Southern California Fair excited the cupidity of some would-be bandit, it is thought, for shortly after midnight a shot was fired near an automobile as it passed under the viaduct of the Salt Lake Railroad.

The driver of the car, who, however, was not in possession of the cash, did not stop, but the truth of the story was proven today by an examination of the bridge in which the bullet was found imbedded.

The fair closed tonight with the record for the largest attendance of any year in its history. The largest number that entered the gates during the six days of the show is estimated at 80,000. The amusement purveyors state that their business exceeded that of any State fair in their circuit this year.

The dog show, which brought a large representation from movieland and a parade of more than $500,000 worth of live stock, were among today's principal attractions. The prize-winning canines will not be known until late tonight.

MME. LEBAUDY IS BACK FROM EUROPE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Mme. Marguerite Lebaudy, who shot and killed her millionaire husband, "Count" Jacques Lebaudy, three years ago in their home at Westbury, L. I., arrived on the steamship La Savoie today from France, with her daughter Jacqueline.

"I am going to my home in Westbury for a few days," she said, "and from there to Montreal, where Jacqueline will continue her studies at the Convent of the Sacred Heart."

Mlle. Jacqueline, the daughter, wore a silver bracelet on her ankle that showed through a silk stocking. She said the adornment was now a popular fad in Southern France.

Emmy Destinn, the opera singer, another passenger, startled interviewers when she said she would never again appear on the operatic stage, but would devote her time to concerts.

Col. Walker D. Hines, during the war Director-General of the Railroad Administration, returned from Europe on board the same liner. He has been acting as arbiter of the allocation commission.

CALLED TO CONFER ON NAVAL RESERVE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—Commander George W. Bower, in charge of the Naval Reserve for the Twelfth Naval Reserve District, and his chief of staff, John A. McGee, received telegrams today summoning them to Washington to confer on the reorganization of the naval reserve, it was announced tonight.

BEBE DANIELS IN TOUGH LUCK.

Four-Mile-an-Hour Nag Gets Film Star in Bad.

"Speeds" Across Bridge and "Constabule" Acts.

Actress Sees Doom of Hopes for Rapid Career.

Doggone it, Bebe Daniels certainly does have just the darndest luck about speeding!

And now to be stopped by a rural "constabule," when she's merely riding an old nag over a bridge, by heck!

That's what happened to Bebe down in San Diego county, last Saturday, when she was making scenes for her current picture.

"Can you feature that!" exclaimed the indignant Bebe. "And the horse was that old white nag that Doug Fairbanks used in 'The Three Musketeers,' too! I was just trying to get some speed out of the old skate, and he was clipping along as much as four miles an hour, I should think, though he wasn't wearing his speedometer that day. I was warming him up for a comedy race, and was galloping over the bridge, when out stepped the constabule and took hold of the nag's bridle.

"'Can't you read that there sign?' he asked.

"'As which sign?' I asked. He pointed.

"'Well, I answered, if you'll brush a little of the moss off it maybe I can!'

"'Don't you get fresh, young lady!' he said. 'I know yuh!'

"So I read the sign, which had a mildewed, old look—like Noah had put it there. It said 'Don't drive your horses faster than a walk!'

"Just imagine that, when most all the horses are dead!

"'Why,' I said 'this noble animal belongs to an almost extinct species, and he's pretty near extinct himself. Somebody ought to pay me for giving 'em a treat in making the old wreck strike a gait like that!'

"But I promised him that if the horse got frisky I'd try to hold him in, so he let me go."

QUIET LIFE LOOMS.

Up to that time Bebe hadn't given up hope, she says, of finding some means of speeding. Now she fears she'll have to adopt a quiet life. It's just no use; she can't get away with anything.

One day last week, Bebe went up in a seaplane, down at San Diego.

"Are you scared?" asked the pilot.

"Just of one thing," answered Bebe.

"What's that?" asked the pilot.

"That I won't go as fast as anybody ever went in a seaplane. Can't you step on it a bit—speed her up?"

"Oh, we can't go any faster now!" yelled the pilot above the noise of the engine and the wind, "because three other planes are just going up, and we might get hit or run into them!"

Bebe sighed.

"I was thinking of buying an airplane," she said. "But wouldn't it be just my luck if I did to have an air tarffic squad appointed next day?"

DEFIES COX.

But what do you think! Bebe has speeded again down in Judge Cox's bailiwick. Yet, sir; went eighty miles an hour and got away with it! What detracted from her satisfaction was that the speeding was merely done in a picture. While she was making those scenes, some people ran their machine up beside her, when she slowed down and said to her:

"Miss Baniels, I don't know if you realize you are in Judge Cox's domain. And we wouldn't like to see you turned in again. There are a couple of speed cops down the road a ways."

Down in a submarine at Los Angeles Habor Bebe went last Friday, to make scenes for her picture.

"At last I believe I've got it!" she exclaimed. "Down there under the sea it looks like you could get away with all the speeding you wanted to and nobody could catch you! Yes, sir; I don't see anything for me to do now but to buy a submarine!"

Oh, yes! I forgot! And Bebe is appearing down at the Rialto in "The Affairs of Anatol."

EXHIBIT OF RARE ART.

Prints, Etchings, Engravings of Four Centuries to Be Displayed.

A display of prints, etchings and engravings covering a period of four centuries will be held at the Stendahl galleries in the Ambassador this week. The exposition will open today and continue for three weeks.

From the galleries of Stockholm, London, Madrid, New York and San Francisco, Mr. Stendahl has gathered 110 prints, among which are those of the six great masters of this work. Albrecht Durer of Germany, whose work represents the sixteenth century; Rembrandt the seventeenth; Meryon of France; Haden, who was the founder of the Royal Society of Etchers, and who was knighted by Queen Victoria; Whistler of the nineteenth century, and Zorn of Norway, who is the twentieth-century exponent of the art, will all be on display.

POSTAL CLERK BALL FAN UNDER ARREST.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—His pockets bulging with currency totaling $13,800, William Wilt, a postal clerk of St. Louis, was arrested here yesterday upon complaint of the police of the Missouri city. He is charge with embezzlement and receiving stolen goods.

Wilt arrived here with $14,000 in cash. He came here to bet on the Yanks in the world series, according to the police.

The Yanks lost, but Wilt had been unable to get covered the money he wanted to wager on them.

EDITORS GOING TO INDIO.

Members of the Southern California Editorial Association are arranging to take their families to the Date Fair in Indio Friday. The Southern Pacific will carry an excursion car on the Sunset Limited. Transportation will be sold from Los Angeles, Pomona, Colton or Banning. General Passenger Agent McGinnis of the Southern Pacific is receiving reservations.

Rebels Beaten by Government in Nicaragua.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MANAGUA (Nicaragua) Oct. 16.—Government forces have been victorious in a five-hour engagement with Revolutionists in the department of Nueva Segovia, near the Honduran frontier.

Six Revolutionists were killed, a large number were wounded and several prisoners and a large quantity of ammunition were captured.

CONSECRATION TO AMERICA IS URGED.

HARDING TELLS FOREIGN-BORN CITIZENS THEY MUST WORK FOR REPUBLIC.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—President Harding, addressing a delegation of foreign-born citizens, who called at the White House yesterday, appealed for consecration to America, declaring that without it "the real America to which we all aspire" was impossible.

"I have said a good many times we of America have no racial entity and we are making a people which is born of national inspiration," the President said. "We are the blend of all peoples in the world. I sometimes think we are much better for that. But to make the real America to which we all aspire, we must have distinctly an American spirit, and you cannot have that without consecration to America.

"This is not impossible even for those who come here from foreign lands and who retain affections for native land and still retain an interest for their kinspeople. I would not think very much of a citizen, even though he came to America and then gave all his energy and all his soul to making a better republic, if he did not still feel concern for those of his kinspeople in the land from which he came.

"At the same time we do want everybody in America consecrated to make this a better republic, a better republic for the exercise of the efforts of our people and for those who come to America to find a home and our offering of opportunity."

WALLINGFORD JUNIOR.

MUSICAL COMEDY SPEED IN CHESTER PICTURE.

By Edwin Schallert.

With scampering mobs of excited villagers taking the place of a chorus, with subtitles that are full of artificial pep, and with a cast that manifests lots of tempo, "The Son of Wallingford" comes to the screen as exuberant as a musical comedy this week at the Kinema. It is Mr. and Mrs. George Randolph Chester's visualization of their own popular stories, and as such evidences the bright feeling and literary devil-may-care spirit of the original.

The big appeal of the Chester picture is not its adherence to facts and life, but its zestful exaggeration. It pretends to be sincere after its fashion but it really isn't. You have to take a lot of chaff with the wheat all the way through, but you can't help enjoying the winnowing.

I found myself tremendously interested in the affairs of a lot of regular George M. Cohan people, who carried their emotions on their sleeves and fired their humor at you as if with a shot gun. I couldn't help liking them, however, because they were different from the ordinary trashy movie heroes and heroines and villains—at least, in a measure. They might have been kept that way throughout, if the Chesters hadn't been somewhat movie-ized before they finished the picture.

The plot isn't such a terribly important thing, even though the picture is all plot. There are a variety of quirks and turns to the story that help sustain the suspense. The main thread winds around an oil well scheme, in which both "Get-Rich-Quick" Wallingford and his straight-going son are involved.

The climax shows fire destroying the fake oil derrick and the tanks of Mr. "Get-Rich-Quick," while young Wallingford and his girl are adrift on the lake near-by, which is aflame with oil. Wallingford senior is just about to be lynched on account of a fake scheme. By which you can see that the Chesters have condensed a few serial thrills to put over a finish.

The Chesters have a way of putting shellac on common places by using italics in nearly every subtitle. It isn't art, but after its fashion it gets over. In fact, the entire photoplay manages to be a slick glorification of a trite plot, based on the theme the public likes to be humbugged. If you don't take it too seriously, you'll enjoy the result.

The cast is very good. Tom Gallery makes an impression of eternal good humor as Jimmy Wallingford, and he's a pleasant, sincere actor. Antrim Short is capital as his teammate. Wilfred North does justice to Wallingford, while George Webb is convincing in his portrayal of Blackie Daw. Andrew Arbuckle, Van Dyke Brooke and others please, while Priscilla Bonner has a very fetching smile and is quite natural as Mary Curtis, the village belle. What would village belles be if they weren't natural—in the movies!

Larry Semon is present on the bill in his latest comedy, "The Bellhop," and as usual reveals the genius of a Nero for destruction. He uses oodles of ink, and white flour paste, and crockery to put over a most explosive laughfest, beginning in a hotel, with a cop steering traffic about the lobby, and ending in an airplane duel. There is hardly a moment that the action isn't at full speed, with Semon doing some very neat gags, and Norma Nichols, Babe Hardy and others as high-speed aids.

CAST FOR "PENROD."

Tully Marshall, character actor, has been engaged for the production of Booth Tarkington's "Penrod," starring Wesley Barry. He is to portray the part of Henry Passloe Schofield, father of "Penrod."

For the part of Ma Schofield, Marshall Neilan has selected Claire McDowell. George Dromgold has been signed.

Light Opera Music Hit at Pop Concert.

Sid Grauman complimented his mother by the presentation of a program in her honor at yesterday morning's concert at Grauman's Theater. Being a pianist and composer herself, Mrs. Grauman's favorite music, played by the orchestra, gave pleasure to a large number of admirers of her efforts in popularizing orchestral music in this city.

Taking us back thirty-five years to the days of the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, the "Mikado" was a happy choice, displaying excellent effects by the horn and trombone players.

Rubinstein was favored in two numbers of widely different character: the well known Romance transcribed from the piano, and the D minor Concerto for piano and orchestra, with a young artist, Collette Jaquard, as the soloist.

Judging by her style of playing, as well as her name, Mlle. Jaquard is undoubtedly French, and her achievement yesterday made an impression of brilliance and technical facility, in addition to her understanding of the musical content of a big work. The orchestra's support was occasionally so overwhelming as to dim the luster of Mlle. Jaquard's rather light tone, but the accompaniment as a whole kept to a rhythmically sympathetic background.

The soloist almost destroyed the atmosphere of serious musical intent by the addition of a music-box composition of a meaningless sort as an encore, which was entirely unrelated to the Concerto which she had handled so admirably.

The guest of honor as a composer was represented by a waltz song with charming bits for the flute, after the manner of Tetrazzini, for whom it was written. After this number Mrs. Grauman gracefully responded to applause from the audience, accepting beautiful flowers with appreciative smiles.

The program ended with Tobani's retrospections from Metropolitan opera and a fanfare from a Liszt Rhapsody.

Saslavsky Ensemble.

Music of color, inspiration and emotion exerted its varying influence over an audience of representative size at the concern given by the Saslavsky Chamber Music Society, with reorganized personnel, Saturday night at the Ted Shawn Studio Theater Building.

The mood of the program was modern. It comprised the Dumky Trio by Dvorak, the Sonata for violin and piano by Cesar Franck and the Trio in A Minor by Tschaikowsky. The reception accorded the players indicated a marked enjoyment both for the quality of the compositions and the interpretations.

Alexander Saslavsky, violinist, who heads the ensemble, brings as his aides this season Maurice Amsterdam, a violoncellist of well-modulated attainments, and Frank Moss, a pianist of sensibility and fineness. The effect of their performance was especially grateful in the balance of tone, notably apparent in the more rapid movements, where delicacy proved a distinguishing feature.

The slow movements, like the Andante Moderato in "The Dvorak" trio, revealed a certain lack of finish. The continuity of phrases seemed at times to waver. Nor were the attacks always concise and clear. One misses, too, those accents of power in the ensemble which come from a longer association.

Yet, on the whole, the presentation evidenced a command of the spirit of the material, especially in its variety. The blending of violin and piano voices in the Cesar Franck sonata was at times very attractive. So, too, in the Tschaikowsky trio there was a potent unity among the instruments which served to create a very agreeable impression.

The Saslavsky ensemble in its new personnel affords very favorable promise.

Sloman Leaves.

Edward Sloman, director of "The Ten Dollar Raise" and other pictures, left for San Francisco Saturday on a flying trip to secure appropriate locations for "The Man Who Smiled," a Frothingham production.

FLASHES.

"ACE" LOSES TRICK.

GOUVERNEUR MORRIS PICTURE SUBLIMATED SERIAL.

By Grace Kingsley

The face-card among authors of shivery printed tales, Gouverneur Morris, falls behind, apparenly, upon writing directly for the screen. At least, his "Ace of Hearts," showing this week at the California, is below par. I believe it was written directly for the silversheet, and if it wasn't, but is an adaptation, he ought to be doubly ashamed of himself; that's all. Certainly there is no domain better suited to the screen than that of mystery and plotting, but at present, original film tales of this sort seem mere sublimated serials.

"Ace of Hearts" should be called "Bombs for Breakfast." The theme has to do with a bunch of men who take on themselves the cheerful duty of understudying the Almighty. They decide that any man whose sins they happen to find out, but whom the law didn't deal with, shall die. They compose a sort of Ku Klux Klan de luxe, and they love to start the day right off by serving the guy a bomb with his grapefruit; they don't even let him hit the mush-and-milk course.

Barrie once wrote a satire on this sort of thing called, "Better Dead," in which any member was to commit suicide, if I remember rightly, on the vote of the remaining members. But each member oddly objected when his time came, and the club busted up. "The Ace of Hearts" has none of that subtle, poking of fun at human nature. Neither has it any particular ingenuity.

The society of "The Ace of Hearts" has kept books on a certain man, and has decided he ought to die. An artist who was painting his picture, played by Lon Chaney in bobbed hair, voted for the man's death. So did a man who had been acting as his waiter at his club. (Probably if all waiters had the power this one had, none of us would be alive today.)

Everybody's mouth was watering to do the job.

There was just one lady in the club. Her name was Lilith, and her tender little soul had never given a thought to anything but the cause. However, she married the guy who was to do the killing, the night before it was to happen, and, deciding overnight that it would be a shame to kill such a perfectly lovely husband, she woke up in the morning and changed her mind about letting him do the deed.

Lilith gummed things up for fair, because in the long run, for her sweet sake, Lon Chaney, saying, "Ha-ha-ha," just like that, bumps off the whole crowd with the little bomb they had intended for the rich man. Then the bride and groom go away to the sweet, clean West, where bombs are unknown.

Lon Chaney, Leatrice Joy, John Bowers and the others did the best they could with the unbelievable thing.

However, let's forget about it. Like a draught of fresh air is Ben Turpin's latest breezy comedy, "Love Doughnuts," which is full of airy nothings, but keeps one enjoying himself to the utmost. Of course, this film isn't about anything in particular, but there are a lot of new gags and there is a funny chase between the baker and his assistant that's a riot, plus an attempt on the part of Ben to eat "wild asparagus" that's full of laughs.

Nazimova Preparing.

Alla Nazimova is to start work on Ibsen's "The Doll's House," her first production with her own company, about November 1 This production will be followed by "Salome."

Films Call Blackwell.

On completion of his present vaudeville tour Carlyle Blackwell is to return to films. However, he is to protray characters.

Back From Florida.

Marguerite Snow, wife of the director, James Cruze, has returned from Jacksonville, Fla., where she played in a picture. Her 8-year-old daughter, Julie, accompanied her.

Mayo Plays Parson With Strong Right.

It seems as though you cannot put a preacher on the screen unless you make him also a pug. So Frank Mayo in "Go Straight" is a fighting preacher, or the other way about, a preaching fighter. Take your choice!

Be that as it may, Mr. Mayo may be viewed at the Superba and was so viewed yesterday by a large crowd, who evidently appreciate the fact that here is one real actor who knows how to make any part he plays really convincing.

"LITTLE WOMEN" IS SUITABLY CAST.

Starting their fifth season of dramatic activities, the Pasadena Community Players are offering "Little Women," adapted from Louisa M. Alcott's story.

"Little Women" is a play of characters, and the Pasadena nonprofessionals have all been happily cast. They take you back to the Civil War period and weave the spell of home life as it used to be, Jo, Meg, Amy and Beth—that quartet of unforgettable girls of yesteryear—are portrayed with versimilitude by Thyra Ruhland, Marie Wood Huxley, Avis M. Russell and Rose V. Stein.

Mrs. A. H. Palmer makes a convincing Marmee. Others who distinguish themselves are Genevieve Welch, Gene Douglas, Hoyt Martin, D. Shell Bassett, Mrs. William Haskell, George H. Frost and H. F. Boeckman.

"Little Women" will be given every night this week, with a Saturday matinee.

Simplicity is a feature of the production, which Eloise Sterling didected.

"Conquering Power."

"Eugene Grandet" from the Balzac novel, brought to the screen by Rex Ingram as "The Conquering Power" forms the major portion of cinema entertainment at the Alhambra Theater. The program also features the Buster Keaton comedy, "The Playhouse," as the lighter offering.

"The Conquering Power" has in its leading roles the same two lovers who made the "Four Horsemen" so appealing. Again the pale beauty of Alice Terry and the cosmopolitan and debonair Rudolph Valentino hold the attention. Ralph Lewis provides an engrossing study of the miserly Grandet.

The story deals with the romance of Grandet's daughter and her cousin, who is left destitute following his father's suicide, upon the crash of the family's finances. Grandet, the miser, brings about the parting of the two and it is only after years of separation that the lovers meet again.

Earle Speaks Before Mummers.

Ferdinand Earle, who has produced "The Rubaiyat" of Omar Khayyam for the screen, talked on the influence on the film world of the modern theater movement before the Mummers' Workshop, a band of players interested in the intellectual drama, in Hollywood last week.

Pollard to Australia.

Harry (Snub) Pollard plans to take a vacation a year from this October when he will go to his native land, Australia, and visit England and France on his way home. Australia has been clamoring for a personal appearance tour by the comedian.

Lloyd Repeats at Symphony.

"Never Weaken," Harold Lloyd's latest comedy, seems never to be going, too. Crowds keep on seeing it. It's chiefly about a young man trying to procure patients for his girl's doctor-boss, and how he fliva and then it runs off into a lot of comic troubles on Lloyd's part when he meditates suicide, and is finally carried out of his office by a girder on a crane.

Too frothy to write about, but just the thing to see.

WOMAN ADMITS SHE KILLED HER HUSBAND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—Mrs. John Anderson last night admitted, the police said, that she shot and killed her husband, whose body was found today at his home by attaches of the Emergency Hospital, who responded to an ambulance call.

The couple had quarreled over the conduct of Desmond Halleran, the 16-year-old son of Mrs. Anderson by a former marriage, police said.

GOV. SPROULE WILL STAY AS GOVERNOR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—After returning from the funeral of United States Senator Knox today, Gov. Sproule definitely settled the rumor he might resign to be appointed United States Senator. "I shall not resign the governorship. The people of Pennsylvania elected me governor for four years and they expect me to finish out my term," he said.

Mining, Trade Progress in Many Fields.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY.

You are politely requested to submit samples, carefully wrapped and tagged, with letter accompanying stating what tests are desired. Make sample of small size. There is no necessity for big chunks. Correspondents offering matter for analyses with card, or scrap of paper, intended to show that the stuff is from Jim Jones, for instance, with no marks of identification on samples, will, hereafter, receive no attention whatever.

ARGENTITE.

SILVER PEAK (Nev.) Oct. 1.—Question: Knowing that you are interested in new discoveries of ores and minerals I am inclosing two samples from stringers running east and west on a claim in the new camp known as Argentite. No. 1 is probably hornsilver and No. 2 I do not know what. Please classify the samples. Thanking you for many favors. M. D.

Answer: No. 1 sample is not silver chloride (hornsilver) and yet it is but 2.4 in the scale of hardness. Sp. weight 7.3. The specimen is chiefly made up in the forms of octahedrons; it is blackish, lead-gray in color, and reflects, from coatings, faint rainbow colors (iridescent.) It is of metallic luster, yields easily to the knife and cuts like lead. The sample probably contains 75 per cent silver with 14 per cent sulphur and running low in iron, copper and lead. A chip of the sample placed before the blow-pipe or in the flame of a candle, drives off the sulphur with intumescence, and the silver present is reduced to the metallic state.

Sample No. 2 is hard to determine; it is probably silver mulm (or silver-black.) It is dark bluish—black in color, and can be referred to as an earthy form of silver glance (Argentite.)

We thank you heartily for submitting samples from the new camp to this department of The Times. Silver Peak is an old silver mining locality and it would not be surprising if the stringers turn out to be ledges at depth; let us hope so anyhow!

Silicate and Carbonate.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—Q.: I am sending you samples of clay I find on my ranch located 30 miles east of Los Angeles and one mile from the Santa Fe railroad. Will you please tell me what it is good for? Thanking you for the favor. M.

A.: For years past this department of The Times has qualitatively analyzed clays and clay-like minerals for a great number of correspondents residing at many points from the Missouri River to the Pacific Coast.

It is no easy job to determine these claylike minerals, and they vary greatly in composition and in usefulness to the clay industry.

Why is it that the United States produces so little kaolin? It appears by reference to the bulletin by Jefferson Middleton of the U. S. Geological Survey 1918, that 37,969 short tons of kaolin were marketed in the United States in 1918 for $391,109; average price per ton $10.30. California produced 1427 short tons valued at $26,104, while Delaware approximately doubled the California product in tonnage and sales. All of the remaining States came under the head of: "includes all clay reported by less than 3 producers in 1 State."

The Homer Knowles Pottery Company of Santa Clara, California, recently imported from England 2,000,000 pounds of English china clay, and the shipment was made from Liverpool. Is it not about time that certain granites and gneiss of California should be tested out for kaolin equal to that of England?

Regarding your samples: The white specimen is a mixture of lime and magnesium carbonates with some silica and aluminum silicate, and you ask, referring to this sample, questions relating to talcum and kalsomining.

There are many substances, used for talcum of poorer grade than your No. 1 specimen if properly washed, floated, etc. Actual tests will be called for thereon as to kalsomining. The grayish samples are chiefly hydrous magnesium silicates; silicious, with more or less aluminum silicate, and silvery (muscovite) potash mica in microscopic forms sparingly contained in the samples.

The probabilities are that minerals represented by the specimens are of limited uses only. No. 1 will not answer for pyrophyllite, fuller's earth, or surgical dressings and your best course to pursue is to offer samples of No. 1 to those engaged in the many varieties of claylike minerals now being tested out by the clay industries.

Not Fuller's Earth.

OCEANA, Oct. 2.—Q.: I am sending you a sample of clay and I would like you to analyze it. Possibly you will know what it is without analyzing it and without assaying the same. I have a very large deposit of this clay and when first taken from the earth is of a greenish color and very wet or in a sweat. I compare the mineral with a certain soap. I have no fresh clay on hand. Please inclose your bill when you write and I will send check by return mail. H.

A.: No charge, and once more be it noted that The Times pays the freight. There are minerals which can be classified microscopically from their crystallizations, but when it comes down to clays and claylike mixtures woe betide the analyst who would guess what the samples are composed of! It is a fact that on many such minerals qualitative analysis alone amounts to a pointer only as to the percentages of elements in clays.

The samples are in part kerolite (magnesium silicate, hydrous.) They are not the surgical dressing clay known as Bentonite and the specimens react for aluminum silicate. They fall to a non-plastic pulp in water and with this information we can go no further qualitatively.

Hornblende.

RANDSBURG, Oct. 3. — Q.: I would like to know what this rock contains. When it is ground up and covered with water in a pan and left to stand overnight it has a peculiar smell and also stains bottom of gold pan ink-black. Thanking you for past favors. Prospector.

A.: The matrix of the sample is chiefly Tremolite, a variety of hornblende with a little actinolite, another member of the hornblende family of minerals.

Microscopical silvery lustered potash mica, known as Muscovite, is present with zinc-iron sulphides and more or less iron sulphate. Baryte and galenite traces. Tremolite differs from actinolite chiefly in its pale-green, gray or white color.

Seventeen Samples.

DESERT, Oct. 4.—Q.: I am sending you today a package containing two lots of samples. One package is marked, "Outcrop" and the other one "Drift." Sample No. 7 in the drift lot is from another locality. The outcrop package contains samples from various outcroppings above the drift and are from the same ledge. Thanking you for past favors. W.

A.: The "Drift" specimens react as follows: No. 1 is oxidized ore carrying free gold a small color only. No. 2 is like No. 1, but free gold is absent. No. 3 is of lead, zinc, and iron sulphides; each in very low percentage. There is no No. 4. No. 5 is quartz; zinc-lead traces, and the yellow is altered epidote. No. 6 is of garnetiferous rock; quartz present, and a trace of cerargyrite (hornsilver.) No. 7 is probably a tremolitic rock containing low percentages of zinc and lead.

The "Outcrop" samples are: No. 1 quartz with iron oxides containing a few vuggs where live pyrite once nested. No. 2 is of quartz with traces of zinc-lead sulphides. Samples 3 and 4 are on the order of No. 2. No. 5 is a quartzitic and feldspathic rock carrying iron oxides. One other No. 4 is on the order of No. 5. No. 6 is like No. 5. No. 9 is altered feldspathic rock with iron-manganese oxides. No. 10 is quartz containing a bare trace of hornsilver. No. 8 is a variety of quartz known as chalcedony. No. 12 is quartz with iron oxides and pyrite; free gold a very small trace.

Crystal Zircon Absent.

COLTON, Oct. 4.—Q.: I am sending you in the other separate mail a little sack of mineral which I wish you to analyze and classify for their values. My tests are giving silicate and oxide of zirconium. Kindly let me know the charges and I will send you a check immediately. Thanking you in advance. T.

A.: It is not possible to analyze the samples by you submitted other than qualitatively, the thumb specimens being not sufficient in quantity and, furthermore, it would call for three weeks' time to give the quantitative work called for.

There are no crystals of zircon in the mass, and the matrix, while resembling a whitish jasper, somewhat reacts for the earth zirconia.

The query put to the samples should be: Is the yellow oxide so sparingly contained in the specimens, an iron oxide or zirconia? It was not possible to answer the question, as the weight of the oxide obtained was very low, and with a very slight iron reaction.

Spessartite.

IMPERIAL, Oct. 5.—Q.: Inclosed please find samples of ore taken out of a mine about seventy miles from the border in Lower California. I am of the opinion that it contains nothing of any value only in the way of crystals, which might be semiprecious. Please advise. D.

A.: The rock carries manganese-alumina garnet (spessartite.) It is probable that the mine should produce some mighty good gems, including opal. The difficulty is to separate the crystals from the rock without fracturing the gems. It might be a good plan to prospect the ground at the locality for loose crystals among the waste on the dump of the mine.

Spessartite is sold under various names, including hyacinth and yellow topaz. The rock and crystals, moreover, would make a good abrasive, but, mind you, we are referring strictly to the samples only.

Oil and Gas Manual, 1921 Edition.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has issued an interesting manual relating to the oil and gas industry. It is made up of five parts, and Part V, is "a short chapter on the oil industry of Mexico and contains notes on geology, production and markets." This chapter was prepared by Oscar H. Reinholt.

The manual should be useful to the taxpayer in making out his return and supplying proper valuation data.

"Since the publication of the original manual in 1919, a number of Treasury rulings have been rendered; much additional information regarding the estimation of oil reserves has been collected, studied and prepared for publication; also a large amount of data collected and tabulated relating to the number of wells drilled, thus establishing a dry-hole hazard for various districts and fields."

The manual should also prove of value to those engaged in the oil industry. There are quite a number of contributors to the publication who stand high among the scientists specializing in the production of petroleum, and copies of the manual may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for 25 cents.

Tough Chicago Cops Laugh at Steel Corsets.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Bullet-proof corsets for New York policemen!

Much raucous laughter by the Chicago force. "Whoops, my deah," said a 250-pound detective sergeant who has shot it out with several gangsters. "They'll be carrying powder puffs next."

"Do we wear corsets?" asked members of the traffic squad when told of the New York plan. "Why, no, it's just our natural shape that makes us look like this. Also you might tell 'em our back hair is our own and we do not pluck our eyebrows.

"Those New York cops will be wearing fire-proof summer furs next, rolling down their sox and carrying ostrich plumes in their hats."

Grizzled old detectives and patrolmen who have engaged in battles with gunmen, through dark alleys, over the roofs of houses and out in the open street, where quickness of eye and muscles means victory or death, say they do not wish to be hampered with any corsets or other lingerie when they go into action against desperate thugs who are known killers.

KERN'S FIELDS ARE PARALYZED.

Oil Workers' Strike is Heavy Blow to Production.

Elk Hills District Retains Prestige in State.

But Three Permits for New Wells Issued in Week.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 15—Development work in the oil fields of Kern county continues to be "all shot to pieces" by the strike of oil workers. The last month has seen less actual work in the fields than at any time since the industry was put on a substantial footing in this section of the State.

During the last week permits were granted by the State Oil and Gas Supervisor for three new wells in Kern county, while three redrilling permits were issued and one for test of water shutoff.

The Standard Oil Company has started to drill its No. 5 well in the Midway field on Section 1, 32-24.

The Salient Oil Company is preparing to drill its first well in the Kern River field on Section 6, 32-30, and the Pan-American Petroleum Corporation has secured a permit to put down No. D-6 on Section 1, 31-24, in the Elk Hills.

The Elk Hills continues to be the greatest field in the history of California oil. During the first six months of the present year sixty-eight wells in this field produced 10,193,318 barrels of oil. That is, less than 1 per cent of the total number of producing wells in the State produced about one-sixth of the State's oil. The Elk Hills oil field is now producing about one-fourth of the normal output of the oil fields of the entire San Joaquin Valley.

EOCENE SPUDS IN.

The Eocene Oil Syndicate, operating in the Devil's Den district, has spudded in its No. 1 well on Section 22, 25-18. The property adjoins the old Consolidated well, which was drilled in some twenty years ago and through legal entanglement has never been operated.

The Consolidated well struck a forty-two gravity oil, which, on several occasions, spouted over the top of the derrick, it is reported. The Eocene is near this old well and the oil stands in it 100 feet from the surface and is being used by the Eocene for distillate, the oil being taken out with a bailer. Ed Robinson is in charge of the Eocene. The company is working three shifts and crews are composed of Coalinga men. Paying production is expected at 2000 feet.

Announcement has been made in Modesto, north of Bakersfield, that a company has been formed with ample capital to exploit oil indications in that vicinity. The men composing the new company will make a comprehensive test of petroleum possibilities of the district.

The Oil Exploration Company has secured a lease on property located in the city of Porterville and owned by the city. The land leased is what is known as the Sewer Farm and a large tract of adjoining territory. It is believed that a light oil stratum lies beneath the land. C. M. Buck of the Oil Exploration Company does not predict a phenomenal production, but that the tests will prove the contention that Porterville is situated over one of the finest oil veins in the State. Drilling will start within sixty days, it is said.

PORTERVILLE LEASES.

The Oil Exploration Company is not the only concern interested in oil in the Porterville district. A group of Porterville men hs secured other land east and west of the town, it is reported, and several others are being interested.

In the Terra Loma district, near Fresno, a concern headed by Fresno men, has taken over the holdings of J. H. Cardwell. This land is directly west of Fresno, between the two Panoches. The Fresno Nevada Oil Company is now drilling near Big Panoche Creek, and the Los Banos Oil Company, near Little Panoche Creek. Caldwell's land is located between the two. The Shell Company of California pipe line runs near the property and if oil is discovered the transportation problem will be solved.

OIL FIELD STRIKE IN SIXTH WEEK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 16.—The strike in the oil fields of the San Joaquin Valley entered its sixth week today with the general situation but little changed. Very long meetings have been held by all local unions concerned in the strike for a night or two past, some of them lasting until dawn. Following these were heard the usual unauthenticated rumors that the strike would be called off, which leaders branded as nonsense.

No reports of violence or disorder were brought here today.

PARIS IS MAKING WAR ON RATS.

More Than 570,114 Killed in Past Year; Sewer Cleaner Makes Money.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Oct. 15. — More than 570,114 rats have been killed in Paris since the offensive against them was started a year ago. Bonuses have been paid at the rate of 30 centimes a head.

In the first month of the campaign the bonus was paid upon delivery by the rat hunter of the tail of the animal but a sewer cleaner became an expert in the art of manufacturing rat tails out of leather and other material at the rate of several hundred per day and since then the bonus has been per head instead of per tail.

FRANCE FEARS GERMAN GOODS.

Cannot Depend on Allies for Protection.

Try to Guard Against Any Price Inflation.

Paris Markt Heavy, With Little Activity.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Oct. 16.—France is beginning to realize that she can no longer depend upon her European allies for protection against Germany and that only an entente with her late enemy can provide a firm basis for Europe's economic restoration. In this way France is able to save large sums formerly invested with these allies.

Since the armistice the Allied Powers have traversed three phases, beginning with the Treaty of Versailles, which established the amount of money Germany owed. The second was the conference in London, which fixed the amount Germany could pay at 132,000,000,000 gold marks.

The third was the conference at Wiesbaden, which asserted that the payment could be made in any manner not prejudicial to either nation.

The Wiesbaden conference provided that France was not to receive more than 7,000,000,000 gold marks worth of goods during the next five years, and even if Germany delivers more goods than France's share of the reparations percentage, France may delay reimbursements until 1926. In other words France is to receive 1,500,000,000 gold marks' worth of goods in 1922, although entitled to 200,000,000 marks' worth less. She gains the advantage of waiting until 1926 to reimburse for the overdraft plus five per cent interest which undoubtedly will be employed in the cancellation of an equal amount of German bonds she is holding, thereby escaping actual payment of money to Germany.

INDUSTRIES PROTEST.

Despite these advantages French industries are protesting, fearing a flooding of the market with cheap goods. Of this there is no danger, however, for the price fixed is to be that current in France or 3.6 times the prewar rate, thus acting as a check on those anxious to inflate prices.

The records show that the wholesale price index has increased since July from 3.84 to 3.95 times the prewar rate, compared to the peak of 4.51 in last November. In this way France is following England and the United States with a show of slight trade revival. Retail values are still dropping. Prices are below the cost of production in the automobile and clothing trades and both products are selling for less, on a gold basis, than before the war.

The cost of living has decreased roughly about twelve per cent since deflation started a year ago.

MARKET IS HEAVY.

The market has been heavy all week with activity at the minimum. The only bright feature has been the steel group, led by Schneider with an advance from 2400 to 2450. Mexican Eagle dropped ten points. Royal Dutch sagged to 1890 while Steanau dropped 427 with other Rumanian oils sympathetically lower.

Coal shares turned lower as prospects of reducing miners' wages are still problematical. Courrieres held steady at 347 but Lens dropped from 278 to 219.

Transport and rail shares held steady.

The larger banks were slightly disturbed by exchange speculation during the week but recovered stability. Government bonds were inactive.

BUSINESS DULL ON LONDON EXCHANGE.

RECOVERY UNLIKELY UNTIL CONTINENTAL NATIONS STOP PRINTING MONEY.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Not only have conditions on the stock exchange shown improvement during the last week but certain indications hint that Throgmorton street is in for a very lean time.

The trade of this country is in an extremely difficult situation. Demoralization of continental exchanges is making all the hopes of trade revival seem distant in the extreme. The scheme to extend banking credits is under discussion but it hardly can do much until the various continental countries stop printing money and attempt to put their financial house in order.

Unless and until this is done, world trade must be at a standstill. The general uneasiness spread even to the gilt edged market. That heretofore has been immune. The over subscription of the recent first-class issues continued, but largely from stags who have not all been able to take profits.

Foreigners naturally suffered by the collapse in exchange, with Mexican shares fairly steady in hope of an American-Mexican settlement. Rails, home and foreign, have been neglected. Prices sagged. The speculative markets have shown decided weakness. Rubbers did not continue their recent advance. The interest in that section has dwindled to nothing.

Oil exhibits no sign of recovery. At one time prices advanced, led by Burmahs on their dividend expectations, and the bears covered in Mexican Eagles but the recovery was not maintained.

The poor news from Mexico regarding salt water flowing into oil wells, added to the continental sales at Paris and Amsterdam, speedily caused the market to turn. The tone at the close was depressed and lifeless.

SHIPPING BOARD CLAIMS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Total claims of the Shipping Board against the United States Mail Steamship Company were placed at more than $5,000,000 yesterday by W. M. Bullitt, special counsel for the board. The company, Mr. Bullitt said, has no visible assets.

SEEK TO HELP FOREIGN TRADE.

British Plan for Relief of Unemployment.

Gravity of Situation Being Emphasized.

Winter May be Worst in All Europe's History.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 16.—With Parliament reassembling Tuesday and with the government proposing to seek a grant of £12,000,000 sterling in the hope of fostering a revival of foreign trade, thereby reducing unemployment, the city has been marking time during the past week.

This trade scheme is something altogether novel in British history and parliamentary approval must be obtained before the government can launch on the program by which traders to certain countries will have a government guarantee of from 50 to 75 per cent of the value of the goods exported. It is recognized that the plan is a palliative rather than a cure for business illness which has Europe in its grip.

FIRST STEP IN PROGRAM.

This is only the first step in a more elaborate program the government is slowly and painfully arranging. There are no rash prophesies of a return of prosperity. Rather, there is a tendency to overemphasize the gravity of the situation and predict even harder times before any steady improvement begins. So conservative an economist as George Paish sees little hope of a quick improvement, while other authorities express the fear the coming winter and spring will prove the most distressing period in generations in Europe.

If conditions remain bad it will not be because all responsible parties are not tackling the gigantic problem. From King George to the lowliest labor leader the country is bending to the task of finding employment for the army of men and women now bordering on the edge of privation.

MARKET FLUCTUATES.

Next to the matter of unemployment, business and financial circles have been speculating with the greatest interest on the Silesian decision of the League of Nations council. First rumors had a depressing value on the mark and sympathetically the whole market began to fluctuate wildly. The mark dropped precipitately to a new low record and the lira and French franc began to show signs of unsteadiness.

Just how much the depreciation is due to speculation and the tremendous inflation is difficult to say. There is a large amount of speculation going on here, but, on the other hand, the German paper currency has reached the gigantic total of 86,400,000,000 marks. Further reparations payments of £15,000,000 sterling are due next month, and it is possible that some of the present weakness of the mark is due to the purchases necessary to accumulate foreign funds in anticipation of the payment.

VENIZELOS ANXIOUS TO MEET AMERICANS.

FORMER PREMIER OF GREECE COMING WITH BRIDE ON HONEYMOON.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Former Premier Venizelos of Greece sailed for America on the Aquitania yesterday with his wife on what will really be his honeymoon. Before leaving M. Venizelos told a correspondent that he intends to get acquainted with the American people and study social and political conditions. Asked if he was done with politics, he said:

"One who has helped to guide his own nation's hand is never done with the study of politics while he lives. All questions affecting the welfare of humanity appeal to him and he must study them. When he ceases to do so, he is dead though living. Though I may not be in Washington when the conference is sitting, I will be profoundly interested in its decisions.

"I am visiting Washington soon after my arrival in America and I hope that I shall meet President Harding and all the leading American statesmen. After Washington we shall visit Chicago and then go to California. I hope to spend six months in the United States before returning to England via Canada."

M. Venizelos refused to discuss the rumor that he was going on a financial mission in connection with the reorganization of the Greek government.

MRS. VANDERBILT TO SELL ART OBJECTS.

AUCTION WILL BE HELD IN HOME WHICH ONCE RULED NEW YORK SOCIETY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Paintings, tapestries, exquisitely carved old chairs, objects of art which have been the envy of New York for a generation, will go under the auctioneer's hammer when Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Sr.'s, house at 660 Fifth avenue is dismantled this week. Invitations received last week by friends and acquaintances of the Vanderbilt family make them welcome Wednesday at a private sale by auction in the drawing-rooms which saw the heyday of Vanderbilt rule in New York society.

The halls, which were filled with the admiring elite when Consuelo Vanderbilt married the Duke of Marlborough, will be filled again by HUGE PRODUCER IS BROUGHT IN.

Thousand-Barrel Well Flows at Huntington Beach.

Production of Miley-Keck is Doubled in Day.

Standard to Develop New Torrance Holdings.

BY ELLWOOD J. MUNGER.

The Petroleum Midway is coming into the success that it has been entitled to for some time at Huntington Beach. Investing close to $1,000,000 in the field, drilling a dozen or more wells and doing exploration work in all parts of the field, the Petroleum Midway has just been rewarded with a 1000-barrel well at Vollmer-Meyer No. 4. This came in with an initial flow of 1600 barrels, settling later to 1000 barrels. The new well is making twenty-six-gravity oil, and the production is coming from the oil sands cutting less than four-tenths of 1 per cent. The Petroleum Midway has Vollmer-Meyer No. 1 ready to bring in at 3465 and from all indications No. 1 will duplicate No. 4. The Petroleum Midway's new producer is the largest deep producing well in the Huntington Beach field. Vollmer-Meyer No. 4 came into the oil sands at 3550.

The Edens Syndicate well is scheduled to go on production soon. Water trouble in the eight-foot string is expected to be remedied with another cementing. Edens Syndicate is now in what looks like a good part of the field and should make a 400 or 500-barrel well.

Wells at Huntington Beach seem to have the power to increase their production at will. The Miley-Keck Oil Company's well has been producing quietly for a month or more at 400 barrels. Last Monday it doubled its production and is now flowing steadily 800 barrels daily under a pressure of 400 pounds. E. J. Miley No. 1, the sensation of the field a few weks ago, has dropped from 500 to 300 barrels.

TAKES OVER WELL.

The Huntington-Pacific has taken over Huntington Central No. 2 and will complete the well on a royalty basis. Wigle-McBride Drilling Company has taken the contract from the Huntington Pacific to put the well in production condition. Standing with water in the hole for about eight months, some difficulty is expected in getting the hole in condition. Drilling on iron and junk is now under way at 3132.

Huntington Beach production is now a matter of pride. During the past month the daily output of the field increased 30,000 barrels over that of the previous month. Huntington Beach production is running close to 250,000 barrels a month.

According to the present line-up, the Crest Oil Company should be the next producing company on Signal Hill.

Drilling at a depth of almost a mile, the Standard Oil Company's Bixby, No. 1, is not showing any indications of oil and probably will be abandoned soon.

On properties adjacent to the Torrance holdings, the Standard has made locations for three new wells. The locations are listed as Sylvester No. 1, Long Beach Trust and Savings' Bank No. 1, and Lomita Land and Water Company No. 1. It is understood that these new wells are not being started on the strength of the Torrance well's showing, but because of the fact that the Standard has held these properties for some time and is under obligations to develop three of them.

It will be ten days or two weeks before the Shell Company will increase Signal Hill production. Some half dozen wells are near production, but are held up with cementing, recementing and water tests that will prevent them from coming into production short of ten days. Horsch No. 1 is cleaning out at 2700 feet and probably will be the Shell Company's next producing well.

Ten days must elapse before the Sandburg Petroleum Company can make preparations for a producer. No. 1 was recemented a few days ago and is scheduled to stand ten days before a third water test is made.

Standard Oil success at Richfield has become such a regular thing that little attention is paid to the company's development work, unless a 2000 or 3000-barrel well is brought in. Kraemer 2-15, completed at 4260 feet, started flowing late last week at 2000 barrels.

The Placentia-Pacific failed to get a commercial producer at 3800 feet and will drill deeper. Battling with water for almost two months, the Placentia-Pacific succeeded in shutting it off and hoped to go on into production. On account of having so much trouble with water, it is the opinion of some that part of the producing oil sands might have been cemented off. The Placentia-Pacific plans to go ahead, drill deeper and get into the deep oil sands that have made the Standard's Kraemer No. 2 famous.

The Whitley Oil Company doubled the production of its No. 5 by deepening from 2265 to 2565. At 2265 No. 5 went on the beam at 100 barrels, but did not hold up. The 300 feet of new hole more than doubled the production and the well is standing up nicely.

The Union Oil Company has two wells drilling at Santa Fe Springs. Meyer No. 4 is close to 4300 and No. 5 to 4700. Neither of these wells are showing any oil indications as yet.

At Montebello one of the most important deals in oil lands and holdings took place when the Comanche Oil and Gas Company took over the properties of the La Merced Oil Company. It is the intention of the Comanche Company to drill No. 1 (Calkins) into the deep sand that made the St. Helens Petroleum's Eggleston famous. No. 2 (Manly) is to be put on production at once at its present depth of 2700.

WHEAT TRADERS AWAIT REPORT.

Little Effect on Market is Anticipated.

Grain is in Show Windows, Not on Farms.

Corn Prices Low; Slight Hope of an Advance.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—The wheat trade awaits the official announcement of the farm reserves on October 1 from the Department of Agriculture at Washington, which is expected some time Monday. There is much confusion over an estimate put out by the Indiana representative of the government. Last year the trade was unduly alarmed, because the figures of farm stocks at this time had never been previously announced, and being a new feature, the trade was taken considerably by surprise.

Many traders regard the report as of little importance, and say it should not affect the market to any extent, regardless of the showing. The only difference between this year and last is that the present wheat crop is 46,000,000 bushels smaller, the carry-over is lighter, prices are around $1 lower, and the public is not in the market to any extent.

EXPORTS HAVE BEEN LARGE.

A larger percentage of the wheat crop has been exported from this year's harvest and more has been moved into the visible supply, so that the wheat is in the show windows instead of being on the farms, as it is of more advantage to the trade to have the bulk of the supplies visible than invisible.

With a crop of 741,000,000 bushels and a carry-over, including flour, there is a total supply of 866,000,000 bushels for the season. Exports from July to September 30 are estimated at 130,000,000 bushels and consumption for the same period at 260,000,000 bushels, suggesting 606,000,000 bushels remaining in the country in all positions, including flour, compared with 737,000,000 bushels compiled on the same basis last year, although 55,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat were imported before the end of last season, thereby increasing the total supply available.

The wheat market is in shape for an advance with any material increase in the outside trade, but it may take a great deal of professional buying to advance and maintain prices at a level of 10 cents above the present, although it would be for the best interests of the country were all grain values to be advanced and held 5 to 10 cents higher than Saturday's close.

The Canadian movement keeps up at the expected rate, and 9691 cars of wheat were received last week, compared with 6160 cars the previous week and 6254 cars last year. Minneapolis and Duluth received 5189 cars, compared with 5072 cars the previous week and 4514 cars last year. Southwestern receipts were the smallest in weeks.

Increasing reports are coming in from Illinois and Iowa, particularly the latter State, and Nebraska, that corn prices are so low that farmers get practically nothing for their year's work and that it is cheaper to burn corn than coal. Prices are at a level where it is not believed that there is much profit to be made by selling short, yet conditions are such that it takes a great deal of courage for an investor or professional speculator to buy heavily, as they get the corn largely from hedgers.

Fully 4,000,000 bushels of hedges were put into the market last week, yet in the face of this and the prospect of an increase in local and visible stocks for the week, prices closed practically the same as a week ago after selling at the lowest prices of the season so far.

WIFE'S THROAT CUT BY WEALTHY BROKER.

CHICAGOAN HAD BEEN DRINKING MOONSHINE: WOMAN MAY LIVE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Alexander Stuart Ross, wealthy bond broker, tonight cut his wife's throat during a quarrel in his room at the Congress Hotel over a $4000 check. Ross had been drinking moonshine.

Mrs. Ross ran from the room and down the hallway, falling to the floor near an elevator shaft. A maid near by telephoned the police. At St. Luke's Hospital it was said Mrs. Ross may live.

The husband, taken to the Harrison-Street Station, spoke freely of the incident. He had been quarreling with his wife for several months over his drinking and other matters.

"She knew I had just completed a deal in Texas granite lands," Ross declared. "I had a check for $4000. I offered all but $800 to her. She wanted the check.

"We had an argument there in the room. I wouldn't give the check to her. She went into the bathroom and got a razor. She is a big woman. She threatened to kill me.

"I was drunk and sleepy. I reclined on the bed, but she wouldn't let me sleep. I took the razor away from her and put it under my pillow. She recovered it and threatened me again.

"I grew angry. I got up and hit her. She fell on the floor—I got the razor."

"And, while she lay there on the floor, you slashed her throat with the razor?" he was asked.

"That's the way it happened," he said.

BREAKS WITH PAVLOWA.

Former California Boy Will Not Appear as Partner of Noted Dancer in America This Year.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Oct. 16.—Hubert J. Stowittz, the young American who danced so well with Anna Pavlowa last year in New York, will not dance with her this year. The former California student is in Paris today, while the famed dancer is on the ocean bound for New York, where she will dance in November. Her partner this season will be Novikoff, who, it will be remembered, danced with her in 1911.

But the success of Novikoff in renewing professional acquaintance with Pavlowa means Mr. Stowittz' sorrow and regret. Joining Pavlowa's company in 1916, he had worked up, until last year, he appeared as her leading man at the Manhattan Opera House, and afterward came to Europe, appearing at the Trocadero in Paris and at Queen's Hall, where the engagement ended in July, when the whole company, according to Stowittz, went on vacation. He traveled through Central Europe always, he says, counting the days until he should sail back for more triumphs in the United States.

He arrived with all his baggage in Paris, August 26. Straightway, he recounts, he went to the Plaza Athenae Hotel, where he was to meet Pavlowa, only to find that Pavlowa was in London. But her husband, M. Dandre, was at the Plaza and told Stowittz, so Stowittz says, that it would not do him the slightest good to see Pavlowa because the dancer was through with him and was going sail with another dancing partner.

Stowittz says that, having only a verbal contract, he saw he was really through.

The youthful Californian, so far away from home, recalled wistfully that the last dance he danced with Pavlowa was the Bacchanale, at Queen's Hall, which he said was the last dance Pavlowa performed with Mordkin before breaking off with him. Stowittz blames his trouble on exactly the same circumstances, he says, that caused Mordkin's difficulties.

"Look," he said, lifting a big scrap book from beneath his arms and showing numberless published pictures and articles about him.

"Pavlowa can't stand that. I was too good. I had too much success. She only wants second-raters with her and so she fired me.

"Well, I shall never starve. I have so many offers I am puzzled to decide which one to take. Perhaps I shall dance at the opera with Ida Rubenstein and Pavlowa can have all the spotlight over there."

LOCAL PLANT TURNS OUT "MASTERPIECES."

HUGE MILL AND CRUSHER HAVE CAPACITY OF 300 TONS OR ORE DAILY.

The Llewellyn Iron Works of this city has just completed one of the latest improved and probably the only all-steel Ball mill and also solid steel Blake crusher ever turned out by any plant in the West. These machines are capable of over 300 tons of ore daily and are especially built for the Arizona Copper Company, with mines located a few miles east of Parker, Ariz.

The Ball mill weighs approximately thirty tons, while the rock crusher weighs approxiately twenty tons. The latest and best machinery is being installed at the mine, it is said, and the balance of the first unit of what will eventually be a 5000-ton daily capacity plant will be completed as rapidly as possible.

T. H. Carrigan, manager and one of the principal owners of the mine, will leave today with a corps of assistants to push the mine work as fast as possible. This company has been many years developing this mine and has enough high-grade carbonate and oxide ore to keep a large plant going for a great number of years by merely quarrying the ore from the surface, it is said.

Engineers estimate that 40,000,000 tons of surface working are in sight before it will be necessary to prepare for the sulphide ores beneath, which, they say, will prove to be one of the largest bodies of ore in Arizona, the home of copper.

SLIGHT DECREASE IN FOOD PRICES.

AVERAGE DROP IN SEPTEMBER IS ONLY LITTLE OVER 1 PER CENT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—With an average decrease in food prices of 1.1 per cent in September, as compared with August of this year, the percentage of decreases ranging from 3 and 4 per cent in St. Paul, Chicago and other midwestern cities to less than 1 per cent in the East and South, and a decrease of from 29 to 21 per cent for the last year, the price of food is still 55 per cent above the average cost in 1913, according to estimates issued by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The average family expenditure for food increased slightly in ten cities and decreased in forty-one cities during the last month, the in[illegible] ranging from 2 per cent and the decreases from 4 per cent to less than five-tenths of 1 per cent.

For the year ending Sept. 15, 1921, the following decreases were shown: St. Paul, 28 per cent; Cleveland and Minneapolis, 27 per cent; Detroit and St. Louis, 26 per cent; Chicago, Indianapolis, Kansas City and Cincinnati, 25 per cent; New York and San Francisco, 23 per cent, and Washington, D. C., 21 per cent.

Prices of forty-three food articles reported to the bureau monthly by retail dealers in fifty-one large cities were used to strike an average price for each article. For the retail food index issued by the bureau these prices were rated according to the quantity of each article consumed in the average workingman's family.

THE MONEY SITUATION

because of the gradual liquidation of loans, is rapidly reaching the point where a surplus will be on hand throughout the various Banking Institutions in the Country. This condition has already existed nationally for some time, and this ever increasing surplus of funds must of necessity be put to work.

The attractive prices at which high grade securities are selling will attract surplus Banking Funds, buying of this character will tone up the market generally, and in our opinion reflect itself materially in the future prices of speculative investment stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

TRADE REVIVAL GRADUAL.

General Decline in Commodity Prices Has Visibly Terminated; Money Market Is Easy.

BY FRANKLIN K. SPRAGUE.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—We are now nearly at the time of the year when the character of the financial situation gets its real test along with the reaching of its normal maximum of activity by the autumn trade.

A year ago this test disclosed an extreme stringency of credit, a highly precarious condition in speculative finance and industry, and as a consequence a prolonged and violent decline of prices both in the great commodity markets and on the stock exchange. What we apparently have ahead of us now is a thoroughly readjusted speculative situation, a Federal reserve position which is as exceptionally strong as it was exceptionally weak a year ago, a comparatively easy money market and a gradual revival of trade activity. Not least important, both as a consequence and as a cause, the general decline in commodity prices has visibly terminated. It is now four months since the "index numbers" have reported a decline during any month.

TRADE REVIVAL SLOW.

But the advance is very slow; so is the resumption of trade activity, and the uncertain movement of the stock exchange since its first reflection of the improved conditions by the vigorous recovery of September indicates the uncertainties which still prevail. The markets are learning the familiar lesson that recuperation from a prolonged and violent period of forced liquidation must be gradual and tentative. They are learning two other things: First, that the consuming public is not yet ready to pay any great advance over recent retail prices—the cotton trade has proved this since the violent rise of the raw material—and, second, that Europe must also share in the recovery, as it has not yet done, before our own trade outlook clears up.

SIGN OF PROMISE.

The recovery in sterling, very unusual for an autumn season, is undoubtedly a sign of promise. But the foreign exchange situation in other directions is still far from satisfactory.

The German mark declined last week to a figure at which, reckoning on the old-fashioned basis, the price of gold at Berlin was 3400, or about eleven times as high as the highest quotations reached in our own inflation period of the sixties.

Needless to say, the ascribing of the fall in the mark to "speculation" is ridiculous; that is the old obsession of insisting that symptoms are causes. It is quite undeniable that if Germany had no foreign reparation payments to make her currency would not be so hopelessly depreciated; but there is surely some reason for asking how far the German government's deliberate policy in making these foreign payments has complicated the matter.

LONG MINE SHAFT WORK NEARS END.

Large Tunnel to Help in Development of Comstock Lode in Nevada.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VIRGINIA CITY (Nev.) Oct. 16.—The 10,000-foot haulage tunnel of the United Comstock Mines Company is more than 75 per cent completed and the first long section from the portal, about 2000 feet, was connected last week with the Knickerbocker shaft at a depth of 410 feet. The only section remaining to be driven is that between the Knickerbocker and Belcher shafts, 1800 feet, and headings are being driven from ends with the aid of power mucking machines, making more than eighteen feet headway daily. The tunnel will be completed by January 1, when foundations for the 2500-ton cyanide mill will have been finished, involving the use of 12,000 yards of concrete and covering an area of five acres.

After cutting through the Comstock lode below Gold Hill, crosscuts will be driven at short intervals into the lode. The plant in American Flat, including mill, shops, power-house, mess-house, lodging house, cottages, office and other buildings, will be the most elaborate ever constructed in Nevada.

In ground adjoining the United Comstock on the east, a large tonnage of excellent mill ore is being developed by the Comstock Silver Mining Company. The present work is being conducted in the Scheols group.

West of the United Comstock and adjoining the Trojan claim of that company, one of the notable early producers of rich ore, the Pittsburg Comstock is reopening the old main tunnel, in which good ore was exposed.

From the north end, on the Brunswick lode, to the Silver City section, the greatest activity is apparent and a number of sales of claims or groups have been recorded in the past few weeks.

The safe way to wash fine fabrics

Tests made by leading makers of delicate fabrics

WITH the greatly increased use of sheer fabrics and very delicate colors in the last few years, the manufacturers of silk materials and garments have met a serious problem in the way women laundered them.

Incorrect washing methods and the use of wrong soap products have ruined numberless garments, and brought the manufacturers many complaints.

Leading manufacturers of fine silks, woolens, and sheer fabrics, have recently made careful investigation of the laundering of their special products.

As a result of these investigations they unqualifiedly recommend Lux.

WOMAN ANGLER NEAR-CHAMPION.

Mrs. Keith Spalding Captures Second Largest Swordfish.

Fighter of Sea Battled for Hour, Twenty Minutes.

Four Hundred and Twenty-six Pounder is Gaffed.

BY ERNEST WINDLE

"A swordfish! In October?"

"Who got it—how big was it?"

"Mrs. Keith Spalding, wife of the president of the Catalina Tuna Club, from the cruiser Goodwill. Weight 426 pounds. Time 1 hour and 20 minutes. Regulation heavy tackle; boatman and gaffer, Capt. K. S. Walker."

The foregoing are the facts of the most successful battle that was ever staged in the angling game.

Men for years have spent thousands of dollars hunting broadbill swordfish in Catalina waters. They were mental and physical giants, men who have nerve; men who are speed demons on the race track, stunt fliers in aeroplanes, sure shots in the hunting field. Mrs. Spalding's achievement has staggered them all.

While the fish was benig weighed on the Tuna Club scales one Eastern angler who had been an Avalon visitor for three months, never said a word, but stood holding his own fishing tackle, hat in hand and his jaws half open. Apparently the least concerned about the matter was the fair angler herself.

"Yes, I am a little tired," she said, "but I have tried all summer to land a broadbill swordfish."

SECOND LARGEST.

The fish was brought to gaff near Cape Vincent and is the second largest of its kind to be caught by an angler. For eight years the late W. C. Boschen, the record-holder, fished daily for three months at a time to establish his record of 463 pounds. Mr. Boschen was a giant of a man physically. In comparison, Mrs. Spalding is of the average size physically, but possesses a keenness of touch and uses remarkable skill with the rod and reel.

A short time before Mrs. Spalding's monster broadbill grabbed the bait, Capt. Walker of the Goodwill had noted two other broadbills, but after various attempts to entice them to "eat," the two fish proved themselves uninterested. Suddenly the cruiser passed a third member of the family. It swirled its tail, twisted its head, then struck with its sword. Capt. Walker said that the first blow seemed to send the vibration down the line and that it was visibly recorded on the hands of the angler holding the rod.

MONSTER HOOKED.

Very calmly Mrs. Spalding paid out line from the reel, so that the mangled bait would remain almost in the same place, although the cruiser was moving along at a moderate speed. Out again came the ponderous sword and the fish, apparently satisfied that it had killed its food, slowly proceeded to swallow.

Finally the hook was lodged at the base of the thick, elongated snout, near the eye. Then commenced the spectacular battle.

A thousand feet away the swordfish came to the surface. Like a whip lash the line cracked and the water flew from it in little clouds of spray.

Mrs. Spalding continued to play her captive, now giving the headway and line, now reeling back a few inches of the "slack," or raising or lowering the rod so that she could work in the endurance test to the best advantage. Madly the enraged captive charged the boat. He missed the rudder blade only a few inches, the latter bad marksmanship probably being caused by the weight of the sagging line turning the head in the charge.

Then the fish sounded. It went straight down for five hundred feet. To touch the coaming of the boat with the tip of the rod would bring instantaneous disaster to the fishing tackle and the monster would escape, or the rod would break and thus disqualify the catch. Skillfully Mrs. Spalding manipulated the tackle.

"Better rest a few moments," advised Capt. Walker.

"And give the fish an opportunity to regain his energy?" Mrs. Spalding asked with a smile.

After each maddened rush, the angler cautiously led the fight so that the fish would swim toward the boat. Fast and furious was the action. Then the monster would plunge and sulk and roll and cause the rod and arms of the angler to vibrate and throb.

Repeatedly the long sword would chop at the twelve-foot wire leader and once the fish turned suddenly, doubled back on its course and slashed. If the twenty-four-thread line had been taut the broadbill would have severed it easily, but the sag in the line saved the situation for the angler.

For more than an hour the conflict had waged. Apparently exhausted, the fish stopped. It lay panting and dazed on the surface, almost 1000 feet away, and headed in the opposite direction.

BATTLE WON.

Gently the angler released the line tension and turned the fish toward th eboat. Several seconds it came on, quite peacefully, then broke out with a series of new tactics, rearing and cavorting like a monster marionette suspended from the clouds on a powerful spring. In and out of the water, making tremendous splashes, the broadbill struggled against the angler's efforts, but all the time it was working nearer and nearer to the boat.

Fifty feet away Capt. Walker reached for the gaff and quietly said to the angler, "lead it on this side, thank you."

Slowly the cruiser, which is about sixty-five feet in length, backed toward the swordfish, and more slowly the fish came to them on its slender tether. It swirled its monster tail, but the angler was prepared for the tactic and brought the head toward the tip of her rod. Yards diminished to feet and feet to inches until Capt. Walker, standing in the cockpit of the vessel, could grab the leader.

Not until the fish was securely held by the captain and crew of the Goodwill did Mrs. Spalding relax her hold on the rod.

ON LARCENY CHARGE.

Louis H. Laddy, a truck driver, was arrested at 848 South Wall streets yesterday morning on a charge of grand larceny on complaint of W. A. Roth, 1520 Bay street, who asserts that a Pierce-Arrow truck and seventy-seven lime barrels had been stolen from him by Laddy. Detective Sergeants Moore and Winn made the arrest.

PRAISES FOUNDER OF THEOSOPHY CULT.

Katherine Tingley in her lecture yesterday in Symphony Hall, Music-Art Studio Building, said in part:

"One of the greatest examples of courage, the greatest example that I know of in modern times, was Helena Petrovia Blavatsky, founder of the now world-wide Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society. The principles of theosophy which she restated to the western world are as old as the ages, though they had been lost sight of for many, many years, and although so old, they appeared as new, as very optimistic, very inspiring, for all the world's children to receive.

"There are many problems of life that are not understood, but on all of them theosophy throws a new light. And one thing which all can do and which is so much needed is to throw heart and soul in that line of action which Mme. Blavatsky so clearly indicated, to create a new spirit of brotherhood, to cultivate a sympathy superbly great, to find the courage of the soul that dares with a divine daring to do the things that are right for right's sake, for humanity's sake."

GIRL HURT WHEN CAR, AUTO COLLIDE.

Mrs. Jean Anderson, age 31, 4146 Wall street, suffered a fracture of the right ankle and severe lacerations as the result of a collision between a Los Angeles Railway car and an automobile in which she was riding early yesterday morning. The automobile, driven by H. L. Crosby of San Pedro, was badly wrecked. Mrs. Anderson was attended at the Receiving Hospital.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Pharmacist, Out of Work, Swallows Three Grains of Powdered Opium.

John Slobeck, 28 years of age, a pharmacist, attempted suicide at Sixth and Main streets early yesterday morning by swallowing three grains of powdered opium. At the Receiving Hospital, where he was taken for treatment, he told Police Surgeon Beggs that he was despondent over his failure to find employment. He was removed to the County Hospital in a serious condition.

BITTEN BY A SPIDER.

The historical spider associated with Bruce was a gentlemen compared to one that bit Phil Carr, 225 North Olive street, on the hand, he complained at the Receiving Hospital yesterday. A bad swelling on his hand was treated by hospital attendants.

The home owner is unconsciously a citizen, as soon as he has a home, and the solid element of our citizenship is built up of myriad of home folk.

Although the war crisis has passed, the world in general seems still perplexed and upset, and order will come out of chaos, not in one magic wave of a wand, but because the generation of young people for whose lives and liberty it was waged have the right ideals and impulses, and the will to make the most of the world and its possibilities for which their fathers and brothers struggled. In their home training these young people obtain their ideals, and have them moulded. Schools, churches, amusements—these all play an important part in the making of the youthful citizen, but after all, it is his actual environment which has the most to do with it, and a happy comfortable home is his first right.

During the war, and following it, conditions kept the prices of furniture, like everything else, unusually high, and many who would have made or refurnished homes then, postponed it until times should be more normal. That time has come now, and never has there been better chance to make comfortable homes for average people within reasonable expenditure as right now. Realizing this, and also the fact that people have become so accustomed to making things do until prices come down that they have neglected observing that prices have come down, the Southern California Retail Furniture Association has designated the week of October 16 to 23, inclusive, as Better Homes Week, for the purpose of urging interest in home furnishing, home decoration, home equipment, in short of rendering American homes beautiful, attractive and practical.

Ideas Back of Betterment to Homes Are Fine

There is under way this week a celebration unique in the annals of California, for under the auspices of the Retail Furniture Association all communities are celebrating Better Homes Week, and shops, manufactories, studios of decorating and furnishing are uniting in display of the best and latest fashions in furniture and home appointments.

The underlying spirit is that toward the establishment on firmer basis of better homes. It is not the pushing of fads or fancies of fashions, for fashion is essentially the outgrowth of necessities and gentilities of home making, but it is the stressing particularly the betterment of homes, much of which has been neglected in the hectic and restless period during and following the war.

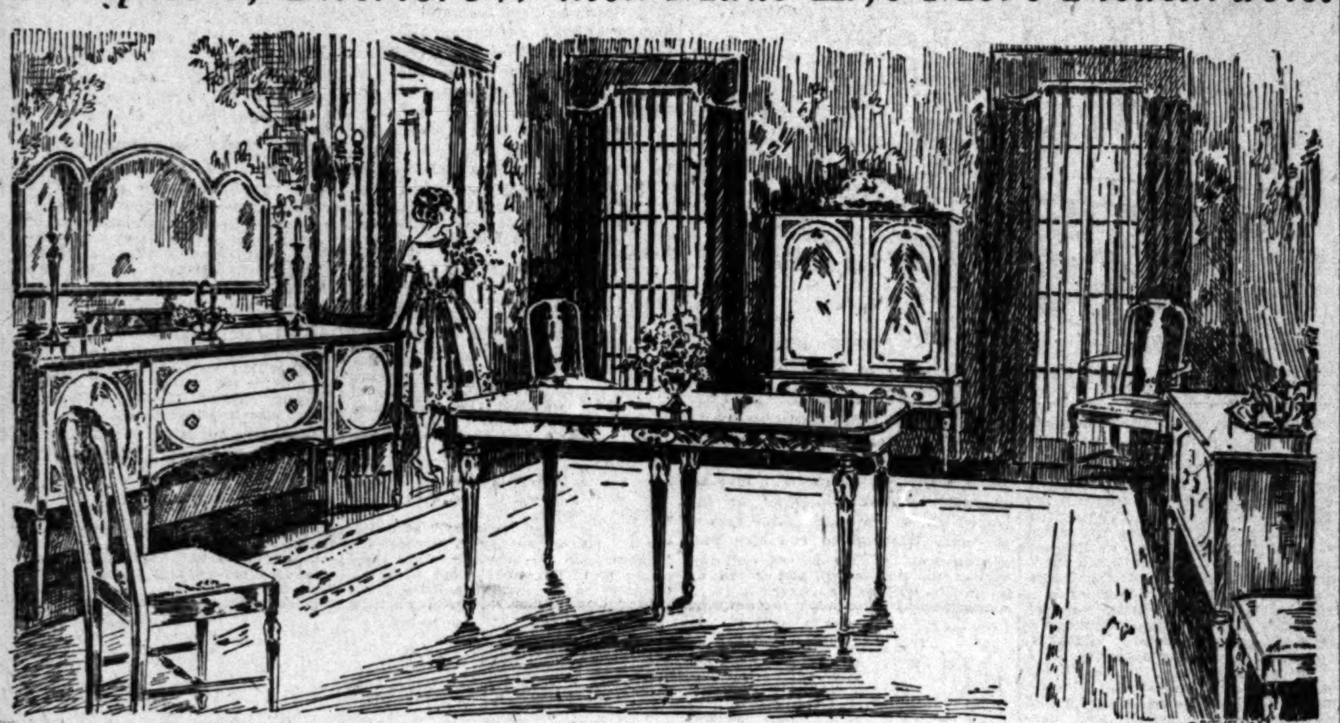
Glimpses of Interiors Which Make Life More Pleasurable.



FOR HARMONIOUS WHOLE.

Furniture to Fit the Climate and the Home Is Newest Aim of Los Angeles Dealers.

A "Better Homes" enthusiast was speaking the other day of the influence of climate on architecture and, dependently, on furnishings.

"Southern California," he said, "is responsible for two distinct types of homes—the Americanized East Indian bungalow and the more pretentious mission or Spanish class of structure. The latter is Moorish, rather than Spanish—and, in its original state, represents the domicile conception of the eastern races of biblical times. The Mohammedan conquerers of Christian Spain brought the idea of the flat-roofed, square, white plastered home, built of a sort of concrete, with them when they fought their way across from the coast of North Africa to Europe and, in the Spanish Peninsula, they succeeded in implanting firmly their racial Asiatic architecture. It is interesting to conjecture what might have been the result, along this line, if Charles Martel had not turned back the Moslem flood at the battle of Tours, in the eighth century, and so saved Central Europe to Christianity. There might have been no remaining examples of Norman or Gothic cathedrals and castles and civic structures to serve as guides and models in our modern study of building.

"Cortez and his conquistador followers were the pioneers in grafting the Moorish architecture of Spain on the Axtec roof tree, when they came from Spain to North America. All of Mexico shows the print of the Moor, in a building sense, modified and changed to meet the climatic requirements of the Western hemisphere. From Mexico the missionary padres brought north the conception of church and home building to which they had been accustomed and planted it, along with the teachings of religious faith, on the soil of Nueva Espana—California of the present.

"MISSION" FURNITURE.

"It is hardly fair to blame the good fathers for the atrocities of so-called "misison" furniture to which the households of the entire country were, for a decade or so, subjected and out of the contortions of which we have only recently struggled.

"In the original idea of squareness and simplicity of line of the mission type, there was much to commend and copy. The cheap, stained wood abominations, turned out by the wholesale by tasteless makers of chairs and tables, et. al., which came to masquerade under the name "mission" are no more to be confused with the first-made furniture of this style than are the machine-carved cumbrous chairs, upholstered in red and blue cotton plush, entitled to be known as "Morris" chairs because they follow, albeit afar, the principles of construction laid down, in the last century, by William Morris.

"It is a far cry from the chairs and settees, the buffets and tables of the mission style, as we remember these horrors twenty and ten years ago, to the type of furniture being installed today in homes of the Spanish style of architecture in California. Nevertheless, there may be traced a resemblance. The modern product shows what education—serious study—of the subject of home-fitting can accomplish; and this is as true of the modest nest as it is of the pretentious mansion. The man of limitless means can, of course, have the treasure marts of Europe fine-combed to secure him a tapestry or an iron grill that will fit, actually as well as in his imagination, into the places he has designed for such, in building his home. On the other hand, the creative industry of furniture-making and the fine art of interior decoration have both so progressed that the home-maker who has carefully invested his few thousands in a roof-tree of his own, doubly precious because he has saved and sacrificed to acquire it, and where he plans to shelter those he loves best, finds, when he delves into the subject, that he can have fittings harmonious in an architectural sense and ideal, from the standpoint of taste and comfort, for the price of unsuitable things. He realizes that, instead of jumbling Jacebean tables and Windsor chairs, with a Queen Anne highboy, into the dining-room of his new Spanish home, he may, by the exercise of a little patience and reliance upon the advice of the person who has made the choosing of correct furniture for a room a profession, seek out just the sort of refectory-like pieces that belong in this special environment.

FOR THE BUNGALOW.

"The second type of architecture identified with Southern California—many people place it first in relative importance—is the bungalow. It is trite to say this style of one-story, many-windowed building, deep of veranda and wide of eaves, is an adaptation of the wooden structure of British India and of tropical countries in general. As exemplified in this country it is a sort of hybrid of the real bungalow and the cottage, and it is capable of as many variations as an overworked musical theme.

"A discussion of the relative merits of the bungalow as the ideal small home is not germane to a talk on suitability in home furnishings. The pertinent fact is that the bungalow has developed and is, perhaps, responsible for a type of furniture that fulfills every requirement of beauty and service and that may be purchased on a sliding scale of cost which increases, tenfold, its availability.

"I refer to the painted furniture, a modern reproduction of the 'peasant' pieces in use through many centuries in Euroean houses of the humbler sort. In its present glorified form the 'peasant' furniture is likely to be anything rather than humble—some of the de luxe sets for bedrooms and breakfast rooms, in their decoration, carry the work of high-priced designers and run into large figures in price. The flexibility of its cost, however, is one of the first recommendations for this sort of furniture. A man who is fitting up a home can pay as little or as much as his purse will allow and ofttimes he will achieve the same result artistically with the least expensive painted pieces as with the most costly. The outlines of this type of furniture are the same practically in all grades and increased price comes with ornateness of decoration. Happiness in the final effect is obtained, as Sir Joshua Reynolds expressed it in his famous reply, 'by mixing colors with brains, sir.'"

UNSEEN FOUNDATIONS AN AID TO PLANTING.

The absence of visible foundations in a house does much to tie it to the ground and, consequently, makes easier the planting arrangements.

Southern California landscape and shrubbery lend themselves admirably to such an arrangement.

FOR TEA TIME.

This muffin stand has graceful lines.

IRON GRILLS MATCH WITH WARM SKIES.

Scroll Work in Harmony With Appearance and Old Southland Traditions.

One expects to hear the strum of guitar, or see a red rose tossed from between the iron scroll-work of the window set in the thick wall, or at least to hear the tinkle of a fountain and low laughter. The blue of sky and gold of sun of Southern California, the stately palms and graceful pepper trees are fit setting for these Spanish homes, which seem peculiarly to belong and the adaptation of this type is giving this locality a distincticve style in architecture all its own.

Sometimes such a home fairly flaunts its Latin verve, and when entered, proves to be disappointingly commonplace and purely American in its interior arrangement and furnishings. A visit to the third floor of one of the big local home-furnishing stores, however, intrigues with such a glimpse of a Spanish garden and living room that one is tempted, indeed, to proclaim aloud the triumphant tale that here is the suggestion waited for, and the ideas may be transplanted bodily.

The present-day vogue of Spanish and Italian furniture is world-wide. It is interesting to trace the causes for such a trend, world politics and national sympathies molding much of it, and the revival of former periods of furniture in alternate seasons forms an interesting cycle which is really as logical as the causes and effects, which affect various parts of the world themselves.

In the Spanish room mentioned, the walls are especially interesting, being treated with a rough plaster effect suggestive of the antique grime of years though not of dirt. Against this rough interior the massive fireplace and mantel, the richly decorated chairs and tables, the polychrome and iron mirror and console shine like jewels; torcheres of ornamental iron, with ruby-colored lanterns, and antique mica and parchment-shaded candelabra lend a soft glow to the exquisite objects furnishing the room. The mirror shows a modern adaptation of heraldic design; a seventeenth century tapestry hangs like an old masterpiece on the rough wall; antique walnut, in the octagon table, and massive chairs show touches of polychrome, while the velvet folds of draperies glow against the ornamented iron grill and latticed casement.

NEEDED ACCESSORY.

The most comfortable corner of the reading room is incomplete without a reading lamp. Choose one that is simple in design, yet pleasing to look upon, and you have chosen a charming accessory to the restful chair.

LIGHTING PLANS EASILY CHANGED.

Fixtures May be Readily Moved When Rooms Are Rearranged

Every day there are notifications through magazines, papers and announcements sent broadcast by firms, of improvements and developments in lighting schemes and the home-maker who keeps up with these improvements has the advantage of the one whose ideas are fixed, and, who, having installed lights, considers the question closed. Imagine the joy of being able to change the lighting scheme as often as one wishes! There are now obtainable plugs which may be installed wherever one wants light—either in new buildings or old—the fixtures may be moved about when the room is rearranged, changed for others when one redecorates, and changed about as easily as pictures and ornaments.

Possibilities of Wood Floors Are Shown Numerous

Though we have grown accustomed to thinking that, for warmth and pattern in their color effects, our living-room floors must depend upon rugs, it is true that the possibilities of wood should not be overlooked.

When the inlays are wisely chosen for tone, design and grain, it is possible to achieve a floor which, with its arrangement of dark and light, is a delightful fulfillment of every decorative demand.

Conveniences of Today Looked at as Necessities.

Women of today look upon conveniences as necessities, but they should insist that these improvements have one paramount advantage—that of simplicity.

Electric switches, for instance, should work so that the lightest touch operates them, and they, like other modern appliances, should be chosen for their sightliness as well as their convenience.

HARMONY HELPS HOME MAKING.

Character of Builders Shown in Arrangement.

Appropriate Furnishings Form Great Part.

Should be in Keeping With Style of Architecture.

Oh, what a charming home!

How often we hear this expression, and when we do, we realize that individual creation is the right of every soul, and to develop a home harmonious is to help make life worth while. Frank Alvah Parsons tells us that—

A house is the normal expression of one's intellectual concept of fitness, and his aesthetic ideal of what is beautiful. There are four reasons why a home should be useful and beautiful:

1. It is the resting place from the busy world.
2. Peace of mind comes through harmonious environment.
3. It is the place where the child develops his character.
4. It is the service and responsibility we owe to the community to set a standard for taste.

What do we mean by taste? Taste is the appreciation of things beautiful, giving an expression of harmony.

PLEASING ENSEMBLE.

As harmony in the composition of music is developed through a conscious understanding of sound tone which registers in melody on the ear so the individual who would develop a symphony in environment must have a conscious knowledge of color and an appreciation of taste through the realms of form, balance and atmosphere, thus creating for the eye a useful and pleasing ensemble.

When we have reached that place, we see beauty everywhere, in the sunset, a tree, a flower, architecture, the art in painting and sculpture and a flood of thought comes to us in the enjoyment of an oriental rug, or the beauty in form and line of a piece of furniture; then it is that we know and it is not possible to live with that which is not artistic and lovely.

How like people homes are. Some are quaint and restful, others are austere and stilted; some are shabby, others garish, and some are simple and beautiful and reveal a homey and sunny atmosphere that is expressive of thought and love.

APPROPRIATE FURNISHINGS.

Friendly relationship between architecture and interior decoration will often serve as a guide to the selection of appropriate furnishings and objects of art, thus if we have a house that is architecturally Italian infuse into it the spirit of the Renaissance by using rich textiles and tapestries as draperies and wall coverings, splendidly carved chests, tables, chairs, and consoles, with free use of wrought iron and marble, but if the home be colonial, carry into its rooms enough colonial types to intuitively feel that style by using, say in the living-room hooked or round rag rugs, chintz, figured linen, or rep draperies with ruffled muslin curtains, Windsor chairs, gate-leg tables, a spinet desk, Martha Washington cabinet, and in at least one sleeping-room a poster bed, highboy, etc., and in the hall a colonial console and mir-

MUSIC MUST BE COUNTED IN SCHEME.

Home Planning Incomplete Which Leaves No Corner to Devote to Instruments.

No longer a luxury, but the right of every home, music has come to be an integral part of the life of the family, and in the planning of the furnishings of the circle, it must be counted a most important item.

It is no longer a matter of supposition what direction the rapidly increasing taste for good music will take. The family wants a piano, for mother plays a little—and the youngsters must all "take" lessons; and in the meantime, a phonograph of some standard make is indispensable. From the cradle to the grave—from the lullabies of babyhood through school and college and love song days, music is intimately associated with the human race and its joys and sorrows, and the placing of the best in music in the home through this popular medium has given inestimable pleasure and comfort to man.

Here is the key to memory—the means by which grandfather turns back the hands of time, and it is around this handsome piece of furniture that the family gathers for a quiet hour, and also the young folk enjoy an evening of dancing and gaiety by the same means.

The improvement in the tonal qualities of the phonograph has not been more marked, wonderful as it is, than that of the appearance of the instrument itself in the past few years, and it may be obtained in styles dignified, simple, ornate and handsome to match the general style of the room.

Whether the piano be the cottage upright, the baby grand or the magnificent grand which is the ultimate dream of the musician, it may be found in style and finish which makes it a beautiful addition to the room as well as a distinct joy to the household through its mission, and in the quest for better homes, these music necessities are not overlooked.

Lawn Furniture Now Developing Many New Lines

Here in the sunny Southland, where so many happy golden hours may be spent out of doors, garden, lawn and porch furniture are almost as much a necessity as living-room things, and the enterprising dealers are continually offering new effects in old stand-bys, which are a joy to behold, as well as a comfort to have for use.

The low, squatty effects seem especially popular now, and the gayly-painted schemes give a picturesque touch of peasantry to outdoor objects. Peeled cane and that enameled brilliant color before weaving vies with quaint shapes which have an antique glazed finish. Philippine grass pieces, with the tall, graceful backs are always good; the combination of cane and wood is popular, and imported illuminated cane is stunning. Slender sets developed in wrought iron, much of it ornamented with polychromed iron blossoms and leaves, is particularly appropriate on the emerald terraces for autumn gatherings, and these have the added virtue of being impervious to changeable weather conditions.

WONDERS ARE WORKED BY ELECTRICAL DEVICES.

Equipment for Cooking, Washing, Sewing and Cleaning Removes Drudgery of Housewife.

The biggest and the oldest and most honorable profession in the whole world is that of homemaking, erroneously called housekeeping by the average person. There are, in our country alone, more than 22,000,000 homes, and upon their management and operation depends the success or failure of every other business in the land.

That's a broad statement, but it's true—so true, and obvious, in fact, that like many profound truths it is almost unrecognized by the average person, and there is no time like this very week, which was organized primarily to emphasize the possibilities of those very 22,000,000 homes and their success, to recognize the importance of the profession.

NATURE'S ANTIDOTE.

Human intelligence is nature's antidote for drudgery, says the thinker. The economizing of woman's work is the biggest question of the day, and more progress has been along that line in the past ten years than in any other direction. Yet many women have drudged so long that they haven't raised their eyes high enough to catch the vision, and see the results.

There is really no excuse for much of the traditional handwork and discomforts associated with housekeeping—let us call it that—and women have slouched long enough behind the excuse of "woman's work is never done."

There are billions of capital involved in housekeeping. The investment in things which make it lighter, easier, which give more time for other things than merely cleaning up, and the getting of meals, is a business proposition, not one of sentiment, and each home should seriously consider what it has done, and plans to do, in making housekeeping as business-like and labor and time-saving as it may be.

SOUTHLAND'S ADVANTAGE.

Southern California offers more advantages in electric helps at a cost within the reach of all than any other part of our country. Power is such that one's whole house may be run by wire, at a tremendous saving of energy and fatigue, and the cost is so negligible that women, when they awaken to this fact, wonder why they've waited so long to arrive at this conclusion.

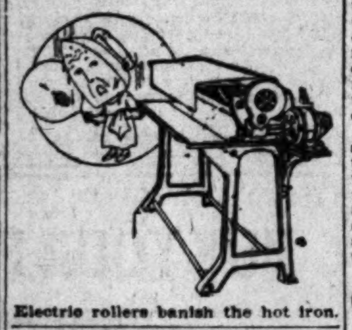
Some months ago the electrical dealers united in establishing a model house in Los Angeles, wherein they might demonstrate the practicability of electric housekeeping, and literally thousands have visited, or read of it, and adopted many if not all of the features of this place.

In the kitchen, the hub of the home which has to be considered, whether sun parlors or nurseries exist or not—for man must eat, to paraphrase the ancient man—there are four kinds of work; food to be prepared, cooked, served and things to be cleaned up afterwards. And oh, the wasted effort which is committed in thy name!

To promote production in the kitchen, of course, releases mother for other things—household tasks, sewing, calling, shopping, reading and recreation, or, if she be of the earning contingency, with a career 'n everything, time for her real work.

NOBODY'S WORK.

Kitchen work is nobody's work.



Electric rollers banish the hot iron.

One doesn't really have a vocation for it. One may have a talent and take a delight in planning and preparing and serving meals, nourishing one's family, and making pennies stretch, but nobody in this world has a talent for mere potato peeling, dishwashing, and except as a means to an end, nobody has any right to put time on such things. So, if judicious planning and investment do away with the drudgery of kitchen and back porch work, no one has the right to spend precious hours and strength toiling over them. Now!

You cannot see your way clear to install an electric kitchen right this very minute? My dear madam, you may acquire it piece by piece, without extravagance or inconvenience. Money saved thus on food wastage, let us say, is a gain, and may be applied, in a circle, on more food, and more equipment for its handling. Electric cooking certainly conserves fuel, food, flavor, etc. With an electric cooker one does not have "lucky" or "unlucky" baking days, nor need one guess at oven heat. One sets the wheel for three, four or five hours' cooking—goes merrily about one's business, and lo, the faithful servant does the work.

There are three ways to cook by wire—the electric range, the electric fireless cooker and the grill adjuncts to other ways. The first is perfect, for the insulated oven stores up heat, with its automatic cut-off and perfect cooking of the whole meal is obtained with full or medium heat, no less of flavor, practically no shrinkage, everything clean and cool. The fireless cooker attached is likewise a perfect helper and its simplicity recommends it strongly, while the grill, toaster, percolator and separate pieces make the cooking undoubtedly quicker, cleaner, easier and pleasanter.

The ceiling exhaust fan does away with odors and smoke; the electric dishwasher handles the utensils and crockery quickly, easily and certainly more sanitarily than human hands could. There are family-size washers on the market and surprisingly reasonable in cost.

BANISHES ICE MAN.

The electric refrigerator banishes the ice-man with his dripping burden and muddy feet and preserves food by refrigerating in a dry atmosphere instead of that engendered by melting ice. The electric motor applied to egg-beater, bread-mixer, mayonnaise whip, etc., is a small servant noiseless, inexpensive, never tired, and housework loses its cloud anent the roughening of white hands of the little bride as she delves deeper into the mysteries of devices for lightening her labor of love.

The washing of clothes of course, logically, calls for the electric washer. The various types and sizes may be chosen with an eye to the size of the family, as well as the purse, and mother may rest in the couch hammock, planning the kiddies' school clothes, while this efficient servant cleanses the clothes more quickly and satisfactorily than ever Mammy or yellow Chong could do.

The electric iron awaits their return from the clothes line, and further reduces the hours of mother's incarceration to a minimum, while reducing the wear on her strength and nerves out-of-sight, since all it asks is direction, while it smoothes linens, rompers and snowy piles of clothing.

DANITY GARMENTS.

Mother carries her electric sewing machine into the most convenient place for her work, and turns out dainty garments with the least expenditure of energy. Mother guides the vacuum cleaner over the floor along the trail of little play-bound feet, with a smile instead of a sigh for dirt, and ravellings, bane of her mother's existence, and wots that the cleaning problem, summer or winter, is solved, without dust or convenience; wots that there will be negligible wear and tear on her rugs, draperies and mattresses since they may be made sweet and sanitary with this nozzle and brush instead of being hauled outside and beaten.

Woman's emancipation! Nay, standard bearers of the past generation, mother doesn't care about wearing trousers, and trudging forward with a cry for woman's rights. She has them at hand—her rights, and privileges, with the turn of a switch, and the pressure of a button!

Press the button and troubles vanish.

White Coal Makes Cooking a Pleasure.

Electric ranges make the heat and half the work of preparing a meal only an unpleasant recollection.

ORGAN IN HOME POPULAR.

More and more popular is the idea of the organ in the home. The same money one might put into an expensive automobile may be invested in a residence pipe organ, perfectly adapted to the size and arrangement of the house, and the joy of its possession and thrill of its music will never diminish.

COLORS OF FURNITURE IMPORTANT.

Upholstering Cloth and Draperies Must Go With Period of Big Pieces.

Just as in clothing there are seasonable fashions in color, so are there in furniture, and while such vogues are not so capricious in the latter as in the former, still the trend is there, and the successful home-maker keeps abreast with it through study of new arrivals in local shops, and in the pages of her magazine.

The Italian and Spanish trend in furniture, a revival which is world-wide, has given us colors which lend themselves to the peculiar richness of old-world effects.

In upholsteries, as in colors directly applied to the decorated and ornamented pieces themselves, one finds all shades of prune, rich purples and soft lavenders, seeming particularly appropriate for the autumnal hours which are upon us. Jade in all its clear appeal, with its hint of summer gone by and memories of vernal seasons, is echoed in the new things, while orange and henna enliven the more somber by their richness.

The word "jazz," which has been so widely used in describing conditions of today all the way from music to houses, may echo in some of the color schemes one sees in shops, but these brilliant colors, combined with the prevalent black, make for cheer and joyousness, which enliven rooms newly become the gathering place after the scattered activities of summer.

Candlesticks, mirrors, furniture, pottery—everywhere we see polychrome effects, and when the walls which form their background are unobtrusive in color and design as they should be, the effect is charming, for neutral wall tints, cunningly chosen for their reposeful qualities, are a subtle triumph for the home-maker.

SPREADING OF BEAUTY MAIN AIMS.

Furniture Experts Strive to Create Environment to Make for Happiness.

J. O. Smith, secretary and general manager of the Birch-Smith Furniture Company, in speaking of Furniture Fashion Week and the growth and advancement of the industry, declared the Furniture Fashion Week is another indication of the desire of the men and women engaged in the furniture business to help create beautiful homes. It is a forerunner of the extensive preparation that is being made jointly by retailers and manufacturers throughout the United States to bring prominently to the front the line of business that has so vital a part in the homes of the nation.

Mr. Smith said that the people upon whom rests the responsibility of equipping the thousands of homes in Los Angeles and environs are men and women of the highest integrity and standing and that every furniture store, both large and small, devoted exclusively to the furniture business in Los Angeles, is worthy of the confidence that the public has given them.

The purpose and objective of the men and women in the furniture business is not merely to sell furniture, but to help create environments that will lend aid to the making of happier homes.

"The furniture industry," said Mr. Smith, "is in reality a profession. It demands constant thought and study and the entire time of those engaged in it. The furniture business cannot successfully be operated as a department of a hardware store—it is on a higher plane—it is worthy of more consideration. The buyers for the retail furniture stores must be at least a year in advance of the architecture of the hour.

This means constant study to keep abreast of the best thought and development of architecture, and to study its trend in its relation to better homes. Furniture is an investment which serves more than as just an article of utility—it is creative of appreciation of art, refinement, happiness and hospitality."

"Our own success," said Mr. Smith, "is due to our foresight in anticipating the needs that are coming. We attribute much of our success to the fact that we personally select all our merchandise and carry only standard makes, specializing in nationally advertised goods. It is our experience that dependable merchandise brings and holds our customers."

BRAIDED RUGS ARE CHARMING.

Adapted to Cottages so Popular in the Vicinity of Los Angeles.

Braided rugs are charming in the cottages of colonial type so popular around Los Angeles. They combine charm, quaintness and simple beauty, and may be chosen to harmonize with the other decorations, in rich deep tones for dignified rooms, and in bright gay colors for those less formal. Local weavers will make them to suit your own particuar problems.

COSTUMERS SUGGESTED FOR GIFTS.

Little Servants Will Mean "Good-by to Lost Caps" for the Little Ones.

I rise to a point of costumers. Those slender stands holding outstretched arms on which one may hang his cat, coat and other belongings need a herald. Go into a hotel or cafe, and what a feeling of satisfaction overhelms one as he encounters such an object! Ready, efficient, unobstrusive, demanding little room, no care, never tired—it's time to recognize it out loud in this department of Better Homes.

I'm for the costumer! If Greenwich Village housekeepers use for a motto: "What is home without a can-opener?" then let the best home demand: "What is home without a costumer?" nay, what is home without several? Meet him in the hall, where there's no place for a hat and coat rack—or even banish him to the hall closet—there he is, and he guards the hat you hung on him that it may not be sat upon or crushed by other things being hung over it, and no one can get it by mistake, either.

His pegs admit of hangers, and one's coat or fur may rest in all its spic-and-spanness while one visits, secure in the knowledge that the lowly costumer is on the job.

Screen porches where one may sleep — they demand costumers. When one must disrobe and dart from the dressing-room to the porch bed, why throw your robe across the bed, when you scramble in? The costumer waits. It de-

Give a Thought to the Home During Furniture Fashion Week

DEDICATED TO BETTER HOMES

The "California" welcomes Furniture Fashion Week which starts today. It is an important part of the commendable movement for better homes that has been fostered and aided by the "California" for sixteen years.

This institution, now as always, is in thorough accord with any effort that will direct the public attention to the vast importance of beautifying and making more attractive the home circle.

During Furniture Fashion Week, let us give serious thought to the home. We are living in an age of outside attractions. Many diversions beckon with an alluring finger those who should seek recreation and entertainment within the family circle where true character is really formed.

To cultivate the love of home, so potent a factor in this molding of the great national character, it is important to create an atmosphere in which this love will blossom and thrive. To make the home attractive, cheerful, comfortable, livable—should be the aim of all who would develop this love of home life.

This does not necessarily imply expensive furnishings nor lavish display. Simplicity may be inviting; true art is ever enchanting. Ostentation does not create the attractive home, but rather it is the result of thoughtful planning.

At the "California" you will find men whose specialized knowledge is the result of a lifetime of devotion to the art of home furnishing. They will gladly help you plan.

While the "California" ever extends a cordial welcome to the public it is felt that Fashion Furniture Week affords an opportune time to emphasize this standing invitation and to announce that this will be "Open House Week" at the "California."

To properly observe Furniture Fashion Week very special displays of distinctive furniture pieces and artistic home furnishings have been arranged in the windows and on the floors. To those who wish to see what is really new in the art of home furnishing a visit to the "California" will prove most interesting. A cordial welcome awaits you.

Furniture Fashion Week

We who are studying and supplying the furniture needs of the people of California and the Southwest open wide our doors during the week of October 17-23.

We want this to be a heart-warming week—that you may know us—our aims—our accomplishments—

Not only to you of our Golden State and of the great Southwest do we extend a welcome, but also do we extend it to that ever-lengthening, ever-broadening Caravan of those from other sections of the United States who are coming here to live or who are sojourning with us.

The purpose and objective of those engaged in the Furniture business is not merely to sell furniture, but to create environment that will lend its aid to the making of happier homes.

In the Southland are many beautiful homes, of varied types of architecture, calling for furniture in keeping.

One of the most beautiful apartment homes we have furnished is the Baldwin Apartments, Franklyn Avenue, Hollywood. An example of the most elaborate and exquisite type of Moorish architecture and coloring in all the Southland—they call for unusual treatment in furnishings and furniture.

These apartments have just recently been completed and are undoubtedly one of the show places of the Southwest.

We are privileged to show glimpses of the interior and approach of one of these apartment homes.

ON COLLECTION OF ANTIQUES.

Each Man Can Become His Own Ancestor.

Tall Clock is Good Way to Start Purchases.

Need Not Depend on Handed-Down Furniture.

"Why should I consider posterity?" objected the man in the story, "What has posterity ever done for me?" . . . I fain would counsel him who reads to become a revered ancestor. Every family should have one, and if yours hasn't, or he's obscure, why start in remedying the lack this very day and you will be surprised at the amount of joy there is in the quest, and satisfaction in achieving same.

Of course, one inherits a name. One inherits noses, and dispositions, and violent predilections for certain types and tastes, and one is sometimes, alas, inordinately proud of having inherited a temper! Far be it from me to decry these inheritances, specially if they're red hair, and a talent for tennis rackets, 'n everything. Its the descending virtues I'm talking of, not those which have already descended.

A clock of this design adds to the appearance of a living-room or a long hall.

CLOCK FOR BEGINNING.

What a joy to own something beautiful that belonged to one's grandmother! Or something one's grandfather brought from the old country! Or something which came around the horn in '49. But alas, there's usually only two or three grandmothers to a family, and the same number of grandfathers, and their descendents scatter about so—and the legal heirs get the very thing you always coveted. There's not a thing to do, 'sfar as I can see, but start in being an ancestor one's self.

A tall clock is a dandy thing to begin with. You can get one that runs with weights, carefully reproduced from an antique style, and oh, the joy of it, standing with dignity in the corner, or in the hall, or on the landing where the stairs turn, ticking out the minutes, and announcing the hours in its mellow voice! Yea, a clock is a fine start in being an ancestor, and those who follow you will learn to love it with an intimacy not vouchsafed many pieces of furniture.

MAN'S CHAIR IS GOOD.

Then there's a chair—a substantial chair a man may find comfort in when he reads his paper, a regular man's sized chair, with wings, maybe, overstuffed, covered with hand-blocked linen in cheerful design, or in velour, or rep. Father's chair—and eventually, grandfather's chair—and so on. Eh?

A mahogany muffin stand is a good start for a mother, if she is a wee bit uncertain about how it will feel. One with three shelves, for use by the tea-wagon—or in any finish to match the sun-parlor fixings. An end table is good, too, one of odd shape, or just a regular one—and I have a friend who is embarking on a career of ancestorship via the book-end route. He gets 'em in brass, and in copper, and in carved wood, and in jade green, with oriental figures—you know—and he says he's going to enjoy 'em on all his tables to keep all his books in line, and then he's everlastingly going to hand 'em down to his descendents! I admire that man.

Even a smoking stand will do, if you want to be ancestoring often, and have to choose kind o' inexpensive things. Your son or his son—they will probably smoke, and if the filthy weed has gone the way of the Eighteenth Amendment, they'll probably like to stand it by the curio cabinet with the cocktail glasses, as a curious quaint old souvenir of the dear departed days of dissipation.

PERIOD THINGS.

Period things are always good. The Windsor chair is a thing to live with and learn to love, and if one yearns vainly for a colonial dame membership one may console herself with adding to the family treasures some very good copies of things one might have inherited if great-grandfather had only been in time; a Martha Washington sewing table which all women love, and can use world without end, a gate-leg table with its drop leaves, usable in dining-room, breakfast-room or living-room, a sturdy George Washington chair.

Mirrors are specially appropriate to add to one's possessions and joys in the home, with an eye to inheritanceship. Paneled mirrors for mantel-shelves, in graceful design, they seem to catch and reflect the actual traditions of a family, and console mirrors, gold frames, or painted, or carved, reflecting bowls of flowers and slender candle sticks—oh, who would regret a shadowy ancestor when he might start being one himself this very day?

Old pieces of severe design often reveal unexpected hiding places for treasure.

MAY USE MOTORS.

GASOLINE ENGINE DESIGNED TO CUT DOWN COSTS OF OPERATION.

The motor bus has evidently come to stay, and railroad men are wondering whether, if they work so well on highways, they may not do equally good service on existing rail lines. Short branch lines on which companies are compelled to provide passenger service at a loss because this service now means the use of a standard steam locomotive with its heavy train, should welcome, it would seem, this lighter and easier mode of conveyance. This is the point of view of an editorial writer in The Railroad Review (Chicago.) Light local passenger service, he points out, is undoubtedly the most expensive luxury in proportion to the returns that the railways can offer the public. Locomotives retained in this class of service are invariably old and decrepit, so that the cost of their maintenance usually runs high. Branch lines are seldom built for passenger traffic, but once constructed, passenger service is demanded and must be given even after the original freight prospect may have become exhausted. He continues:

"Faced with these discouraging circumstances in the operation of light passenger service, it has been galling to railway management to observe the motor truck and bus thriving on the very traffic that has caused the railways an actual loss. The most effective policy is to fight fire with fire. A very plausible remedy is suggested in the form of rail motor bus. Following closely in detail the main features that are responsible for the successful performance of the motor truck, it may be assumed a rail bus can be constructed which embodies the same elements of simplicity in construction, reliability in performance, flexibility in operation, light weight and low cost."

Elsewhere in the same issue a rail-motor bus and trailer built by a car company to meet just this emergency are described and illustrated. We are told that a railway company operating one of these motor vehicles has averaged as high as fourteen miles to the gallon of gasoline, a sufficient indication of what it can save in operating expenses. The car weighs approximately eleven thousand pounds, can be operated at a maximum speed of thirty miles per hour, and, when required, trailers may be used without materially decreasing the speed. [Literary Digest.

The public will be better protected if the authorities test the light heads in autos instead of the headlights on autos.—[Washington Post.

"PERIOD" HOBBY IS DEFENDED.

Specialist Says Interest is Broadening to Taste.

Often Leads to Real Studies of Historic Movements.

Has Been Stimulus to Great Artistic Improvement.

A furniture specialist who, without being of the single-track type of mind, yet takes a keen delight, after the manner of most specialists, in measuring progress, educational and artistic, in terms of his own craft, was speaking the other day on the subject of the "period" vogue in home decoration.

"There is no necessity," said this man, "for 'period' obsession, to drive home the truth that the idea of furnishing a room or several rooms of a home in pieces of historically consistent design has been the largest single factor in the cultivation of the taste of the average American home maker.

"Much fun has been poked at the period enthusiast over his struggles to feel his way to an artistic and correct setting for his daily living, and he has been the pole to hang jokes on equaling those directed against the aspiring builder of a new house of the 'Queen-Anne-front-Mary-Ann-back' sort.

Antique book ends.

"There is no disputing that the house builder and the house furnisher have both made mistakes—ludicrous ones, sometimes—but these very boggles have proved the boot tsraps by which the person of innate good taste, bound to improve straps by which the person of instinctive whispered was capable of improvement, has lifted himself to better things.

SUBJECT NEVER PALLS.

"A study of so-called 'period' furniture makes one in a broad sense a student of history, and, like all studies, the subject grows and grows as one progresses. It is trite to say that in the history of all the countries of the globe the character of the people is reflected in the home setting. If one is sufficiently reflective to be interested at all in chairs and tables and settees; in carpets or tapestries of a certain era, one will be likely to begin tracing the relationship between the carving and designs of these and the character and achievements of the people who lived with them and of whose daily life they were an integral part.

"There is a lot more to be said in favor of a leaning toward 'period' stuff in a home. If you are the head of a family how better can you foster in the minds of your children a desire to delve into history—a sense of the romance and the picturesqueness of it—than by surrounding them with pieces of furniture directly related in design to a certain era, and a certain country? How better can you cultivate imagination?

"A well-copied example of Gothic carving on the top of an old chair is capable of starting a train of thought that will lead through a long list of books to a study of life and conditions in medieval France. The lines of a Pompeiian bench or table may fan the flame of interest in Roman history at the beginning of the Christian era.

"The painted sides of an Italian cabinet are vivid enough in the light of explanation, interestingly given, to shed rays of romance over the entire period of the Renaissance, in the mind of a child whose subconscious taste has been cultivated by such surroundings.

"Best of all, it is when your 'period' stuff has a personal relation, as in the case of inherited colonial furniture or the real peasant-painted pieces which a few of us who had north European ancestors may be lucky enough to have willed to us. It means more than mere history ever can when you sit down to write a note at an age-dulled mahogany secretary that your great, great grandfather signed his receipts on, in his rambling house on the James River. Or if you can point to a Windsor chair of the bona-fide sort, innocent of nails, that came out of the Salem kitchen of some Puritan ancestress. Or a Queen Anne highboy that was originally shipped overseas from an English midshire to find a place in the upper hall of a Maryland country house.

"You are rich if you have one or two or several of such pieces, and you will find yourself, no matter how scornful is your professed attitude toward those individuals frankly bitten by the 'period' bug, glowing inwardly when your quaint chair or desk or chest is enthused over by the periodist. And you will find yourself ere long feeding your sense of pride of possession by commencing a still hunt for other examples of the furniture of the age and country of your nucleus. And you will wake up some morning to see in yourself a well-developed, fully rounded, entirely converted periodist."

Her Vocation.

"I hear your daughter is getting on famously."

"For a girl of 18 she is doing very well."

"What is it she is doing?"

Brilliant Harmonies of Sound and Form
—the supreme triumphs achieved in Sohmer Art Grand Pianos and Sonora Phonographs in Period Console Models

Sohmer Grand in Italian Renaissance Model

SOHMER Art Grand Period Models
give opportunity, heretofore denied the discriminating home-furnisher, of selecting a Grand Piano of recognized highest grade in full harmony with the style of furnishings in the home.

The ordinary type of grand piano, both in tone and in the architecture of the case, has always been an awkward and in-harmonious unit, out of key with practically all schemes of home furnishing and decorating. What should of all things be harmoniously beautiful in the home's furnishing assemblage has generally been a thing apart, frequently harsh in its glaring unfitness.

In these Art Grand Sohmer Period Designs, a sufficient range of selection will be available to fit all modern successful home decorating schemes —and at prices only slightly greater than those of the commonplace styles of grand pianos. Thus through the Sohmer, the grand piano has at last come into its own rightful heritage as a beautiful piece of furniture—and as an important decorative accessory in beautiful homes.

SONORA Period Console Models
The peculiar sweetness of the SONORA tone—so sensitively interpreting subtle shades of tenderness, vivacity, and dramatic emotion in the music it reproduces—makes this instrument seem, somehow, more definitely a thread in the golden warp of home than a less finely-natured phonograph could be. So the SONORA may fitly enter the drawing room, living room, or music room with confidence of one belonging—and the recently perfected Period Models have made this confidence assured.

There is, in no other make of phonograph, so wide a variety of period console styles as you will find in the SONORA. This house can supply SONORA Phonographs in Adam, Louis XV, Louis XVI, Italian Renaissance. Gothic, Jacobean, Hepplewhite and other true period model cases, at prices from $350 to $2500.

ror, a grandfather clock, and Windsor or rush-bottom chairs.

Without disturbing the colonial atmosphere, there can be added to these rooms such pieces of furniture as a fireside chair or davenport that will enhance the general comfort of the room.

STUDY EVERY ROOM.

Every room should be studied as to its exposure to the light that the color scheme may be developed to reflect or absorb the light as the case may be, and each room should have two major decorative ideas. First, that the scheme be in keeping with the utility of the room; second, that it blend in synthetic harmony with surrounding rooms.

Some rooms are essentially for rest and concentration, as bedrooms, libraries, and music rooms—these should have the decorations simple and restful with scheme in absorbing colors like mulberry, old blue, brown, or green. Ballrooms, sunparlor, breakfast-rooms, and covered patios should express the spirit of joy and gaiety, and the scheme should include reflective colors, pattern and design that will accord with this happy mood.

A living-room of all rooms in the home is the most important, and one writer says: "Furnishing a living-room is like starting out on a voyage of discovery."

This room should be furnished with thought for the need and comfort of each individual member of the family. Give to the master of the household a comfortable fireside chair, a table beside that chair on which he can place a paper, magazine, book, or any other things that he may wish there; give him his own reading lamp, and a comfortable stool in front of his chair.

WOMANLY CENTER.

Arrange a womanly center of interest for the mother by placing a St. Francis or other comfortable chair by a well-lighted window, on one side of which have a Martha Washington cabinet, and on the other side a little table on which she can have a lamp and her reading materials. It is nice to place a small foot stool in front of her chair, and hang pictures near by that bring out the spirit of her setting, as a Madonna, a Colonial Dame, etc.

A study table should be provided for the children, and an ample desk for the family's use. Have pictures and objects, few in number, but inspirational and worth while.

A dining-room should primarily express a spirit of cheer and hospitality, and be so decorated that it will be dignified yet joyous, and bring out in those about the festal board conversation that will radiate interest and happiness. One good scheme that will splendidly do this is to have a sand-colored wall, orange draperies, with sand-colored draw curtains, a Chinese rug with any dark furniture, sconces with sand, orange, and black shields, floral paintings in black background or suitable mirror.

The bedroom being a single unit, individuality can have its cherished fling, and any color scheme or type or furniture can be used that is appealing.

WALNUT IS RESTFUL.

Generally walnut or mahogany furniture is more restful than old ivory, and when there are a number of bedrooms, it is nice to have the furniture varied in color and style, as for instance, mahogany and walnut in one room, ivory in another, painted furniture in another, and possibly colonial or some other period type for another.

If there be children in the home, we must ever keep in mind that every object there is helping or retarding the character development of that child. He has a right to his own furniture in bedroom, living-room and sunroom, and to be able to receive impressions from beautiful things that will help formulate his life standards, for as one writer says, "Childhood shows the man, as morning shows the day."

And finally let utility, comfort and beauty be our guide in bringing about complete harmony in our decoration.

When comfort and beauty together are brought
By the hand of an artist a jewel is wrought.
A house is a home when cheer is let in;
A home is a paradise when hearts are akin.
Where love finds its way happiness reigns
And all the world sings through the joy it acclaims.

MIRROR FLIRTATION.

Restaurant Reflectors the Means of Many Friendships.

"I know why they fill the walls of these restaurants full of mirrors," said Sidney.

"So do I," said his friend Aleck. "For the same reason they put chewing gum boxes in the subway station. So's the flappers can fix their hair if any part of their ears should be showing."

"Not so," returned Sidney. "Watch me."

They entered a white porcelain restaurant, the walls of which were lined with mirrors that opened to the view a lengthy interminable line reflected restaurants.

They were seated a few minutes, and Aleck observed that Sidney was smiling cordially into space. There was no one near by except a flapper with an expressive back, the back being toward Aleck and Sidney.

"You act like a lunatic in the making," said Aleck. "What are you grinning at that iced cantaloupe sign for?"

"I'm not. I'm looking at the peach. Ain't she a bear."

Then Aleck, gazing in the direction he saw Sid's eyes were bent, looked in the mirror and was confronted by the gaze of the flapper with the expressive back. He saw that she also had an expressive face. She was returning Sid's grin with an extra measure.

"Many a friendship's been made through a restaurant looking-glass," observed Sid. "You don't mind eating alone, do you, Aleck? Excuse me."—[New York Sun.

Furniture Fashion Week

Creates Occasion for the Pre-Holiday Showing of Better Home Furnishings at Barker Bros.'

THE "BETTER HOMES" MOVEMENT has been participated in so enthusiastically by the home-makers of Los Angeles and the remainder of Southern California that, no longer content with following the example set by one's next-door neighbor, in the matter of furniture-selection, makers of homes are now alertly looking to see what is the newest and best offered to most completely interpret their ideals for a Better Home.

Barker Bros., the Largest Home-Furnishing Institution in the World, offer selections which require thirty-eight floors for their display, of virtually every line of Furniture and other Furnishings for the Home, each line comprising the newest, most exclusive modes—creations of master craftsmen in the art of making beautiful appointments for the home.

Select Gifts—This Week—for the Holiday Season

THIS week is the psychological time to resolve to make this Christmas a "Better Home" Christmas; and to make the careful, unhurried selection of the furniture-gifts which will make someone so happy later.

Barker Bros.' wonderfully comprehensive displays will supply you with many welcome inspirations for the giving of most desirable gifts.

Visitors Are Welcome from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.

OUR two model homes—which were recently re-furnished, offer an infinite amount of inspiration to the resourceful home-maker.

"MORNING-GLORY" Bedrooms—Pieces from the immense "Morning-Glory" Bedroom Suite have been arranged in ten settings, in as many different rooms, on Barker Bros.' Third Floor.

THE Gallery of Mirrors—It is much like a jewel box, that wonderful room at Barker Bros., where are hung lovely mirrors of all sorts, sizes and descriptions.

RODEZNO Collection of Antiques—One of the largest and finest collections of Antique Furniture, Brocades and Tapestries—the Rodezno collection—is on exhibition at Barker Bros.

OUTDOOR HEATING NOT IN FASHION.

Old Style Weather Strips Are Unsightly and Do Not Do the Work.

If one does not care to heat the great outdoors let him look to his weather strips. Those of old were of cloth, rubber or heavy paper, often pasted on the outside of our windows. Today they are in general metallic tubular strips, which, being fitted into complementary depressions in metal linings or window sashes, seal the openings which naturally occur between and around doors and windows and their frames.

PASTORS INDEXED.

Ohio Federation of Churches Has a Record of 5000 Ministers.

Ohio has more than 5000 Protestant ministers, 200 of whom may be addressed by one or another of the eight family names of Brown, Davis, Johnson, Jones, Miller, Smith, White and Williams, according to the lists maintained in the office of the Ohio Federation of Churches.

"Rev. Mr. Smith" appears fifty-seven times on the list and the Millers rank second in number with forty-five representatives. The other families have in the neighborhood of twenty ministers each.

Three card indexes of Ohio Protestant pastors are kept constantly up to date by the federation—one arranged by counties, one by denominations and one alphabetically by names.

It is the most complete existing list of Ohio ministers, according to Rev. B. F. Lamb, secretary of the federation, and serves as an invaluable means of keeping local pastors and the federation office in touch with each other.—.Columbus Dispatch.

Beavers Save Fish and Woods.

A very interesting fact in relation to the beavers of Maine has been brought out by the recent forest fires, being disclosed in the weekly report of Special Warden D. L. Cummings of Houlton and from a section about which complaints have been made to the Department of Island Fisheries and Game relative to alleged depredations of the beavers.

"On Wednesday, June 29, the fire I visited on the center line of township 7, range 4, is around a beaver pond of about three acres, giving them plenty of water," say Warden Cummings in his report.

"Lots of little trout died in these small brooks that are so nearly dried up and some quite so.

"The big fire township 7, range 3, on the northwest side of the railroad, the first of June, was also checked by a string of beaver ponds a mile long on township 7, range 4, in an alder swamp. It gave the fire fighters a chance to get it under control. It is on the same ground about which complaints have been made about the beavers and some wanted it opened to trapping. The beavers were doing no harm whatever.

"The beavers on those wild lands should never be exterminated. If there is a certain section where they are doing a little damage, clean that portion out—but our water supply is growing less every years as the forests are cut away. There are many cases where the beaver yards save the trout as well as our forests."—[Bangor Commercial.

HILLSIDE HOME MOST POPULAR.

Rustic Gate or Fence Helps to the Background by More Serviceable Places.

California home-makers, realizing that too much sentiment has been wasted over the cottage in the dell, have perched their homes on hillsides and canyon walls, where there is a command of view, and free play of air, to overcome the lack of picturesqueness of the dell. The dell cottage is easier to arrive at, but the hill-side home is more wonderful when you do reach it.

The Aristocrat of Gas Ranges

This superb Simplex Aristocrat is the finest gas range made. From top to bottom, it is immaculate white porcelain enamel, with heavy nickel trimmings. Its smooth, snow-white surface is easy to keep spotlessly clean. Broiler pan and drip tray are of porcelain enamel. The body is of Armco (rust-resisting) Iron. Four burners instantly lighted with push button—no matches needed. One burner heats baking oven and broiling oven. Ovens are lined with guaranteed non-rust aluminum alloy, and the Simplex patented glass oven door makes baking always visible.

SUNROOM NOW SERVICEABLE.

Porch of Olden Days, With Conglomeration of Furniture, Now Has Real Purposes to Serve.

In the old porch days any old chairs that had outgrown their usefulness in the house were relegated to the porch, and frequently a table or half-worn rug for the same reason would find its place with these chairs. Often these old pieces were given a coat of paint that they might at least be friendly on the basis of color.

About that time someone conceived the bright idea of three-piece porch furniture, consisting of a settee, a chair and rocker, generally painted red or green, and designed without the slightest thought as to comfort. But a little later old hickory furniture appeared and had much to recommend it; this furniture not only being artistic, comfortable and weatherproof, but made in a variety of designs to suit the most fastidious case.

But who can tell who it was who waved the magic wand that transformed the old-fashioned porch into the brightest, happiest room in all the home, the one we enjoy, the sun room.

ROOM OF ADVANTAGES.

The sun room or glassed-in porch has many advantages. Here we feel secure away from drafts, wind, rain and fog, mosquitoes and flies, and yet can enjoy just the amount of sunshine or air that we desire. Rooms of this sort are always inviting, because they radiate an atmosphere that makes us feel we can relax, just be ourselves and do as we please. Here we can take our sewing and not feel we are going to muss up any place, and it just seems the right cheery spot in which to smoke and think and dream; it is a place where the children can play and never hear the dreaded word "don't." In fact, it is often the saving grace, or harmonizing oasis in what might otherwise be a desert home.

The joy in decorating this room is that individuality can have unhampered its cherished fling. Here we can have birds, flowers, lattice-work or plain stucco walls, just as our hearts desire. The floor can be of brick, cement, tile or marble, or covered with such rugs as fit in with the spirit of the place like wool-fiber, Clearflax or hand-hooked rugs.

Oh the joy, comfort and beauty of the different kinds of furniture that can be used in this room of rooms! What could be more inviting than sunny quality-reed made in such a variety of comfortable chairs, chaise longues, tables, end tables, flower boxes, bird cages, etc., and still made brighter by linen or cretonne cushions to key in color with the window draw curtains. Then there is the frosted brown or gray fiber reed furniture, always restful, and the peel and sea grass and sometimes the lovely painted and enameled kind is just the right type needed.

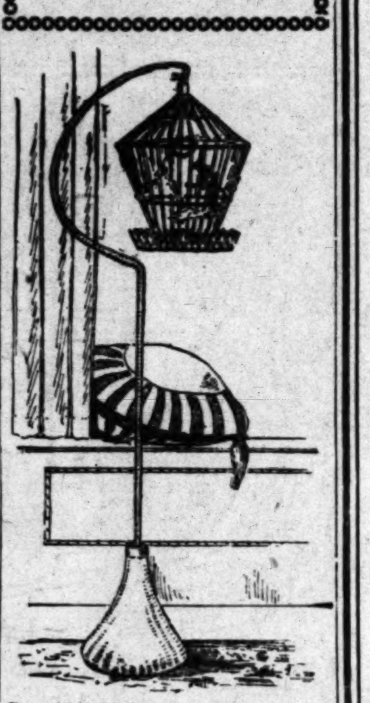
REAL SERVICE.

A sun room or glassed-in patio can often be made to serve three purposes: (1) That of a sun or porch room, (2) a year round living-room (3) if its proximity to the kitchen is sufficiently close it makes a delightful breakfast-room.

It is nice when this room looks out and leads into a garden. What real joy there is in co-operating with Nature in the developing of a garden that reflects the outward expression in the finest degree of our innermost soul, for here we are dealing with God-given instruments in our trees, shrubs, flowers and verdure.

We approach the planning of a garden much as we do the furnishing of a home, creating with trees and shrubs our background, and planning our floor spaces to fit our mood in greensward, flora, stepping stones or pool.

FOR THE SINGER.



Portable bird cage hangers are convenient.

Garden furniture is so charming today that it is a real pleasure to arrange it in little nooks and corners and devise little surprises here and there in a shaded love-seat or [illegible] or fish pond, a little stepping-stone walk that leads you no telling where, or a summer house, all cushioned and comfy or a vine-canopied gate with little benches beneath. In the shielded, shady spot it is now to find the couch swing, a broad comfortable lounging chair with extension stool, and by the table, filled with papers, periodicals and books, a place just made to rest and be quiet in.

Then it gives a spirit of hospitality to find a whole flock of chairs around a good-sized table under a big pepper or live oak tree, and a really useful look is given to the pool if benches are placed at either end for we just feel that they are ready to receive the bather when he comes up from his dip.

It goes without saying that the sundial and bird-bath are placed out in the open, but we can so arrange the furniture in our garden that it may form different centers of interest to fit in with our mood for either rest, gaiety or inspiration.

The Daily Fun Hour.

BY HONOR WALSH.

POLYGLOT SPELLING WASP.

This is greatly different from the ordinary spelling bee because it is at once more amusing and more complicated. The fact that hardly any player can manage to get the syllables right only adds to the fun, as the blundering attempts to construct the words are more comical than can be gathered from any description.

The English language is so largely a patchwork of other languages, the original Germanic foundation overlaid as it is by Latin, Greek, French, Italian, Spanish, Celtic and even Indian words, that there is little uniform spelling. A polyglot spelling of "kite," for instance, would be, the ch from chemistry, the ei from eiderdown, the phth from phthisis (pronounced "thisis,") and the ey from the end of the journey, or in total, ch-ei-p-th-ey, or k-i-t-e, as each syllable is pronounced. The word potato may be built the same way from hiccough (pronounced "hiccup,") dough, ptarmigan, neighbor, gazette and flambeau, thus, gh-ough-pt-eigh-tte-eau, p-o-t-a-t-o.

The leader may prepare a number of these words in advance, forming the letters from the syllables of variously pronounced words, such as colonel, bouquet, choir, unique, yacht, cough, chaos, gnat, knife, etc. The syllables of the new word should be separated for easier spelling, as in the example given. Each reconstructed word should be pinned upon the wall for a minute. The first player spelling the word as it is in the dictionary scores five points. Then a second word is put up and again the quicker speller scores five points. Game is 100.

SALES MANAGERS TO DEBATE CHAIN STORE.

Leo Chandler, vice-president of the California Bank, will address the meeting of the Sales Managers' Association this evening at the Athletic Club following the dinner which will start at 6:15 p.m. Mr. Chandler's subject will be "High Lights of the Bankers' Convention." The remainder of the program will be taken up by a debate on "Is the Chain Store the Coming Method of Distribution?" The affirmative will be presented by H. H. Lestico and H. L. Rosenberg and the negative by Joseph Daley and Clem Glass.

AT LEAST THAT.

"Mother, what is a black sheep in a family?" inquired a 6-year-old Columbus boy, who found the phrase while reading. The mother explained that the term is applied to boys whose conduct is not a source of pride to the other members of the family. She elaborated to some extent, thinking the time opportune for a wholesome lesson as to the proper behavior of boys in general. She said that little boys who failed to obey their parents and were naughty, would grow up to be the kind of men known as "black sheep."

The youngster was deeply impressed. He studied over the matter so long that his mother supposed it had gone from his mind. But presently he said: "Say, mother, Arthur is a black sheep, isn't he?" Arthur was a playmate who had often been guilty of boyish misdeeds, and who had sometimes been held up as an example of what a boy should not be. But he was the son of a neighbor, and the mother feared the boy might use the term and cause trouble, so she explained that while Arthur was naughty, he could hardly be called a black sheep. Her young son pondered deeply, then said:

"Well, mother, anyway, you'd surely call him a black lamb, wouldn't you?" — [Indianapolis News.]

Furniture for Homes of Taste

ROBINSON'S is equipped as never before to aid in home-making problems.

The Furniture Section pays particular heed to that important center of real homes: the living-room. Large or small, simply treated or carrying out its furnishings on a sumptuous scale, it is a room to which Robinson's can contribute much that is appropriate.

The Colonial Pieces Sketched

SPINET DESK that has many delightful drawers and convenient receptacles for letters, open—and when closed with a Batik runner placed across it, is a highly decorative piece of furniture. The one illustrated is of solid mahogany, $130.00.

Gate Leg Table that suggests an impromptu chafing-dish party before the fireplace. $28.75.

Priscilla Sewing Cabinet, in which one's sewing things always stay "put." The handle makes it convenient to carry the Priscilla about—and though it is of solid mahogany, it weighs but little. $10.75.

Windsor Chair with ornamented back. The charm of a Windsor is something that appeals to both men and women. $33.75.

Lamps and Shades

LAMPS with a personality are the kind one needs, for they are indeed a vital part of the furnishing scheme.

A forest of Lamps, some one has called it—the showing of Lamps at Robinson's. And indeed where there are great groups of slender standards it does seem a veritable forest.

The choice in mahogany or polychrome finish is almost endless. The Standards illustrated are of mahogany with one low price: $18.75.

The Shades are of parchment or silk in many lovely color combinations. They are likewise extra values at $18.75.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Mrs. F.: Please tell me of a couple of good games for a crowd of women to play. My husband belongs to a men's club which meets often and all the wives of these men go along and play games in another large room while the club meeting is going on. We want something jolly.

Answer: Here is a game that could make the Sphinx laugh: Each woman must bring with her an old suitcase, an umbrella and a separate skirt and coat (in the suitcase.) The suitcases are mixed up, then they are stood along the wall at one end of the room with an umbrella beside each one. At a signal the players must, in unison, each open a suitcase, take out the suit and put it on over their regular dress, close the suitcase, open the umbrella, then rush across the room to the other side and back again to the starting place, where they must take off the suit, put it in the suitcase and close the umbrella. There must be a time-keeper and the one who does all this the quickest, wins the game. The fun lies in the mad haste, the possibility of a stout woman's getting a little woman's suit (and vice versa,) and the unbecoming quality of the clothes (the more dowdy the suit, the better.)

Another game—a sort of trick game—is this: Put a flower in the center of the room on the floor. Stand the players around the walls. Appoint a time-keeper. Tell the players that you are going to whisper in each one's ear the name of a different bird and that when you afterward call out in turn the bird names given, each one must rush forward to pick up the flower; the one who does this the quickest after hearing his bird name called, wins. But here is what you actually do: You will whisper the same bird name in each person's ear so that when you call that name they will all rush forward at once! "Pigeon" is a good bird name to use. After whispering it all around, stand in a doorway and begin calling out, "Wren, Robin, Hawk"—and so forth, going down a long list of names not given: finally say, "pigeon" and each, thinking he is the only one who was given that name, will rush forward—and a jumbled heap of people will be the result.

V. T.: How can I keep my small cucumbers in good condition until I get enough of them to put up? I have only three hills.

A.: Keep them in brine. Fill a quart-size crock full of cold water and add enough salt to float an egg. They may lose their crispness, however.

A Reader: Please give correct amount of salt to be used in your recipe for dill pickles recently published. The recipe reads, "3 gallons of water and 2 of salt." Isn't this a mistake?

A.: Yes; it should have read, "Three gallons of water and 2 cups of salt."

Young Housekeeper: Is this menu suitable for a Sunday dinner: Cream soup, creamed potatoes, corn on cob, string beans, lettuce and tomato salad, ice cream and cake? Or should the salad course be served before the meat course?

A.: The menu is a very nice one, but I would advise you to have potato croquets instead of the creamed potatoes. When you have a cream soup you should not have a creamed vegetable. Variety is the secret of a tempting menu. The salad course comes between meat and desert, just as you have it.

M. B.: What will take a chocolate ice cream stain out of a tan crepe dress?

A.: Sprinkle spot with borax, place in cold water, let soak, then pour boiling water through it. There is danger, however, that it may remove the tan dye.

[All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.]

WHY

IS A PETITION CALLED A "ROUND ROBIN."

Many plausible theories have been advanced for the origin of the term, "round robin," but the most generally accepted is that this device of signing a protest, petition or remonstrance in a circle, thus concealing the order of signing, originated in France, where the official and military circles have long been noted for their punctilious exaction of the courtesies due from the inferior to his superior.

Because of this, any official protest from a subordinate was regarded as little less than mutiny and this, in turn, led to the "round robin"—in French, "rond ruban" or "round botton"—by which the offense of the individual was skillfully concealed in the general protest.

The most celebrated round robin in the English language originated at a dinner at the house of Sir Joshua Reynolds, the famous portrait painter, in London. Among those present were Edmund Burke, Edward Gibbon and others celebrated in the world of letters, all of whom were friends or acquaintances of Oliver Goldsmith. The epitaph written for the beloved poet by Dr. Samuel Johnson became the topic of conversation and various changes were suggested, which, it was agreed, should be submitted for the doctor's consideration. But the question arose as to who would have the courage to propose them to him, and it was agreed that there could be no way as good as that of the "round robin." The document was drawn up and signed, in a circle, by all present, requesting him to amend the epitaph to Goldsmith in Westminster Abbey and suggesting that it be written in English instead of Latin. Despite his fiery and distinctly obstinate disposition, Dr. Johnson accepted the round robin in the spirit in which it was intended and made the majority of the changes offered.

KEEPING PACE WITH NATURE.

Co-operation With Changes of Seasons in the Home Makes for More Pleasant Livableness.

wonderful plan nature has changing of her seasons to the harmony of her color leading us gently through time of early spring; continuing in full majestic summer robe. In the in South overjoyed at her bountiful harvest, she runs her gauntlet of color, pouring over all her foliage and flora every known tint and shade. Finally, exhausted in the race, droops and languishes into the neutral gray of winter, her quiet rest time.

Co-operating with the change of seasons works one of the greatest stimulating forces in life, that of "Dame Fashion." We bow down in faithful homage at her shrine and follow her example, knowing that we are made better by the changes she suggests.

As we change our clothing with appropriateness in style and design from season to season, in the same way we should realize the importance of change in our environment, that it may fit into the ideal and spirit of the times. Who would want to wear their white leghorn hat and sheer Swiss dress all winter, or be wrapped in velvet gowns and close-fitting furs in the heat of the summer? And in just the same way the idea applies with equal consistency in the required seasonable changes of the home.

In sunny California, where the seasons are less pronounced than in snowy winter sections, it makes a happy change if we act on the wise suggestion of nature and stem the monotony of the more even climate by creating for ourselves in our home furnishings that type of decoration which will accord with the season just ahead.

Just now a semblance of a cozy comportableness is what is most needed. The question arises: How can we accomplish this? "By turning our summer homes into havens of winter joys." New life and energy are often acquired through change of rooms, and it is not an expensive or difficult task to transform our cool, shadowy rooms into ones that are warm and bright.

It is a good plan to have two sets of curtains, those made of casement cloth, linen or cretonne that are put up in the spring to be enjoyed in the summer months, and replaced in the fall by draperies made of velour, damask, drapery silk or sundour, with underdraw curtains of silk, net or gauze. Then we want to lay aside the slip-covers which made our furniture seem so cool in the summer, that we may again see and enjoy it in beauty of form and line, warmth and comfort.

STAINING SUGGESTED.

It is advisable, if we have natural reed pieces which we wish to use with our mahogany or walnut furniture, to stain or enamel them the color of the furniture, that they may blend in friendly harmony with their surroundings. It is always satisfying to have the cushions in these chairs covered with the same upholstery fabric that is used on the other furniture. There are places where the natural reed pieces will fit in during the winter months if we do not care to change them—for instance, in a sun room, breakfast room or in an ivory-enameled bedroom.

It is a good thing to quietly sit down and study a room and make note of the changes that can be worked out in it that will add to its general beauty, comfort and livableness. It may lack music that a Victrola or player piano would supply, or we may find that it needs a davenport, bookcase or fireside chair to properly balance, or it may require lamps, a desk, end tables or stools for comfort, or inspirational pictures, mirrors, pottery and flowers.

We may find that we have been doing without some of the pieces of furniture that add much to the joy of living, as a Martha Washington cabinet, a tea wagon or a chaise longue, and in summing up our problem we find we are in one accord with Browning: "The common problem, yours, mine, everybody's, is not to fancy what were fair, providing it could be, but first finding what may be, and make that fair, according to our means."

MAKING PEARLS.

Japanese Enterprise Requires Seven Years and Infinite Patience.

To the north of the sheltered Bay of Agu, a dozen miles from the famous Shrine of Ise, is the Island of Tatoku, the center of Kokichi Mikimoto's pearl culture enterprise.

Before the industry started the tiny island was uninhabited. Now it supports a flourishing colony of many families all connected in some way with the pearl-oyster culture. Other branches of the enterprise have recently been established in the Bays of Gokasho and Hasama, in the province of Ise, the Omura Bay of Kiushiu, and the Ishigaki Island of Okinawa, the total covering an area of 10,000 acres.

The oysters cultivated on these grounds are of the true pearl variety, which are abundant in these waters, although found more or less in all waters around Japan. They bear a very close resemblance to the Indian species, which experts consider the best to be found.

The oysters are rather small in size, usually 3½ to 4 inches in diameter, and are not quite so delicate as the larger Indian species. The shell is very thin, and the inner surface is lined with nacre of a silvery white. The average depth at which they are found is about forty-eight feet.

In July and August the divers employed on the Mikimoto farms place small pieces of stone on the oyster beds where the oyster larvae are most abundant. In a short time little "oyster spats" are formed on the rock fragments which are then removed to deeper waters where they remain for three winters.

At the end of the third year they are taken from the water and placed in the operating theater under the pearl culture scientist's microscope. An operation is very delicately performed whereby a small pearl seed or mother-of-pearl is inserted into the oyster's liver. This "foreign" matter sets up an irritation, and the oyster covers it with a stipple in perfectly even layers forming the pearl.

After the operation the oyster is returned to its bed in the ocean and left for another four years. At the end of that period it is again brought up by the divers and returned to the operating theater, where the pearl is removed in readiness for the market.

Pearl culture, though it seems simple, is beset by a hundred and one difficulties of a costly nature.

Pearl oysters die from a number of causes. And there are the uncertainties of waiting for the pearl that may never come, and the invasion of the "red-current," an accumulation of microscopic organisms which discolor the water, producing a ruddy appearance, which affects the oyster and renders the pearls valueless.

In specific gravity and in the formation of successive nacreous layers the cultivated pearls are identical with the natural gems. They can be produced in three colors—white, pink and dark blue.—[Continental Edition London Mail.

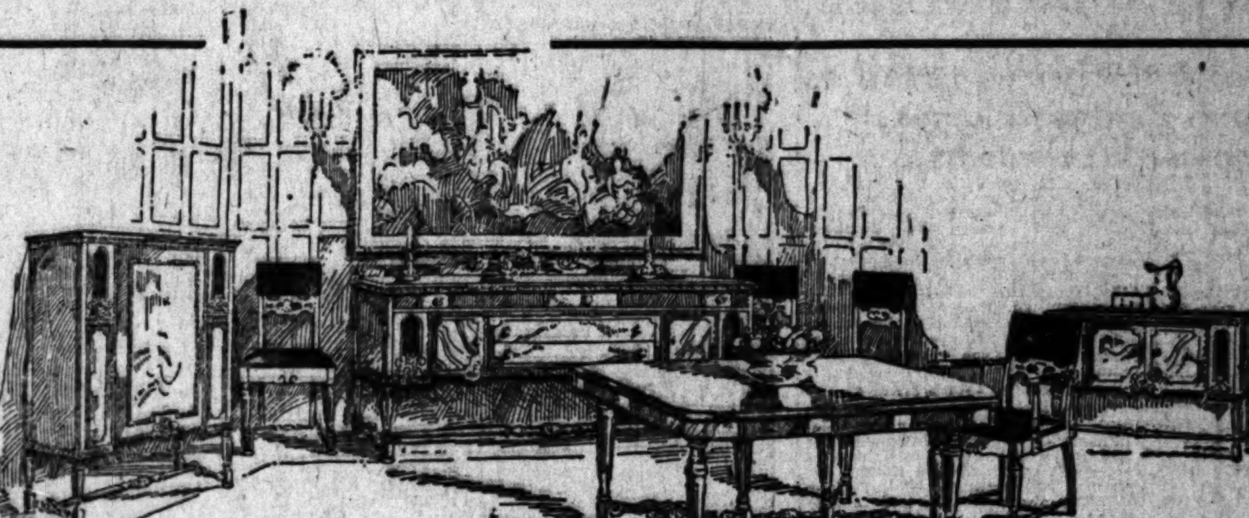
"Half a Century of Service"



For More Than Half a Century—

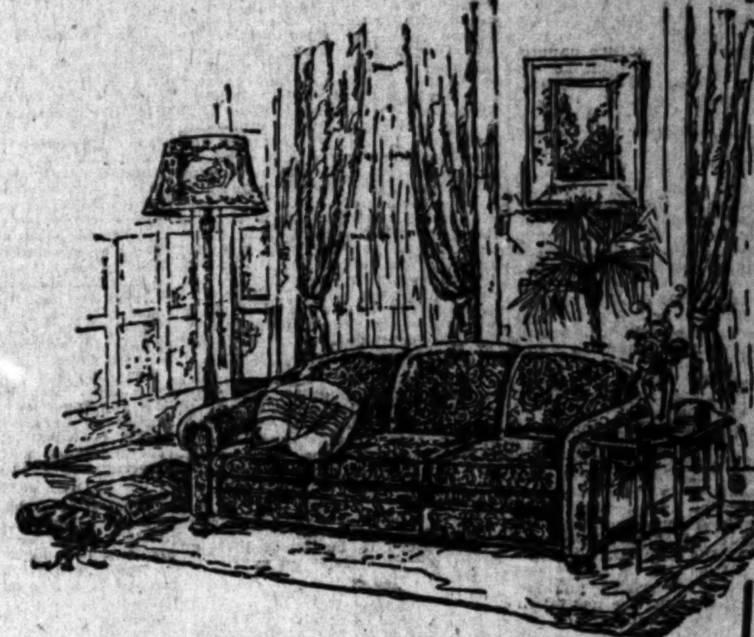
THE Los Angeles Furniture Company has followed the trend of public taste and wishes, always keeping just a step ahead, watching and aiding the development of Furniture Fashions that have resulted in the present distinctive style found in Southern California.

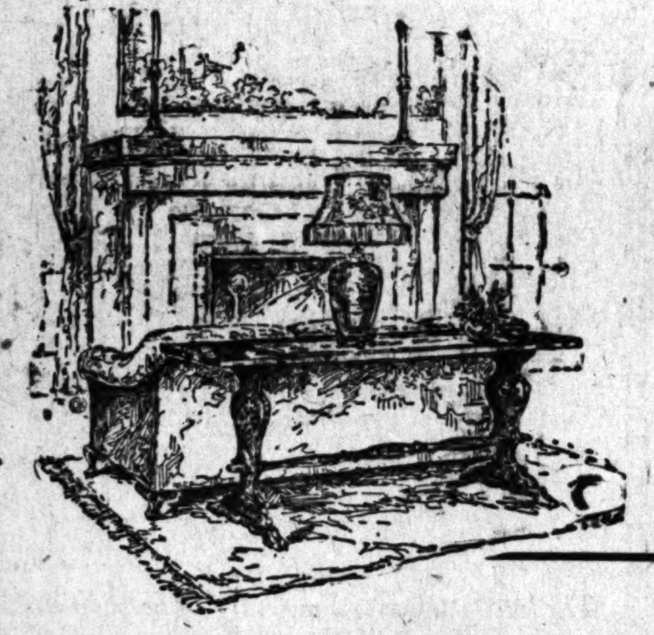
THE furniture that you will see as you go from floor to floor at The Los Angeles Furniture Company typifies the styles that have proven themselves most beautiful and adaptable to this Southland—artistically and practically. It likewise represents the newest and most charming expressions of those styles.

During this week of Furniture Fashions

THE Los Angeles Furniture Company hopes to prove itself not merely a house of fine merchandise, but a treasure house of ideas as well. We hope to have hundreds of visitors, and we will endeavor to make each visit one of intense interest and value in home furnishing. We feel that this is a golden opportunity to cooperate with the decided tendency for more beautiful homes here in Los Angeles, and we feel, too, that we have much distinctive furniture to offer.

AS representative of "furniture of personality," we think you will enjoy viewing in particular the unusual Italian dining room suite illustrated above. It is a masterpiece of finish, of texture, of coloring and design. Its intricacy of inlay, and the combination of gilt with its black velours upholstery is beautiful beyond words. This is but one of many distinctive suites at The Los Angeles Furniture Company.





Italy, Spain and California

HAVE a balmy atmosphere and blue skies in common. Hence the tendency towards Italian and Spanish architecture, with the corresponding need for Italian furniture. Hence, too, the unusual selection of Italian pieces found at The Los Angeles Furniture Company.

WE heartily urge you to visit the Los Angeles Furniture Company during this 1921 Fashion Week—but we wish to impress also that you are always welcome here, for we consider that helpful ideas are part of the service tendered by "the Oldest Home Furnishing House in Los Angeles."

CHINTZ GOOD FOR GUEST'S ROOM.

May be Furnished With Pieces of Spanish Peasant Stuff.

For the seeker after simplicity, yet in keeping with the Spanish design in homes, so popular now in Southern California, why not a guest room hung with some delightful chintz, and furnished with pieces of Spanish peasant furniture? They may be had in old ivory and coral, decorated with clear colors, such as the oval-painted headboard in the bed and quaint chairs and old chests to match. Solid gold posies—marigolds on a yellow pottery vase on such a chest, and slim candlesticks of yellow flanking a dull blue bowl of nasturtiums — cannot you see the ecstatic glance the lucky guest will cast around? The only complication might be—a prolonged visit!

TRAINING IS GRANTED.

Thirty-seven Ex-Service Men, Women Awarded Vocational Courses.

Thirty-seven ex-service men and women have been granted vocational instruction under the Rehabilitation Act, according to a statement issued yesterday by the local office of the Veeran's Bureau, 860 Wilcox Building, where the successful applicants should make arrangements for entering upon their training.

During training the men will receive $100 or more per month from the government to pay their living expenses.

The list of men granted training follows:

Porridge Was Thin.

Little Frances, age 3, was eating breakfast at the home of her grandfather, in Greenwood. The oatmeal porridge was a little thinner than usual that morning. The little miss looked intently at her grandfather for some time, as he was eating his porridge, and then broke the somewhat protracted silence with the remark: "Grandfadder, you sound like soup."—[Indianapolis News.

DISRAELI "JOLLIED QUEEN VICTORIA.

It was, after the untimely death of her husband at the age of 42, that Queen Victoria became the victim of a settled melancholy. For twenty years after that event she continued to wear mourning, took little or no interest in the social life of her subjects, and made a slave of herself in her correspondence and in her interviews with her ministers on public questions and the details of government. It was not until Disraeli became Premier that the Queen emerged from the shadow of bereavement. He fascinated her by his rhetoric and poetic style of address. Gladstone used to speak to her as if she was a public meeting, but Disraeli remembered that she was a lonely woman with a hungry heart. He fed this hunger in letters that were almost affectionate in tone. He called her Gloriana and Titania, queen of the fairies, and in a thousand similes ministered to her self-esteem. He waved the magic wand of flattery and Titania began to enjoy life once more. So the Queen in her old age became popular with her subjects and revealed those mellow graces, those milder attributes, that made her beloved and revered at home and abroad. Mr. Strachey gives the complete picture of Her Majesty, but to those of us who lived in the closing decades of her wonderful reign she will always seem to be invested with the halo of goodness and personal charm.—[Winnipeg Tribune.

NICKLE FOOT-RAIL HELPS COMFORT.

New Tubular Bar is Good Place to Rest Feet While Reading.

For the man of the house, whose instinctive fondness of a rest place for his tired feet after a chilly day outside causes him to wish for a convenient level on which to rest them when reading the paper, there is a type of foot-rail which is attachable to any radiator, and being substantially constructed of heavy brass tubing, nickel-plated, it is an excellent investment for comfort.

A policeman had found a dog and returned it to the mansion from which it had strayed. The nurse-girl took the animal from him; at which the constable inquired:

"Do you have to take care of the dog?"

"Oh, no!" returned the maid. "The missis says I'm too young and inexperienced—I only look after the children!"—[London Weekly Telegraph.

IDEAL NURSERIES PLANNED FOR SOUTHLAND CHILDREN.

Furniture Particularly Adapted to Little Ones Feature Homes, Playrooms, Workrooms.

In the early days, the golden age was so designated because it was peculiarly the age of happy carefree childhood, before the responsibilities and troubles which beset later life had escaped from the carved chest in which they were confined. The earth seemed made for little people, and their wants and pleasures were of paramount importance.

If the last few decades have been particularly the woman's age, when the rights and privileges of femininity were conceded generally and womanhood took its high untrammeled place in the industrial and work-a-day world, then that present age may be called the children's age, for surely never before has so much attention and study and care been spent on the welfare of the children of the world, and the rising generation is most certainly profiting by the attention.

The tiny miss likes her own dressing table in these days.

Southern California seems particularly fitted to be the Paradise of Children. Sensing the opportunities it offers, citizens from all over the country move hither because they seek the chance to live happily and wholesomely as well as to prosper, and those who have children invariably consider making such a change because this part of our country seems made for the youngsters.

OUT-OF-DOOR LIFE.

Where else could they be out of doors practically the whole year? Where else could they develop physically all-round, swimming, hiking, playing out-door games, enjoying outdoor dancing and typical California sports, during the long happy months? What other schools in the whole country measure up to the State system by which our children receive every attention and training along every line, fitting them for citizenship and life in its broadest sense, rich and poor alike, theirs for the taking?

Because Southern California does offer this to the children their families consider this as near like that old Grecian idea of the Paradise of Childhood in the golden age as is possible for this modern world to produce, and ours is essentially a settlement of homes wherein children are the important members.

But it is not enough to consider one's duty done when one has taken up abode in a pleasant land of opportunity. From scientific study during long years we have learned that their earliest surroundings play an important part in forming the future tastes of children, and that their sensitive natures demand an environment with an atmosphere that means home. They are in the plastic stage, and it is vastly more important that they be moulded and guided, however unconsciously, by their surroundings, than by the precepts and directions we might hammer into them, the while they sit stiffly on big chairs in a grown-up atmosphere! How we shudder instinctively when we recall those early little Americans, the Pilgrim children, perched sedately on hard benches, staring at rugged walls, listening as patiently as they might to the droned advice and sermons of their austere elders! True, they made wonderful men and women, but of the harder types, and one cannot help but wish that they might have had a bit more of the "joie de vie" in their childhood, and happiness and beauty in their maturity!

THE SUNNY NURSERY.

It is indeed a far cry from the inglenook bench, where he might be seen, but not heard, of the Puritan child, to the little Californian of this golden age in his sunny nursery. In the average house there is at least a nook, a den, or a sun-parlor, where the children may reign supreme and most houses can easily give up one big room for a nursery. A new car demands a garage, and find one the owner will, or build one on—however difficult the annexation is assured. Why should not the child, or children in the household warrant the same consideration? Often it is just because the home-makers have never thought of it at a sufficiently long stretch. The new baby has slept in a bassinet near mother's bed, his tiny wearables have had a wee bureau, or a corner in daddy's chifforobe. As he grows, his own little rocker is tucked in next to Dad's morris chair, and when the second little one arrives, brother's crib is moved into grandmother's room to make space for the newly draped bassinet. Make a corner for the youngsters, all their own—make it four big corners, with lots of floor space between, and if necessary, sacrifice the living-room, or merge into the dining-room—do without the study, or the extra bedroom, which is only used once in a great while, but do manage a room of their own for the youngsters. There may be attic space which is so easily and inexpensively transformed, with beaver board and paint, and some big windows cut in, into a spacious happy land for the kiddies. A porch may be built on, and inclosed—there's a way, alright, and likewise, there's a reason. What youngster can resist the delightful appeal of a well-planned nursery decorated, and planned for his special needs? Who ever heard of a criminal developed in a happy, wholesome atmosphere? What boy or girl has time to seek outside mischief and demoralizing companionship when a room specially designed for his needs and happiness is insistently calling him more loudly than the musts and must nots of his parents? In this week specially devoted to better homes, let us begin with the real, real reason for better homes, the coming generation.

SCIENCE, ART UTILITY.

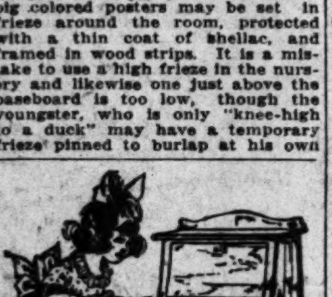
Fortunate are those who can build with the idea of having an ideal nursery, and include in the planning and decorating of the house the suite set apart for the young folk of the family. Everything will be done decently and in order, and the resources of science, art and utility fully drawn upon in the beginning.

And yet fortunate is the family, the average everyday family, who wishes a better home, and must plan and contrive and consult before it is accomplished, for happiness lies as much in the doing as in the having, and the actual needs and individualities of the Heir Apparent and the Small Princess are deciding elements in the completing of the home.

When possible, the nursery should have a sunny aspect, favoring south and west windows. During the long summer the youngsters are mostly out-of-doors, so it is much better to chose a room warm in winter than for coolness in summer. Everything in it should be sanitary, and washable, the ceiling, walls and draperies, the last of which there should be as few as possible. Painted walls or those treated so they may be washed are to be preferred, for they may be retinted from time to time at small expense. However, there are those who have a weakness for wall paper, both because delightful effects are to be obtained with it, and because the walls can be repapered from season to season, and for these there are charming papers specially planned for children's rooms, quaint Kate Grenaway designs from England, with their high-waisted little girls in big bonnets or frilled mob-caps, their slim laddies, their hoops and parasols and garlands. Dancing across daisy-starred grass, boating on placid lakes in the wake of stately swans, perched on rustic stiles—who would not open sleepy eyes on such charming scenes each morn, with a positive delight in the sunshine? France offers the picturesque little peasants of Boutet de Monvel, clattering to school in their blouses and wooden sabots, playing Gallic games beneath stately poplars, driving the placid bovines to pasture.

WALTER CRANE DESIGN.

Then there are Walter Crane's designs, always popular, and these big colored posters may be set in frieze around the room, protected with a thin coat of shellac, and framed in wood strips. It is a mistake to use a high frieze in the nursery and likewise one just above the baseboard is too low, though the youngster, who is only "knee-high to a duck" may have a temporary frieze pinned to burlap at his own eye-level, but the pictures should be hung with a view to the most convenient gaze of the children. The walls should be attractive, but not overstimulating, with too pronounced design, and while preference should always be given to the childish predilection for cheerful colors and designs it certainly does not follow that crudities and overstimulation are to be indulged in because "the children adore bright things."



The use of her own writing desk helps to develop habits of system and order in a little girl.

Large, low windows are necessities and broad seats or sunny bays may be built in, with an eye to cupboards beneath for the storing of toys and playthings. Shelf room is important. In one nursery, where there are several children, shelves encircle the whole room and the small boys have set up a whole railway system on it with buildings, tunnels, etc., and the patient work of their hands does not have to be taken up for the broom every day. A low built-in bookcase holds the children's story books and in this nursery each kiddie has his special set of low shelves for his special treasures—shells and stones for wee brother, stamps for bigger brother, butterflies and paper ladies for sister. It is a good idea to have one glass-doored cupboard in the children's domain wherein may be kept the special treasures—the doll and quaint toys uncle brought from France, mother's childhood tea set, the delicate coral specimens and mementoes of travel. For to admire and for to see these remain behind locked doors, only taken out for careful handling at story time or on special occasions. Familiarity breeds contempt and we should take a leaf from Victorian what-not days and teach our youngsters, by precept and cupboard practice, the joys of special occasions, company manners and their ilk, in direct back swing of the pendulum of free-and-easy Americanism.

PRIDE OF OWNERSHIP.

It is most important that children acquire the pride of ownership at an early age, and respect for the rights of others, and nursery-cupboards and nursery rules are among the best teachers there are. The boy who acquires this wholesome respect is he who unconsciously retains it in manhood and whose neighborliness and citizenship are direct results of meddle-not-take-not, precepts and practice of childhood. Far fetched? Not at all. The young hoodlum who carelessly, thoughtlessly, or wilfully defaces public property and ill-treats parks, is a nuisance on the streets of the city with his scattered paper, and appropriation of space, and belongings of others, certainly never had his own rights respected in his youth, nor was made to respect the rights of marbles, tops, of coat-hangers, and place-round-the-fire, of others! Nurseries mold citizens, well or illy.

Away from moralizing to furniture! Of course, the furnishings of the kiddies' domains should be relative in size. No wonder Peggy's chin is smudged, she couldn't feel it, and she has to climb a chair to see into the high mirrors. No wonder Dick's hair is ruffled for lunch. He couldn't see into the glass without tiptoeing tiresomely, and he can hardly reach his brush. Furniture of sensible size which fits the needs of the children is what they have a right to. It is on the market at reasonable rates, specially designed for them, and if you must make over furniture, or adapt what you have, and the needs of your purse, there is the simple expedient of sawing off legs, or adjusting castors, and there you are. Ownership again—make him responsible for his own part of the wardrobe or drawers of the dresser, if he cannot have one all his own, and those things will be more carefully put away. I-can't-find flies out of the window when a-place-for-everything comes in at the door—literally, not just precept.

TO AID LITTLE ONES.

The littlest one can be assisted in picking up his ow nthings and putting them into place when beddy-bye draws near, and every single thing in the nursery has a right to a comfy night, as well as the small liege lords. Furniture should be easily cleansed—enameled or finished so that it may be wiped off. Painted furniture is especially good for youngsters, for it admits of cheerful variations, and charming pieces are on the market. A dainty dresser like mother's, with individual manicure set, etc., is the best preventitive for rough hair, smudged cheeks and ill-kept nails known and small chifforobes, bookcases, tables, beds, etc., may be had in sets, and a variety of designs, or separate pieces may be chosen for an harmonious ensemble. Furniture with round corners is advisable where there are tiny toddlers going through the stumbling age, and sharp corners and dangerously crowded quarters are always to be avoided where small feet trip merrily—or heedlessly.

GOOD MATTRESSES.

Beds should always be chosen with special attention to tired little bodies, which need firm, comfy mattresses, and plenty of room. When possible the sleeping porch should adjoin the nursery and the playroom be separate from sleeping quarters, but this is not always feasible in the average house, so the small beds, low cribs and comfy couches must find their way in airy alcoves. Nursery screens of bright design help immeasurably in assuring absence of draughts in the airy quarters, and also in helping to keep day and night activities comparatively apart. H.R.H. may have a cane-and-wood bed, or ivory enamel with dainty garlands, or painted panels may enliven the downy, as Dick Swiveller termed it. Each child should, of course, sleep alone, and twin beds in mahogany or oak like mother's, or in cream enamel like big sister's may be chosen. The baby's crib may match or may be a special type of strong, light design fitting for his rosy lordship, and hygiene and science have evolved the very best there is for the wooing of sleep, which is so important in the development of the wee one.

DESIGNED FOR TOYS.

Chests and wheeled carts specially designed for toys and seesaws and swaying animals on which babykins may ride are among nursery furnishings easily obtainable in our big local furniture stores. There are luxuries, if you will—but why not?

A low tea-table with chairs to match is almost a necessity in the average family. The opprobrium attached to second table of the last generation, when one peered hopelessly through the banisters and saw the company eatin' the very last wing-o'-the chicken does not apply to the delightful parties one may have on one's very own tea-table while the guests are eating at mother's big table with the grown-ups. The tables maybe stained or painted and the pretty washable mats and covers on the market are most appropriate for napery or Japanese toweling to match the other furnishings. China may be selected from the standard table service of good design—not doll tea seats, but small pieces suitable for small hands, or special Dutch pottery or Japanese be chosen for nursery use.

BLUE PAGODAS.

The delightful blue pagodas airly depicted on blue Canton china make graham cookies taste heavenly, I'm told, while English willowware, with its quaint story in pictures, is always liked by children. Japanese china, when selected with a view to single birds and beasties, is of interest, and one may add soft yellow bowls, and dull blue mugs for foamy milk—quaint bread-platters of octogan jade-tint from Chinatown, and lovable pitchers to lend charm to the table service.

Each child a chair, is the old rule—but Mary has to be firmly reasoned with when the little company craves her Reed rocker, and when there is a party and seven candles on Cammilla's cake—in the elegant diction of childhood today, goodnight! Everybody want's to sit in Dickie's Windsor rocker, with its ivory and blue trim! Answer—a number of substantial cunning chairs just as mother can offer other than dad's Morris chair and her low rocker to her company. The come in sets, they come in standard types, to match the grown-up sets, in junior size—and they make for hospitality on occasions, and they make for rested small frames, feet on the floor instead of dangling, little backs gratefully erect against suitable rests for every day.

IDEAL LOW DESKS.

The low desk, like mother's, makes for good breeding in note-writing, thank-you-letters to grandmother when she sent the new book, R. S. V. P.'s, duly observed when Buddy asked them to his party. A larger desk when brother is in schools, with a light just right for him, helps him considerably in Palmer-system in his compositions, and he is not necessarily driven to do his school work, but is attracted to it by the conveniences thereof. Men often remark that women have so little comfort in their work-corners, while the masculine contingency must have desk, table, shop, tools, correct and convenient before thinking of starting work. How about the kiddies? Their work is important, why not all the conveniences and necessities, specially planned for their size and work?

Of course, there are a few general rules governing the furnishing of the successful nursery. It should, if feasible, have a fireplace, excellent for ventilation and for cheer, and, in conjunction with a furnace or other heat in extreme weather (!) just the thing for a nursery. A screen or guard makes it safe for the toddlers, and who can dream of anything cosier than the little group 'round it each evening before beddy-bye, while the story is told or read and confidences exchanged?

KEEP FLOORS CLEAN.

Floors, it is almost unnecessary to add, should be easily cleaned, not highly waxed for fear of accidents, and covered with small rugs clamped down to prevent slipping or stumbling. Rag rugs or those from the stores woven or braided of strips of bright new cretonne are always good. Cretonne hangings and draperies, when used sparingly, lend brightness, for the nursery lighting is important and cheerful indirect lighting best employed.

Pictures should not be confined to childish subjects, though these may be used and changed from time to time, but charming Japanese rolls or prints for nature study, one's favorite Madonna, or copies of the lovely children known to art in such pictures as The Age of Innocence, Boy Blue, Baby Stuart and their immortal friends are indispensable because of their influence.

Better homes! It's the best home when it contains a nursery and happy the family with the privilege of furnishing and the upkeep of one in this golden age of childhood!

India, "Heart of Asia."

India is said to be "the burning heart of Asia." That is to say, it has a genius for religion that is unsurpassed. Of the four great faiths which had their genesis in Asia, three were born in India. It is a land of 147 languages. Some of them are spoken by only a few people, but there are ten of these languages, each of which is spoken by 10,000,000 or more. Of every 100 people in the world, eighteen live in this one land. The latest census of India gives that land 318,132,537, 4,500,000 of them mendicants or holy men.—[Exchange.

"It says here: 'One of the idols most revered by any heathen is a figure of a woman, seated, resting her chin in her hands,'" said Mrs. Smith, reading from a book.

"Which proves that they are about the wisest people on earth," suggested her husband.

"Well," said Mr. Smith, with emphasis, "because they make a deity of a woman who has sense enough to give her chin a rest."—[Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

COLORS, PERIODS ARE BLENDABLE.

Can be Mixed in Room if Good Arranging Taste is Used.

It is a mistake to suppose that an effective furniture arrangement depends either on a striking color scheme or emphasis of any one period. In the average home a number of pieces in different styles may be happily combined if they are sympathetic in line. When placed in harmonious relation, one to another, they create a graceful and balanced grouping for a small room.

THE DECK TALKERS.

Conversation Overheard by Katie Spaeth on Steamer.

"Certainly, that's her, she, I mean. Always sounds funny to say that or 'It is I,' don't you think so? Yes, it's Susan Langley, or Longley, or whatever they call it. My husband asked the steward."

"You say it sort of queer, through your nose—Long long—as if there was a g at the end, only you leave it off. You know how funny French is."

"Yes, well, she doesn't look like a champion exactly, does she? You know what I mean, with that veil wound around her head and everything. I said to my husband last night, 'It seems a funny way to bring up a girl, running around the country playing a game and being conspicuous.'"

"I don't know what's got into young people nowadays. I wouldn't let Edith take up tennis; she's too high strung. She's inherited my nerves. They say this Miss Longlong is awfully nervous. The man at our table went up to her yesterday and said: 'I suppose you're going to put it all over our American women.' She looked awfully queer and just said, 'I beg pardon.'"

"Well, I suppose it was the slang. They say she speaks good English, but I guess slang like that would be the last thing you'd learn in a foreign language." — [New York Tribune.

I. N. Terrill of Vancouver, B. C., Was Oklahoma Legislator.

Ira N. Terrill, early day Populist leader in Oklahoma, member of the first Territorial Legislature back in 1890 and author of the first criminal statute of the territory (a considerable portion of which is still the law in Oklahoma,) has bobbed up again, according to news reports at Vancouver, B. C., where he is living temporarily until he gets letters patent or a machine which he describes as one "for controlling and causing rainfall and affecting the temperatures and for protecting persons and property from destructive forces of cyclones and tornadoes."

Terrill was a Populist leader in Kansas even before Oklahoma Territory was opened to settlement in 1889. Following the opening he became involved in a controversy over the ownership of a claim and shot and killed his opponent in front of the old government Land Office at Guthrie. He was convicted and sent to prison at Lansing, Kan., where Territorial prisoners were then kept. He bombarded each succeeding Governor and President to release him, and after he got out he began personal damage actions against Gov. pillows, shirred with with some color. An echo of the the black cushion may be found in the tiny taffeta roses which are grouped together, and behold, a thing of beauty and contrast in the pastel tints of the room!

One finds, in the big furnishing stores, cushions on whose construction and coloring as much time and taste have been spent as on paintings; orchid taffeta with a sash, gold and jade tassels depended from gold cords, or rich velvet combined with tapestry are being shown for floor cushions, the last words in smartness and richness.

TO MATCH FURNITURE.

Cushions and throws to match for the chaise longue, sometimes finished with picoted ruffle of taffeta likewise, in the color scheme of the room, may be obtained, or may be specially designed in the studios of the stores, they are things of beauty as well as joys forever, and so varied are the designs and materials used that the austere living-room, the luxurious drawing-rooms, the dainty boudoir or the sun parlor may be served appropriately from the various styles. Heart-shaped or oblong pillows in embroidered batiste, or in silk, or Madeira for milady's bower—bright cretonnes in piquant shapes await the sun parlor occupants.

Odd combination shapes developed in velour, galloon-trimmed, and garnished with the inevitable tassel hold court in more formal rooms, and often the bright spot of color afforded by the floor cushion is the very last tuch needed in rounding the harmony of the ensemble.

CAN BOAST OF OLEANDERS.

Wonderful Shades Grow in Popularity as Landscape Decorations.

California boasts oleanders of wonderful shades, and these are more and more popular, as they are so sturdy and such a delight to the eye. Oleanders in stone jars give a quaint Italian touch to a landscape modeled on lines of Bella Italia, and they make vivid bits of greenery and color against the rough stucco houses of Spanish type.

HOME.

[Reprinted by permission from Better Homes Magazine.]

O heart o' mine so steadfast, another day is born,
And I must take the winding road that leads into the morn—
The path that leads into the world, the world of toil and strife,
The path that leads to Victory, the path that leads to—Life!

Now by my side go countless men of strength and courage high,
All striding down the rugged road as hopefully as I;
And as each knight gone forth to fight in courtly days of yore
His ladye faire's own token bright upon his armor wore,
So do we wear our tokens—but wear them in our hearts;
We wear them as a talisman to guard from poisoned darts—
Each cherishes his guerdon, tho' different paths we roam,
The ideal he is fighting for, and each one calls it "Home."

O heart o' mine, when day is done and evening's sun is low,
My thoughts of love turn homeward as my eager footsteps go;
The shaded lights . . . the clean-swept hearth . . . the fire kindled there,
And drawn within the firelight glow awaiting me, my chair.

STYLES IN AWNINGS.

These May Be Purchased to Harmonize With Surroundings.

There is a style in awnings that is good and correct just as there is style and character in furniture.

Awnings may be purchased to harmonize with the scheme of things, and their cut, fit and coloring are important.

TO TALK OF BOSTON BEANS.

Former residents of Massachusetts are invited to attend the opening fall meeting of the State society tonight in California Hall, South Main and Thirtieth streets. President Paul W. Zimmerman will be in charge of the session and will outline a plan for the November dinner of baked beans and brown bread a la Boston.

JONATHANS TO FROLIC.

A stag party that will include music, singing, novelty dancing and vaudeville skits will be given tomorrow night at the Jonathan Club. The entertainment committee has arranged a diversified program for what is planned to be the first membership vaudeville dinner.

NEWSPAPER MEN TO ADDRESS AD CLUB.

Newspaper men will be the principal speakers tomorrow at a meeting of the Advertising Club in the ballroom of the Alexandria, according to the program announced yesterday by Chairman Irving R. Smith. William A. Thompson, director of the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, will talk on the need of the A.N.P.A. bureau of advertising and the need of a Pacific Coast office.

William F. Rogers, business manager of the Boston Transcript and chairman of the committee in charge of the bureau of advertising, will speak about "National Newspaper Advertising." Harry Chandler, president and general manager of the Times-Mirror Company, will talk on "Los Angeles Prosperity—the Outgrowth of Advertising." A program of vaudeville skits will follow the speeches.

AUDUBON SOCIETY TO MEET.

The Los Angeles Audubon Society will conduct a public meeting Thursday in the State Building, Exposition Park, at 1:45 p.m. The principal address will be on the subject of "Vacation Observations."

MODERN BED MAKES REST ACTUAL JOY

Rude Couches of Old Days Had Lines of Beauty, but Not Much Comfort.

"Sleep that knits up the ravel'd sleeve of care."

It was for sleep that poor tortured Macbeth sighed, and it is sleep which is the sustaining basis of good health. Contrary to careless opinion, it is not a passive state, but a function of bodily repair, dependent for its success upon complete relaxation.

"To sleep like a child" is an expression enviously used by grown-ups who for various reasons are denied the joys of perfect repose, and in the old days, when a comfortable bed was often a matter of luck, one might sigh in vain; but in these scientific times restful sleep is within the reach of everyone, and if there are members of your family who complain of not resting well it befits you as a homemaker to go a-seeking of the reason and to remedy it without delay, since so much depends upon it.

The early settlers might use beds of hit-or-miss pattern, since their activities and hardihood brought them deep sleep regardless of creaking frames and lumpy mattresses, or those smotheringly soft with down; our more complicated life requires better conditions, and especially for individual needs, for mattresses may be obtained, with a little care, which lend themselves readily to the individual physical requirements.

Beds which are soundless should one be restless are a necessity. Beds which are easily cared for is another. They may be obtained in any material and finish, and if the elaborate draperies of the luxurious Middle Ages are missing, one may still find diaphanous hangings which lend dainty frivolity to the feminine chamber which is a fit nest for Her Highness.

Yes, it takes more than an easy conscience to woo sleep, and the keeper of the home has a responsible task in seeing to it that her charges have the most restful, relaxing and comfortable resting places obtainable.

Sometimes in limited space there is the question of the extra bed. No longer threatened with the horrors of the old lounge, too short and narrow for comfort, the unattached cousin may be urged to stay overnight, for she will rest blissfully on the day-bed, which during the day is such a smart addition to the room and at night can be pulled out into such a comfortable resting place. Wall beds and disappearing beds, beds which may be rolled into the smallest possible space—they are all to be had for the particular need if one but searches, and the successful quest is repaid, probably more than with any other one piece of furniture, in rest and relaxation for the grateful recipient of the attention, and in better health and happier tone for the whole household.

Lyon & Healy
Apartment Grand Piano

1 The term "Apartment Grand" is exclusively the property of Lyon & Healy, secured to them by trade mark rights.

2 It is the only Grand Piano that presents an unfolding pedal, thus enabling little children to pedal properly.

3 It is the only Piano wired internally for electric candles. These candles need not be removed when the piano is closed.

4 It is the only Grand Piano which contains a device which reduces the volume of tone to that of a practice clavier. Any parent will testify to the value of this device in practicing.

A delightful display of this famous instrument in a number of finishes and styles may be seen in our piano salons.—Come and see it.

Music makes the Home!

IN ALL the world there is no force so compelling as music. Few of us realize its influence. Beautiful music inspires noble thoughts, noble acts. It is one of the world's greatest powers for good, lifting us out and away from things sordid—cleansing, purifying.

There should be music in every home — it is often the deciding factor in keeping you and your dear ones together—it is an irresistible magnet that lures others to your home. Its refining and uplifting influence guides the footsteps and molds the character of the young ones—gives them traditions to live up to—establishes ideals that they will always cherish.

Of no less importance than the position of music in the home is the selection of the company from which you secure your musical instruments. A company that has served this community for nearly two decades, as the Birkel Company has, is the city's logical "musical home." One of Los Angeles' oldest business houses, it has stood as an integral factor in the city's growth and musical advancement. The prestige of the Birkel Company is reflected in the character of the instruments it represents. Each individual article, whether a mouth organ or a grand piano, is recognized as the best in its respective field.

Among the representative instruments to be found at the Birkel Company are: the immortal Steinway Piano; Kurtzmann Pianos; the Duo-Art Reproducing Piano; Victor-Victrolas; the Vocalion; Conn Band Instruments and many other nationally-known instruments.

TABLE LEADER OF EVOLUTION.

Shows Growth of Better Home Ideal in Furniture.

Days of Severe, Square Dining Board Have Passed.

Variety of Conveniences is Vast in Its Scope.

No one article of household use shows the evolution of the furniture ideal, in its application to the "better homes" movement, as does the table, in the opinion of a professional furnisher.

It is not so many years, as this man sees it, since a table in the average home was merely a table. In the dining room, meals were served on it three times a day. It was round or oblong and its measurements were invariably the same. In the sitting room or living room it held books, magazines, a lamp, sometimes a vase of flowers and, in every nine cases out of ten it was firmly intrenched in the exact center of the room. Outside of these two varieties there was the writing table occasionally to be found in a bed room—and, oftener than not, this table was heaped and piled with a motley collection including almost anything classifiable except writing materials. Here, except in rare instances, the invasion of the table into the home was abruptly checked.

Today, it is a barren house as to furnishings, that does not boast a collection of tables including half a dozen types or more, each dedicated to a special purpose. In many homes the dining-room table—and, for that matter the dining room, itself—has vanished. There may be, instead, a breakfast room serving all the needs of the dining room of yore, and furnished with an attractive formality the regulation dining-room could never boast, in one of the charming and colorful breakfast sets of painted wood. Or the breakfast-set idea may be carried out in a drop-leaf table and Windsor chairs of mahogany. There is likely to be in addition a side of serving table to match, which only remotely suggests the clumsy sideboard of ten or twenty years ago.

UBIQUITOUS TEA TABLE.

Either in the breakfast-dining room or in the living room there will be found a tea table which may be of the ball-bearing, rubber-tired "silent servant" type, propelled from place to place on wheels, or one of a dozen newer kinds, high or low, round or crescent-shaped, but with a top kept bare of other objects than the legitimate tea tray. For this use the "occasional" or "now-and-then" table is much in demand. One of these dainty, light little tables may be pulled to the elbow of the lounger in a big easy chair, when it is not doing duty as a tea standard, to hold an extra reading light, a writing pad, smoking paraphernalia, a sewing basket, or anything else that needs support and makes for comfort.

There are almost as many sorts of sewing tables, "Martha Washingtons," "Priscillas" and the like, as there are writing tables and desks. The latter category may even be stretched to include the dignified colonial "secretary," with its diamond paned glass doors screening book shelves above the desk; but the secretary, in family, is near-kin to the renaissance cabinet, rather than to the table tribe.

CONSOLE POPULAR.

So, also, is the console, one of the most beautiful and dignifying articles of furniture which may be placed in a room and one that is being used with greater frequency as its fine effect comes to be more appreciated. The davenport is, of course, responsible for the davenport table, which has narrowed and stretched from the broader, oblong library table of the "mission" period to a happier and more artistic state of being. In this connection one might interpolate that, in many rooms, there is too much davenport table along with an over-surplus of davenport—"Chesterfield" as our British cousins call the comfortable, lounge-y piece. All rooms planned for places of family assembling, are not proportioned to hold davenports and, by the same token, there is no unalterable law decreeing that, where the davenport is, there the table must be, also. But it is generally done and, in general, it is an arrangement that makes for comfort and a homey atmosphere.

The davenport has brought, in addition to the long, narrow table invariably placed at its back, the convenient little end table—another manifestation of the "now-and-then" table, which may be drawn up beside any seat, or which, in a room of a more formal arrangement, is decorative when it holds a bowl of flowers or some object d'art.

Gate-leg tables, tipping-top tables and nests of three or four small straight-legged tables are by no means new or modern features of home furnishing, although there are many furnishers of rooms who are only now coming to appreciate them as artistic assets. Of mahogany and in the proper atmosphere of "English" or "colonial" interiors, they are altogether desirable and delightful. They serve many purposes beside that of being ornamental.

Of small reading tables there is an ever-increasing variety and no article of living-room furniture designed so far is, perhaps, so acceptable with the chronic reader as one of these. Especially to be chosen is the low, oval-shaped table, curved on one side and with its standards so wide apart that it may be fitted over the reader's chair. When a book trough is added beneath at a height to escape the reader's knees and there is a reading rack at the right angle and a depression at one end for smoking things, in the opinion of almost any male of the species, the last word in table comfort has been uttered.

PINE STILL USABLE.

Pine was the mainstay wood of our forefathers, and may be used most effectively in wood-trim and in furniture.

WROUGHT IRON LAMP.

A wrought iron desk lamp in black and gold, with parchment shade, is particularly good on the old Italian desk or chest of drawers.

Suitable for Porches or for Interiors.

Above, a porch converted into a living-room. Below, a sun room given a semblance of a study by well-chosen pieces of wicker furniture.

Hill Home Maker Has Chances to Beautify Place.

One of the opportunities the home-maker-on-a-hill has is the enchanting possibilities of gardening on different levels.

Terraces for formality, odd shelves, rocky niches and gentle slopes for individuality.

REED FURNITURE FITS US.

"Living in Southern California, one certainly feels a demand for an automobile, with such roads as you have," is an oft-heard remark, and by the same token, living in Southern California, with the weather we have, one certainly feels the urge for the possession of reed and wicker furniture, "Golden" is descrintive of California, where so many months are sunshiny continuously, and nothing gathers up and holds this same sunshine as reed furniture does. The patio so popular here, the terraces, the wide porches, narrow balconies and ubliquitous sunrooms, all of them fairly demand furnishings which fit, and which have the added faculty of being easily moved when the welcome rainy days suggest firesides within. Then does the reed furniture seem to have absorbed the cheer and warmth of sunshine and stored it up specially to radiate it in cloudy and gloomy weather.

Reed furniture is ideal for such uses. Pleasantly light and flexible, it is easily transferred from one corner to another, and its adaptability makes it welcome in any room in conjunction with any other type of furniture. Woven of the natural reed in all shapes, locally, or fashioned of fiber or painstakingly made in China of sea-grass, every variety of this type of furniture is attractive, and the studios of local furniture stores have cunningly tinted, frosted and decorated the different kinds until they are offered in a bewildering variety of effects. There are the same old stand-bys in shapes and uses, augmented each season by the new and attractive shapes and finishes, to tempt the taste that likes variety.

For family gathering, for the receiving of callers in the pleasantest spot on the place, comfy reed chairs and davenports grace halls, porches, sunrooms and patios. Cushioned in bright cretonnes and fairly exuding hospitality, they await occupancy, and who shall say that their quiet insistence on acceptancy does not emphasize the host's spoken words? The graceful chaiselongue and bay bed, which so happily remind one of sun bath and siesta, are to be had in various forms and effects, and the numberless attractive tables of willow and reed are positively indispensable in every nook in the house. From the small end tables which hold one's book or teacup or ash tray unobtrusively at one's elbow, by davenport or easy chair, to the breakfast table, which is a positive dare to be anything but cheerful over one's toast and bacon, these tables come in any and every size, and their very lightness and durability are an incentive to add them to one's collection of tables. A reed tea wagon to trundle to the terrace afternoons, laden with tinkling trays and alluring viands—a reed desk snug in a tiny corner, inviting delayed correspondence—what home, having acquired these, will not wonder how it ever existed happily without them?

BIRD BATH ENLIVENS NOOK IN THE GARDEN.

A bird bath will enliven your favorite garden nook by bringing to it the twittering and splashing of feathered songsters. One may obtain modern reproductions of antique forms of inexpensive pottery, bird baths and fonts, fountains, vases, sundials, ferneries and many others.

POST AND PALING IDEA STILL HOLDS.

For the old-fashioned garden the colonial post and paling is ideal for fence and gate. Placing the palings farther apart than in olden days allows a glimpse of garden beyond, and when twining vines and Rambler roses soften the effect it is delightful in the extreme.

Harmony in Lighting Fixtures.

When one's furnishings are Adams, Sheraton or Eighteenth Century, it is possible to obtain charming lighting fixtures quite in the spirit of the Old Masters, which harmonize with the furniture and decorations.

Complete Your Living Room
With A Victrola

The room needs no other musical instrument when you have a Victrola, because a Victrola is all instruments in one, and anybody can play it. Standard models will adorn any room and any suite of furniture, while the period designs are works of art which embody all that is finest and best in historic craftsmanship.

Look around your living room and see if there is not one spot just made for a Victrola—a spot where nothing else looks quite as well. We shall be pleased to supply you with the instrument most appropriate in style. Come and see our stock.

MY GARDEN.

My garden's a place where roses grow,
Where I commune with God.
I love the trees, the flowers, the sky,
The stepping-stones I trod.

I love the hollyhocks that grow
Close by my garden wall,
I love the glistening water pool
And the fountain's constant fall.

God's great choir invisible,
In my garden's spot I find,
Here song birds sing and glad hearts bring
Sweet converse from the mind.

THINGS TO REMEMBER.

Utility, Strength and Beauty Three Necessities in Home.

The home-builder should remember that the three basic requirements, regardless of type, money and surroundings, in home building, are utility, strength and beauty.

The first is dependent on skill in interior arrangement, while strength and beauty have to do with the material employed.

ARTISTIC CURTAIN RODS.

They May Be Had With Curved Ends to Allow Full Drapings.

In selecting curtain-rods, it is wise to choose those with artistic curved ends, for they give ample shade room, and also permit draping clear to the casing, shutting out side-glare.

Rods may be obtained in velvet brass or white metal finish, according to taste.

FIRST GLIMPSE INSIDE.

Well Fitted Hallway Is Necessity of Well Appointed Home.

One sees homes which are carefully planned and furnished, with the exception of the hallway.

When the front door opens and a cheery well-informed hall greets the eye, the simplicity and character expressed make a strong impression, which may be confirmed by the rest of the house.

LIBRARY COMFORT.

Deep-seated sofas and chairs make for comfort in the seclusion of the library, while the stately secretaire and walnut table contribute an equal measure of usefulness and distinction.

POSSIBILITIES IN GARDENS MANY.

Rustic Gate or Fence Help to Make Flower Spots More Attractive.

Los Angeles and its surrounding towns are full of lovely gardens, many of which are walled or fenced in, and nothing produces so natural an effect as the rustic gate set to break either the stone wall or the rustic fence.

The possibilities in garden gates is usually overlooked; wrought iron for the Spanish type of home, dignified archway for the Colonial garden, brick and wood combined for other places—there are many possibilities of charm and fitness when one stops to consider the subject, and one's cinnamon pinks or tall hollyhocks are all the more alluring glimpsed through the half-revealing, half-concealing entrance.
